Nixon asks $21 billion to overhaul railway system, mass transit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Spurred by the energy crisis, President Nixon asked Congress today to enact a $21 billion program designed to overhaul the nation's creaky mass transit and railroad systems.

One phase of the program called for a unified transportation assistance program, with almost $16 billion set aside for urban mass transit systems, subways and buses in major cities. An additional $3.4 billion go to develop transportation in small cities —under 50,000 — and rural areas.

Nixon also asked Congress to approve a $2 billion transportation improvement act to end the "gradual deteriorating" railroads.

In a message to Congress, Nixon called for "revitalizing our railroads" to make them a "healthy alternative form of transportation for moving people and freight."

The President said his mass transit program was aimed at giving cities flexibility needed to solve their individual transportation problems.

"The recipients could spend the money not only on capital improvements, such as new buses, new rail cars, new rapid transit systems, and noninterstate highways, but on any other transit need they might have," he said.

If approved, the President said, his program would mark the "largest single commitment" ever made by the federal government to mass transportation.

Nixon said that the railroads, "once the pride of the nation, have gradually been deteriorating" and that his new legislation would revitalize them while helping ease the nation's transportation crisis.

"The thrust of this entire legislation is to revitalize and modernize freight rail service throughout the country," Nixon said.

Though the thrust of the message was on freight service, Nixon emphasized that the "quality of passenger service on our railroads" needed to be improved.

"It is clear from the energy crisis that an increasing number of Americans are anxious to build and use a better passenger system," he said.

Western nations agree on parley with oil producers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 13-nation conference of oil consuming countries reached broad agreement today on the necessity of holding a meeting with Arab and other oil producing countries to try to alleviate the effects of the world crisis.

While declining to go along with some of the steps the other countries believed necessary to work out a solution to the petroleum crisis, France agreed to a general call for cooperative action.

As he left a meeting of foreign ministers who had been discussing a draft communique, British Foreign Minister Sir Alec Douglas Home said there was "broad agreement on a producer-consumer conference."

A draft of the communique made available to UPI called for "concerted international cooperation between all the countries concerned including oil producing countries...to accelerate an improvement in the supply and demand situation, ameliorate the adverse economic consequences of the existing situation and lay the groundwork for a more equitable and stable international energy relationship."

According to the draft communique—which bracketed portions upon which there was not unanimous agreement — there was no dispute about the need for a comprehensive program.

The draft said foreign ministers of all 13 countries—the nine members of the European Common Market plus Canada, the United States, Japan and Norway —"concurred in the need for comprehensive action program to deal with all facets of the world energy situation by cooperative measures."

Claremonter Dies in crash on freeway

POMONA — A station wagon collided with two cars on the San Bernardino Freeway near Dudley Street early today after its driver apparently suffered some type of seizure.

Howard Eugene Keiser, 57, of 4103 Tenango St., Claremont, was declared dead on arrival at the Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The exact cause of death wasn't immediately determined.

He was driving west on the freeway, veered to the right "without reason" and collided with two other vehicles, said highway patrolmen.

A sedan operated by Garry Rasmussen, 22, of Hacienda Heights was only nipped. The station wagon, however, hit a small sports car broadside, pushing it off the freeway. The driver, Louis Solana, 17, of 2177 Yorba Drive, Pomona, escaped serious injury.

Keiser was reported to be employed by a firm in Paramount. He is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Arabs delay summit huddle

BEIRUT (UPI) — A conference of Arab oil ministers, scheduled to meet Thursday in Tripoli to decide on lifting the petroleum boycott against the United States, abruptly was postponed until further notice, a spokesman for the Kuwait embassy in Beirut said today.

"The meeting in Tripoli has been postponed, but I do not know the reason," the spokesman said. "A new date is expected to be announced later."

The spokesman said Kuwait's Oil Minister Abdul Rahman Atiki had been scheduled to catch a plane from Beirut to the Lybian capital of Tripoli today for the conference, but canceled his flight reservations when he learned of the postponement.

The boycott, which also applies to Holland, was imposed in October when the oilrich countries of the Arab world decided to throw the weight of their "oil weapon" into the war against Israel.

U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said after he helped negotiate the Jan. 18 military disengagement accord between Egypt and Israel he thought continuing the embargo was "inappropriate".

Since then, Kissinger has said in Washington he was confident the boycott would end, probably before the Egyptian-Israeli military disengagement is concluded March 5.

Arab oil sources say they do not share Kissinger's confidence. But in any case the forthcoming oil ministers meeting may be the scene of a clash between the hard-liners who see no reason to drop the boycott and those who want to make a "gesture" recognizing Kissinger's peace-making role.

Soviet author leaves Russia for W. Germany

BONN (UPI) — Russia's most famous living author, dissident Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn, left the Soviet Union and arrived in West Germany today, a day after his forcible arrest in Moscow.

A West German spokesman had announced that his government had agreed "to accept" the Nobel prize winning novelist when informed by the Soviet Union he was coming. He had repeatedly said he would not leave Russia voluntarily.

Solzhenitsyn's wife, Natalya, and three young children remained behind in the Soviet capital where seven Soviet policemen muscled their way into his apartment Tuesday and took him away.

A spokesman for the West German Lufthansa airline said its officials saw Solzhenitsyn debark from an Aeroflot plane at Frankfurt airport and enter a black Mercedes car bearing the license number BD 7-27. The BD 7 series of licenses belongs to the West German Foreign Ministry.

Earlier, German provincial officials said he would go to the home of fellow Nobel prize winner, German author Heinrich Boell.

2 boys rescued from flood channel

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — Pomona firemen rescued two Chino youngsters Tuesday from the swift current of a partially filled flood control channel which carried the boys for about a mile.

The boys were first spotted clinging to rubber rafts by officers in a Pomona police helicopter unit.

Rescued cold and shivering, but otherwise unharmed were David Hill, 12, of 4360 Wilson Ave., and Richard Pfau, 11, of 1273 Ramona Ave.

The youngsters told police and firemen that they were forced into the storm drain behind the Sears-Roebuck Store at Holt and Mills avenues by two older boys. They said they inflated two rubber rafts they purchased at the store. The rafts carried the boys for a while, but the rapid movement of the water overturned the rafts and left the boys in three feet of cold water.

Helicopter observer Charles Heilman of the Pomona Police Department saw the youngsters and called the fire department for assistance.

Capt. Jean Lobesque lifted the boys from the water after ropes and ladders were put into the water channel at Ninth Street and East End Avenue. Firemen said it was difficult for even a grown man to stand up in the swift current. The channel was being fed by water released from the San Antonio Dam.

"We were scared and were happy to see the firemen and police," Richard said of his experience after he and David had changed into dry clothing and were given soup and hot chocolate after being taken home by his mother.

Richard said he and his friend hiked to Sears, where they purchased the rafts to float in David's pool. He said they were stopped by two older boys in an area behind the store.

The younger boys, both students at Newman School in Chino, said they were forced into the storm drain by the two older ones, but said they were glad to get away from others.

"We thought they were going to beat us up," Richard said.

"The water was cold and we were both shivering," Richard said. Both boys said they were frightened and were relieved to see the police helicopter which hovered overhead until fire units arrived at the scene.

Pomona police are investigating a battery report of the incident.

Hearst: can't meet demand; will have counter-proposal

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The father of kidnaped Patricia Hearst said today a ransom demand by the terrorist group which holds her captive is "impossible to meet" and that he would offer a counterproposal in 24 to 48 hours.

EARLIER STORY, A-2

Nervoulsy holding his wife's hand in front of their suburban Hillsborough mansion, newspaper publisher Randolph A. Hearst said he could not comply with the demand by the Symbionese Liberation Army that $70 worth of free food be supplied to an estimated 4.7 million poor and needy Californians.

"It's a little frightening," he said. "The original demand, as I was afraid, is impossible to meet. However, in the next 24 to 48 hours I will try my best to come back with a counter-offer that is acceptable."

Speaking directly to his imprisoned daughter, Hearst said:

"But we will do all we can to get you out. We're praying for you, and I think a few are even praying for the people who have you."

Many on welfare rolls outraged, won't take food

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A 36-year-old mother of three said she'd accept $70 worth of free food "only if Patricia Hearst is released first," and a single man of 22 said the demands of the kidnapers of the newspaper heiress only made him "hate counterrevolutionary movements."

Many food stamp and welfare recipients acted with surprise Tuesday when informed that they were apparently the reason for the kidnaping of Miss Hearst, 19, by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

"I think it's crazy," said Becky Ziegler, 19. "I could dig the free food but I wouldn't want the food on someone else's expense."

An elderly woman said she wouldn't accept the food "under any circumstances," and a law student, Bob Bates, 29, said that legally any person who accepts the $70 in merchandise "becomes a principal in the crime."

Abbie Lakeman, 27, said, "I think that free food is a 'right on' concept and I wish all rich people could be kidnaped into sharing their wealth."

An unemployed laborer, Denni Slake, 33, said he'd accept the food because he needs it, but added that "I hope this kind of thing doesn't happen again and that she's released safely. She's just an innocent victim of circumstance."

21 hurt as Amtrak cars jump tracks

STRATTON, Neb. (UPI) — Four cars of a 10-car San Francisco-to-Chicago Amtrak passenger train jumped the tracks near this southwestern Nebraska ranch community Tuesday night. At least 21 persons were injured, none seriously.

Autopsy will be performed on slain woman

POMONA — An autopsy was planned today to determine what killed Connie Gail Michael, 28-year-old woman found dead with Wayne Douglas Beach Tuesday morning at 1612 S. White Ave.

The two bodies were discovered by Mrs. Michael's estranged husband, Ronnie Willis Michael, 27, when he went there to pick up his children for a visit. The house, a one-story, metal-roofed frame building stands next to a partially-plowed field.

Beach, 28, was killed by a shotgun blast in the chest, investigators said, but it was uncertain how Mrs. Michael died. She may have been killed by blows to the head and the autopsy is necessary for the determination, they said.

Mrs. Michael also was known as Connie Gail Dunahee and Connie Gail Crowe, officers reported. Michael said he and the victim were planning a divorce.

Five children were inside the house when Beach and Mrs. Michael were killed. Apparently they slept through the incident and three were reported just waking up when police entered the house shortly after 9 a.m.

The children, Nareen Beach, 6, Wayne Douglas Beach, 7, David Wayne Dunahee, 2, and Christopher Lee Michael and Sharron Marie Michael, 11-month-old twins, were taken into protective custody. The two Beach children were placed with an aunt and Mrs. Michael's children were taken to MacLaren Hall, a home for nondelinquent children in El Monte.

Michael said that when he arrived at the door at around 9 a.m. he found the front door open. He said he looked inside, saw the woman's body on the floor and went to a neighbor's to call police. Police interviewed Michael for several hours Tuesday.

Investigators said the victims may have been killed quite early Tuesday morning, but the exact time is uncertain. Whether they were in bed when attacked also is only speculation at this time, Capt. Richard A. Slaght said.

Mrs. Michael was wearing night clothes when found and Beach was clad only in shorts, police reported. There was considerable blood about the bodies, they said.

The autopsy was scheduled today at the coroner's office in Los Angeles.

Dealers balk at Simon's 'gas-for-all' ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government has told the nation's gasoline dealers they can be fined for restricting sales of scarce fuel to regular customers only, and some of the dealers are up in arms about it.

"It is a sad day when my regular customers, who have kept me in business for seven years, are no longer supposed to be any more important to me than someone I'll probably never see again," said Fred Hayden, of George's Sunoco in South Weymouth, Mass.

The practice of reserving gasoline for regualar customers had blossomed in many parts of the country during the recent weeks of shortage, and some dealers added other gimmicks such as requiring customers to purchase as much as 1,000 gallons in return for preferential treatment.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon Tuesday banned both of those practices, calling them "discriminattory."

Gasoline and diesel fuel dealers who fail to comply could face fines ranging from $2,500 to $5,000. Simon said customers who are not given first-come, first-served treatment should complain to the nearest Internal Revenue Service office.

"I'm a firm believer in a dealers' moral responsibility to regular customers first," said Ben Paul, Exxon dealer in Charleston, W.Va., but he said he had never turned down "strangers."

In Chicago, Robert Jacobs, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association, which claims 3,000 members, said dealers are not a public utility subject to regulation, and that his group will oppose the government's stand.

"This is our right. We are not a public utility or a monoply," he said. and he advised motorists to become regular customers if they are not already.

"Go to a staton and talk to the dealer. Tell him you want to give him your repair and tune-up business. Most dealers will want you to become a regular customer," he said.

In Orlando, Fla., Bill Tucker, executive director of the Florida Allied Gasoline Retailers Association, said his group was advised by attorneys that limiting sales to regular customers is legal "as long as the dealers did it on their own and not in collusion as a group of dealers.

"I don't know whether Mr. Simon has the authority. I guess he does. But we are very much opposed to this order," Tucker said.

Simon, meanwhile, was considering ordering on his own a rollback of prices of crude oil produced since 1972, according his executive assistant, Gerald Parsky. Congress has been bogged down in a fight over legislation for such a rollback.

The 13-nation Washington energy conference, which was to have ended Tuesday, recessed until today as France held out against U.S. proposals for a united stand on how to deal with the Arab oil embargo. France contended consuming nations should deal with oil producing nations according to their own best interests.

Poor react to demands of Hearst kidnapers

'Go hungry before we accept food under threat'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Organizations representing the people who would benefit if the demands of Patricia Hearst's kidnapers are met Tuesday rejected the activities of the Symbionese Liberation Army and expressed concern for Miss Hearst's safety.

The United Farm Workers Union headed by Cesar Chavez sent a telegram disavowing any knowledge of the SLA. The message signed by Chavez said:

"We have just heard about the demands of the SLA. We know nothing about this matter and we are sure that the state authorities are handling it. Our only concern is for the safety of your daughter and our prayers are with you during the ordeal."

Mrs. Catherine Hearst said Chavez' statement was an indication of the feelings of the various groups whose members would receive free food under the SLA's demand.

TEXT OF TAPE, A-9

The SLA Tuesday demanded that $70 worth of food be distributed by the Randolph A. Hearst family to each Californian in need—and specified people on welfare, receiving food stamps, getting social security benefits, the disabled, and ex-convicts.

Prisoners' Union spokesman Willie Holder said his organization could not condone the methods of the SLA, but would "gladly oversee the distribution of food if asked to do so."

"We offer our full support to any action that may help to save the life of Patricia Hearst," said Holder.

Helen Little, president of the National Welfare Rights Organization, called the mansion of the millionaire newspaper publisher to disassociate her group from the SLA activities.

She told Mrs. Hearst that "It is our job to help all poor people, but to me this is blackmail."

"I'm not endorsing what they're saying, but we would administer the program for the safety of the girl if asked to do so."

Citizens for Law and Order, an Oakland based group, called for all proposed recipients of the "extortion" to "take this opportunity to stand tall and be counted as American citizens.

"Each and every individual coming within any one of these categories (groups mentioned by the SLA) should telephone or write to his local newspaper, his radio station or TV station and state in plain language that he or she does not want and will refuse any blood money extorted at the expense of the life of an innocent girl."

The Rev. Edward Peet, 72, president of the California Legislative Council for Older Americans, said he represented one million senior citizens in California who would "go hungry before we accept food under the threat of violence."

"Welfare recipients throughout the state hope and pray Patricia Hearst will be released immediately," Peet said.

Will try to meet the demands of kidnapers, Hearst promises

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Publisher Randolph Hearst was faced today with the bizarre ultimatum of arranging to provide $300 million worth of free food for 4.9 million needy Californians as a first step in the release of his kidnaped daughter.

A family spokesman said Hearst would "do everything in his power" to meet the demand of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army in order to save the life of 19-year-old Patricia Hearst.

A recording of the girl's voice, a monotone which an FBI agent said sounded as if she might be very tired or drugged, was sent to Hearst Tuesday along with a letter demanding a month-long handout of food in supermarkets from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

The heiress said she was "okay" and had not been harmed although she was blindfolded most of the time.

She called on her "daddy" to "get that food thing organized" and warned against any attempt to track down her abductors or free her by force.

Charles Bates, head of the FBI investigation of the kidnap, said agents had no intention of "going into a house with guns blazing" even if they located the hideout. He said they would abide by Hearst's wishes.

The letter from the hitherto obscure SLA set one "ransom" condition as the providing of $70 of food apiece beginning Jan. 19 to everyone on welfare, receiving social security benefits, disabled veterans, parolees and persons out of jail on bail.

Jack Cook, vice president of the Hearst Corp., said that the millionaire son of legendary newspaper empire builder William Randolph Hearst "intends as quickly as possible to talk to agencies and institutions to determine how feasible it is to meet their demands."

The SLA indicated it intended to hold the pretty, sandy-haired university coed at least five more weeks until the food distribution is arranged "as an act of good faith."

If the terms are not met, the "army" —which police believe may total about 25 persons — said it would no longer guarantee the safety or health of the girl it said was being held as a "prisoner of war" and treated under the terms of the Geneva Convention.

In one passage in her recording, Miss Hearst indicated that she may not be freed until authorities release two SLA members now held in San Quentin prison on charges of murder in the cyanide-bullet slaying of the Oakland superintendent of schools Nov. 6.

Anti-pregnancy vaccine due in 4 years, says researcher

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — An Ohio State University (OSU) researcher said Tuesday a patent application was pending for the development and testing of a vaccine to prevent pregnancy, either temporarily or permanently.

Dr. Vernon C. Stevens said the vaccine could be generally available in about four years.

"This is a method of immunization of women, and later of men also, so that fertility is absent for one year," Stevens said. "We will probably have the option, by altering the substance, to make the infertility permanent."

Stevens said the approach was to get the body to produce antibodies against substances it would normally accept.

Stevens, a professor of obstretrics and gynecology at the OSU College of Medicine, said the vaccine was being considered because "it was obvious that the pill didn't answer the need.

"We need a whole bag of tricks, not only from the medical standpoint, for women who can't tolerate the pill, but from cultural and religious standpoints," he said.

Stevens, who worked on development of oral contraceptives in the early 1960s, has been aided in his recent research by several grants from the World Health Organization (WHO).

WHO sponsorship would make the product available at reasonable cost to underdeveloped countries, he said. Stevens also said the first general use of the vaccine may be in a country other than the United States.

Nixon medics say he's okay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon took his annual physical examination today and his doctors reported "he is very well."

Nixon did not talk with newsmen on emerging from Bethesda Naval Medical Center after 2-½ hours of tests but an aide said "he feels fine."

Asked how the doctors assessed results of the medical exam, the spokesman commented: "He is very well."

People hate us, lament congressmen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders and rank-and-file members alike are dismayed over opinion poll that shows less than a quarter of the public think Congress is doing a good job.

The House returns for one day of work today—floor action on the solar heating and cooling demonstration act — after a three day Lincoln's birthday recess and then will adjourn until Monday. The Senate took the whole week off for the Lincoln observance.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the GOP leader, called the Harris poll "deplorable." It showed 69 per cent of the people rate Congress only fair to poor.

House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., shook his head in frustration at the poll, and Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee said Watergate probably had something to do with it.

O'Neill recalled a remark of retiring Rep. Howard Robinson, D-N.Y., one of 27 members who have decided not to return next term: Robison, when he announced his retirement, said Congress was no longer enjoyable.

"It's just no fun up here anymore," O'Neill said. "We always got critical mail, but in this past year I've never seen such hate mail. It's full of obscenities and just out and out hate."

Mahon said, "It's very probable that Watergate had as much effect on us as it has on the President, but he's just one man and there're 535 of us.

Former POW will run for Congress

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — A former Naval air officer imprisoned six years in North Vietnam announced Tuesday on the first anniversary of his liberation that he would run for the Republican nomination to Congress.

Former Navy Lt. David G. Rehmann, of Garden Grove, was a radar officer when his crew's plane was shot down over North Vietnam on Dec. 2, 1966. He was among the first military POWs given his freedom and sent home.

Rehmann, 31, said he was seeking the 34th District seat held by Democrat Richard T. Hanna, who announced the same day that he would not seek re-election.

Cuba friendship possible--Eaton

CLEVELAND (UPI) — In a telephone interview Tuesday Cleveland industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton said he saw no reason the United States could not once again be a friend of Cuba.

Eaton recently returned from a visit with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, "my old friend of 15 years." He said he has been making regular trips to Cuba for over 50 years.

Eaton, who thinks of himself as an ambassador of good will, added, "I am seeking friendship and understanding between the countries."

Ruling on Picasso heirs plea delayed

GRASSE, France (UPI) — A court decided Tuesday to delay for a month a ruling on a plea by two illegitimate children of the late painter Pablo Picasso that they be considered his legal heirs.

Claude Picasso, 27, and Paloma Ruiz Picasso, 25, have been allowed to bear the name of their father but a lower court and an appeals court both have rejected their plea to share in the artist's inheritance.

They sought to benefit from a 1972 act which grants some rights to illegitimate children to inherit from their father.

Major shakeup of armed forces reported imminent

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit News reported today that Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger is proposing a major realighment in the armed forces, a move which could prove "to be the biggest armed forces shake-up since Robert S. McNamara hit the Pentagon."

In a copyrighted story, the News said Schlesinger's plans, which came after seven months' scrutiny of the defense establishment, include major realignment and redistribution of responsibilities and therefore, of forces, money and manpower among the four services.

One of the decisions, the News said, is to include creation of a coastal command with responsibilities for land-based maritime surveillance, reconnaissance and antisubmarine air operaions, which would be taken from the Navy and reassigned to the Air Force.

News military analyst Col. R.D. Heinl Jr. said other proposals would result in the assignment of Air Force squadrons to Navy aircraft carriers and giving the Army the mission of providing highreadiness peacetime expeditionary forces now handled by the Marine Corps.

The News said one top Pentagon aide said Schlesinger was about "to shake the tree" of the jealously guarded roles and duties of the armed forces.

According to the News, the changes are incorporated in a guidance memo entitled "Force Interdependence," Pentagon shorthand for a concept of complete mixture of all services and all military components.

In addition to those changes, the Defense Secretary is reported to have under active consideration two further measures aimed at elite groundforce components, Army airborne and Marines.

The news said Schlesinger reportedly has "encouraged" Gen. Creighton Abrams, Army chief of staff, to end the traditional paratroop functions in both the 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions, except for one brigade to be retained for special contingencies.

Schlesinger has instructed his staff, according to the News, to work up plans to cut the Marine Corps by roughly half of its present strength of 196,000.

Discrimination surfaces in meeting on boy's death

By MAE TATE
and TONY AULT
P-B Staff Writers

CHINO — A meeting called Tuesday afternoon to clarify rumors and facts surrounding the death of Arturo Sandoval soon dissolved into quibbling disunity and oft-repeated allegations of discrimination throughout the community.

Police Chief Frank Meehan moderated the three-hour session with various representatives of the Mexican-American community, the schools, local organizations and a church.

Sandoval, 17 and a junior at Chino High School, died Friday night after being struck by a car driven by Donald German, 19. German has been charged with felony hit and run. Meehan reported that the investigation continues in the incident sparked by a racial clash between Mexican-American and Anglos to determine if the charge will be changed to manslaughter.

Meehan and Lt. William Hughes disspelled some of the rumors surrounding the incident. The victim died on first impact with the car according to the coroner, said Meehan. The coroner's office based that opinion primarily on the fact that there was no blood in the victim's abrasions, Meehan noted.

Hughes reported that six male and four fremale Mexican-Americans had come forth voluntarily to give statements. Approximately 13 Anglos have been contacted by police with no voluntary statements coming without solicitation. He estimated that the crowd in the shopping center contained about three Anglo for each Mexican-American.

Both sides claim verbal and physical aggression on the part of the other. Nonetheless, all animosity ended after Sandoval's death and the two groups worked together in attempts to free his body from beneath the car, said Hughes.

Dr. Terry Terril, principal of Chino High, reported that there were tense moments on campus Friday, but no words or violent exchanges. He called for an end to the hatred that breeds perpetual clashes between the races in this West End town.

"Until several of the factions in this community put some of the hatred aside, the tragedies will continue. I can't see that this community will be able to stand any more tragedy among its youth. We've seen hatred on all sides and it must end. No kid should be injured no matter what his last name is," said Terril.

Parent observeers will assist administrators and teachers at the high school this week, he continued.

"If we feel there will be any confrontation, we will use videotape equipment in order to go back and see what happened and who was involved," said Terril.

Mrs. Betty Ramirez changed the direction of the meeting with continued allegations of police harassment and brutality against Mexican-American youth. The meeting soon became a forum of dissent on treatment of minority kids by local and school authorities. Several suggestions were made for the formation of a human relations committee, but only a few voiced support through participation in such a committee.

The Rev. Dominic Pasqualez, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in the barrio, commented that people enter the world ideologically pure.

"We aren't born with prejudice. We learn it. The high school kids learn if from us adults. It is important for us to keep our heads and not to incite the kids. It is terribly important for us adults to keep our heads and stop mouthing off in front of our kids with these rumors. We have to seek justice. If the kid is guilty through deliberate fault, then justice must be pursued. Vengeance accomplishes nothing," said Father Pasqualez.

Several in the group claimed the schools weren't doing an adequate job, that teachers exhibited their personal prejudices in dealing with students.

"There has to be leadership in both communities, the willingness to work together," replied Terril. "For it to start at school, we must have the cooperation of people in the community. We can't have Chicano and Anglo kids coming to school full of hate from the home."

The meeting broke up after those present could reach no suitable agreement on what needed to be accomplished and the methods to be used.

Meanwhile, Police Chief Meehan this morning urged anyone witnessing the accident Friday night in the parking lot to contact the police department.

Meehan said that officers are continuing to interview witnesses.

Police since the accident have arrested, besides German, four Mexican-American men on suspicion of assaulting a police officer, an Anglo and an Anglo juvenile on suspicion of disturbing the peace.

Police have quoted German as saying his attention was distracted as he was driving his car from the parking lot and he looked ahead too late to avoid hitting the victim.

Meehan said several witnesses came forward later to reveal a second version. Meehan said these witnesses reported that German made an arcing right turn toward a Mexican-American youth and hit Sandoval. Other witnesses said that German stopped the car after hitting Sandoval momentarily, and then proceeded to run over the youth who had fallen to the asphlat.

Meehan said it was important police talk to as many witnesses as possible in the incident so they can better determine if other criminal charges should be lodged against the suspect. Meehan said there was a possibility that the felony hit and run charge against the suspect could be amended to a manslaughter charge, depending on the outcome of their investigation.

The police department Monday released the names of the four Mexican-American youths arrested on suspicion of assaulting Chino Police Officer Dave DeLeon. DeLeon was attacked by four men as he was trying to move back the crowd that had gathered at the scene of the accident.

Monday the police released the names of the four suspects who allegedly attacked DeLeon who have since posted bail and were released from jail. Tuesday police said that two others, an adult and a juvenile were arrested on suspicion of disturbing the peace in the parking lot Friday night. The adult was identified as Peter Henry Koot, 18, of 8513 Edison Ave., Chino. Koot bailed out of jail. Police said Koot and the youth were arrested for racing through the parking lot in their car.

Planners to rule on warehouse

POMONA — A request to build an 831-unit mini-warehouse at 2735 N. Towne Ave. will be considered tonight by the Pomona Planning Commission.

The Saf-T-Storage Co. proposes to build the structures on 4.66 acres located on the west side of Towne Avnnue north of the Santa Fe Railroad tracks.

The firm will seek approval of an environmental impact report, conditional use permit and variances.

In another item, planners will hold a public hearing on an environmental impact report regarding a proposed overpass at Roselawn Avenue and the Southern Pacific Railroad.

The commission will also consider a city application to vacate a portion of McKinley Avnue between the Brackett Field and the Mountain Meadows Golf Course.

Chino High closes over boy's death

CHINO — Chino High School was to dismiss classes today at 11:30 a.m. because of the death of Arturo Sandoval, according to Dr. Terry Terril, principal.

Terril ordered the minimum day after students returned to campus after a three-day holiday observing Abraham Lincolns birthday. Sandoval, a 17-year-old junior at Chino High, died following a clash between Anglo and Mexican-American youth late Friday night in a shopping center parking lot at Central and Walnut avenues.

"We are shocked and upset about the death of one of our students. We feel that it is time for the people of this community to put differences aide and start living and acting like human beings," Terril stated.

"What we're saying is when people experience a personal tragedy, it should bind the total community closer together and make them realize they must live together, work together and make sure there is no reoccurrence of something like this.

"It's long past time for people to throw aside their prejudices and realize that people are dying because of closed minds."

Parent and community observers will be on the high school campus throughout the weeks to help quell any possible incidents between the two racial factions.

Chino Parents Club will meet

CHINO — The Chino High School Parents Club will hold its monthly meeting tonight at 7:30 in the school teachers' lounge.

Pete Setlich, director of student activities, and a special committee will give information for discussion on the open campus at lunch time. All parents are urged to attend and voice their opinions on the open campus.

Underwriter will speak

UPLAND — Herbert L. Isaacson, a director of the Pomona Valley Life Underwriters, will discuss "Protecting Human Assets" at a Thursday meeting of Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Isaacson will speak at 8 p.m. at the Upland Inn.

Theologian to speak

CLAREMONT — Dr. Ronald E. Osborn, professor of American church history at the School of Theology, will discuss the function of historical studies in theological education at a public convocation Thursday on campus.

Osborn will speak at 10 a.m. in the Seeley G. Mudd Communications Building.

Doughnut lovers can prove it

CLAREMONT — Three students will receive "big mouth" certificates Thursday afternoon as winners of doughnut eating contests at Our Lady of the Assumption School.

The contest is sponsored by the California Junior Scholarship Federation chapter at the school. Steven Smith is an eighth grade teacher and adviser for the group.

Students in the first, second, and third grades will compete in the first contest at 12:45 p.m. Those in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades will vie for the top honor at 1:15 p.m., and the seventh and eighth graders will try their munching skill at 1:45 p.m.

Doughnuts have been donated by local bakeries, and contestants with hands behind their backs will try to see how many doughnuts, piled high with whipped cream, they can eat in two minutes.

Lecture series starts tonight

CLAREMONT — A seven-week series of lectures and discussions on women in the Judaeo-Christian tradition will be offered beginning tonight at 7 in the Claremont Colleges' McAlister Center.

Tonight's lecture is "Women in the New Testament and Hellenistic Tradition" with Katheleen O'Brien Wicker, Scripps College assistant professor of religion; and Katherine Gould Armstrong, a chaplaincy intern at the School of Theology.

RONALD P. FAHERTY of Cucamonga has been appointed superintendent of the conditioning yards, cranes, and material handling department at the Kaiser Steel Corp. plant in Fontana. He had previously served as assistant superintendent. Faherty and his wife, Millie, have five sons.

Pedestrian hit by car

UPLAND — A pedestrian suffered only minor cuts and bruises early today when struck by a car as he walked along Foothil Boulevard near Central Avenue.

Frank Lewis Vasquez, 34, of Rawlings, Wyo., was treated at the Doctors Hospital in Montclair and later released.

Vasquez was walking west on Foothill toward Central when hit by a car operated by Fred McKinzie, 76, of Fontana. The pedestrian was in the middle of the right traffic lane, officers added.

Chino council decision

Disputed homes plan OK'd

CHINO — The controversy that began with a roar two years ago went out with a whisper Tuesday night as the City Council quickly approved tentative tract maps for 30 acres of homes in southwest Chino.

During a special adjourned session, the council approved the map for the property at Roswell and Schaefer avenues owned by Paul Barnhill. In so doing, the council met the deadline of Feb. 13 for acceptance of plans on the tract of 126 homes.

Acoustics Inc. of Chino, developer of the parcel, must now meet the second requirement set by the county Board of Supervisors a year ago today by beginning construction no later than Feb. 13, 1975.

The decision, completed in less than a minute by a 3-0 vote, ended more than two years of debate and disagreement between the City of Chino and the county. Barnhill had met with continual opposition from city officials on the residential zoning of the 30 acres in the county and within Chino's zone of influence.

Although the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFC) ruled that the land was within Chino's zone of influence and the city should decide its fate on zoning, the county Planning Commission and supervisors granted Barnhill the residential zoning. The city had projected the land for industrial use.

Another agenda item for the presentation of schematic plans for the new Civic Center was canceled until a full council is present. Mayor Bob McLeod, Leonard Frketich and Ralph Preciado attended the Tuesday night session.

Library science course offered

POMONA — A course in library science will be offered at St. Madeleine School starting Thursday.

The course, Library Science 1A, will include cataloging, filing, processing and other fundamentals for those interested in working in a school or public library.

The class will be taught by Sister M. Paula Comeau from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. No prior registration is necessarp.

For further information, persons may call Sister Mary Richard at 622-4987 or 622-0312.

New branch for First Federal

POMONA — Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association announced recently that construction has begun on the firm's new branch office in Twentynine Palms.

The new branch will be Pomona First Federal's 15th office. The structure is scheduled for completion on April 1.

Bess Truman marks 89th birthday

INDEPENDENCE, Missouri (UPI) — Bess Wallace Truman, widow of Harry S Truman, observed her 89th birthday without fanfare today.

Mrs. Truman has never liked birthday parties. Her friends understand and respect her wishes.

Except for domestic help and secret service guards, Mrs. Truman lives alone in the century-old mansion.

Mrs. Truman visited her daughter in Washington for Christmas but has stayed at home since except for brief errands in the Independence area.

The former first lady has enjoyed good health in recent months. She walks with a cane because of arthritis.

By JEFFERY L. SHELER

MARSHALL, Ill. (UPI) — Folks say Sylvia Ritter Millhouse was a hard-working, d o w n-t o-earth, respectable woman who loved her family and enjoyed helping a neighbor in trouble.

When she died in December at age 65, she left behind "a world of friends" and the biggest scandal this rustic eastern Illinois town of 4,000 has ever known.

For almost 30 years, she ran the Marshall Loan Co., an uninsured mortgage brokerage operating out of a store front across from the county court house. Auditors now say she may have bilked her neighbors out of more than $1 million. State investigators are still trying to unravel the mystery.

Many of those who stand to lose the most—the farmers, the widows, the laborers and merchants who invested their savings in the firm—aren't willing to write off their friend and neighbor as a crook.

"I loved that woman," said Mrs. Emma Jean Cunningham, whose legless son Robert deposited $16,700 in veteran's benefits with the Marshall Loan Co. "I'm hurt, but I don't hate her. I still feel it's going to work out somehow—that the money will turn up somewhere. Maybe I'm a dreamer."

She said Mrs. Millhouse came to visit her son, who l o s t both legs when he stepped on a land mine in Vietnam, when he returned home from the service. "She offered to help in any way she could. She said if my boy needed money, not to look any further—to come to her. That made me feel so good."

The townspeople point to her middle class life style as "hardly that of a woman who had a million dollars stashed away."

She was born and raised in Marshall, graduated from M a r s h a l l Township High School and lived there all her life. She worked briefly at the B.F. Johnson Loan Co., in Marshall before going to work for her father at the Marshall Loan Co.

Her first marriage to Horace Nash ended in divorce. She had one son, David Nash, now 39, an electronics worker. Her second husband was a widower, Jerome Millhouse, who works as a barber.

She lived in a comfortable but modest 50-year-old frame home on the southern edge of town. She dressed neatly and "never had a hair out of place." She drove a 1971 Cadillac and took yearly vacation trips with her family.

Although she was considered a good hostess, she seldom entertained. When she did it was usually for family gatherings. She enjoyed playing the organ at home and could play the piano as well.

"Most of the time, she was strictly business," said her husband Jerome. "She worked sometimes 60 hours a week."

One neighbor said Mrs. Millhouse went to visit her invalid mother at a local nursing home every day before she died last spring. "She almost wore herself out looking after that woman," said the neighbor.

She had a hell of a personality," said Mayor Frank Pearce. "She was nice to do business with. She always had a way of putting your mind at ease."

Shy shrimp's sex life is an obstacle in sea farming

By FRANK EMDGE

MIAMI (UPI) — The sex life of the shrimp is delaying establishment of large-scale sea farming operations.

University of Miami scientists demonstrated recently they have solved the other major problems of sea farming, more accurately termed mariculture. They raised about 30,000 plump, eating-size shrimp in a two-foot-deep, one-acre pond located just behind the surrealistic stacks and atomic silos of Florida Power and Light Company's T u r k e y Point generating plant.

That's about $1,000 worth of shrimp at current wholesale prices. They were raised in about four months from white specks as tiny as the point of a pin.

"Now, if we could only learn how to breed shrimp in captivity, we could cut the costs in half," said Dr. George Krantz, marine biologist at the University of Miami.

To oversimplify a complicated process, the salt water shrimp is so shy that he will procreate only in the privacy of a deep-water reef. This means an expensive expedition into the Gulf of Mexico to catch female shrimp in the proper stage of pregnancy in order to provide "seedling" shrimp for the farming operation.

Despite this obstacle, Texas A&M University scientists—using seedlings from Miami's hatchery and feeding methods developed here—have devised a land use plan to show commercial operations can be profitable.

"Shrimp farming already is financially feasible," said Krantz. "Texas is demonstrating a yield of $5,000 per acre per month for seven months of the year. Now we're working here on bringing the costs down."

Scientists have settled on shrimp as the best bet for mariculture. They grow fast, are cheap to feed and bring a high price in the marketplace. Crabs and fish are a poor risk because they like to eat each other and take too long to raise.

The most promising Miami experiment is raising shrimp and either clams or scallops in the same pond, thus producing two crops simultaneously on the same ground.

The bright outlook for seafarming didn't exist six years ago when the university's College of Marine Sciences set up its laboratory and ponds at Turkey Point. It uses sea water circulated in a closed canal as coolant for the power plant. Therefore, its seafood production cannot be sold until scientists determine more about possible radiation danger from the atomic power plant.

One of the major breakthroughs of shrimp raising, said lab chief James Norris, was learing to grow plankton economically. Plankton is the one-cell sea organism which is food for everything from clams to sperm whales.

Norris and his crew grow plankton cultures in small beakers, then transfer them to five-gallon jugs for growing green and amber-hued plankton concentrate to feed to the baby shrimp. One of the secrets, Norris said, is a common liquid fertilizer bought at a discount department store.

The plankton processing supports a high survival rate for the shrimp. Only about one half of one per cent of the shrimp born in the ocean survive, Norris said.

"Our survival rate here ranges anywhere from 25 to 85 per cent, generally averaging about 50 per cent," he said. "That's good because one female shrimp we get from the Gulf will hatch a half-million or more babies."

Newborn shrimp, barely discernible to the naked eye, a r e put into 5,000-gallon tanks. As they grow larger they are switched from plankton to shrimp and fish meal to keep them from feeding on each other.

After transfer to the growing ponds, they are fed a specially developed mixture of wheat bran and fish meal in pellet or flake form.

"We've discovered and developed a lot of things here, but not how to handle those fellows," said Norris pointing to two wild ducks swimming across the shrimp pond.

"The ducks are predators but are protected here because this is a wildlife preserve," Norris said. "Those two there know exactly how far each one of us at the lab can throw a rock."

Tree lichens signal smog?

CORVALLIS, Wash. (UPI) — An Oregon State University student research project is being carried on in Oregon and Washington to gauge the efficacy of tree lichens as indicators of air pollution.

"The tiny mosslike lichens have been found to be more sensitive to air pollution than other plants," reported Dr. William Denison, botany professor and adviser for the project. "The absence of certain lichens, for example, can be correlated with the presence tion of certain toxic pollutants of relatively low concentrations of certain toxic pollutants."

Adjustment to cold possible for anyone

NEW YORK (UPI) — You say you can't adjust to the cold inside these days—as you try to save fuel by keeping heat low. The Health Insurance Institute says it's for the birds to say that humans cannot acclimate to cold.

Some proof: The Australian aborigine sleeps naked in night temperatures that are close to freezing. Primitive Indians of Tierra del Fuego wore no clothes to protect them from icy winds and rain until civilization intruded. Nevertheless, adjustment to cold is an individual thing. Some people do it faster and with greater ease than others.

Police passing card to fill their tanks

IMPERIAL BEACH (UPI) "Car 2, where are you? Car 32 needs the credit card."

Police here could use that call these days. The gas supply ran out at the city's public works yard. In order to keep the force's 10 patrol cars running, Police Chief Frank Lecount gave his men his city-paid gas credit card to buy gasoline at local stations.

APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISCHARGE REQUIREMENTS
(National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System Permit)
FOR COUNTY SANITATION DISTRICTS OF LOS ANGLES COUNTY
(POMONA WATER RENOVATION PLANT—DISTRICT NO. 21)

County Sanitation Districts of Los Angeles County, 2020 Beverly Boulevard, California 90057, has filed a Report of Waste Discharge and applied for requirements for the discharge of wastes into San Jose Creek at a point near where the Creek crosses Valley Boulevard or into South San Jose Creek at a point adjacent to the Pomona Water Renovation Plant (PWRP), 295 South Roselawn Avenue, Pomona. These water-courses are navigable waterways or tributaries thereto.

The PWRP treats domestic and industrial wastes from the District 21 service area, comprising portions of the Pomona, La Verne, Claremont, Walnut, and City of Industry areas.

In addition to the two points of waste discharge mentioned above the reclaimed wastewater may be delivered for reuse at two reclaimed water lines, Northside Irrigation Company and City of Pomona Water Department. The reclaimed water may be used for landscape and agricultural irrigation, for industrial use, for recreation, and for groundwater recharge.

The present average volume of wastes treated at the plant is 8.1 million gallons per day; design flow is 9.6 million gallons per day.

On the basis of preliminary staff review and application of lawful standards and regulations, the California Regional Water Quality Control Board, Los Angeles Region, tentatively proposes to issue waste discharge requirements including effluent limitations and speicial conditions, at a public hearing to be held on March 18, 1974, in Room 1138, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles. Persons wishing to comment upon or object to the tentative discharge requirements are invited to submit same in writing to the above address no later than March 17, 1974. All comments or objections received prior to that date will be considered in the formulation of final determinations regarding the waste discharge. If no objections are received, the Regional Board will issue discharge requirements.

The Report of Waste Discharge, related documents, fact sheets, comments received, and other information are on file and may be inspected at 107 South Broadway, Room 4027, Los Angeles, between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Arrangements for copies may be made.

GRANDFATHERLY AFFECTION — Russel Means, right, leader of the American Indian Movement, is welcomed back to St. Paul, Minn., by his grandfather, Frank Fools Crow, Sun Dance chief and spiritual leader of the Sioux nation. Means returned to St. Paul where he is on trial for his part in the 71-day occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D.

Pompidou ill; rumors he may quit abound

PARIS (UPI) — The ill health of President George Pompidou set off speculation today that the 63-year-old French leader might resign before the end of his term in 1976.

Dr. Jean Vignalou, Pompidou's private physician, issued a health bulletin Thursday saying the president had infectious influenza with a high fever and would have to stay in bed "for a few days."

It was the first time a formal statement on Pompidou's health has been issued and quickly fueled speculation he might step down.

The newspaper L'Aurore headlined, "Wave of rumors about early presidential election." The newspaper Le Figaro reported the possibility of Pompidou's "departure."

The concern about Pompidou's health and its implications on France's political scene date back to early 1973 when newsmen noticed his features had grown puffy.

The president's aides attributed the changes to medical treatment for a routine ailment. At his last public appearance— in Poitier last month—Pompidou was sweating heavily and appeared fatigued.

Starter interlock credited

Safety belt use up sharply

DETROIT (UPI) — The starter interlock on 1974-model cars may be annoying to the motorist in a hurry, but it has caused a dramatic increase in the use of safety belts.

A recently completed General Motors' study released Monday showed 55 per cent of the drivers of 1974 cars are wearing the combination lap and shoulder belts. This compares with 39 per cent using just the lap belt in a survey conducted last summer by GM's Fisher Body Division.

The most dramatic increase, however, was in the use of the shoulder belt since only 3 per cent of all drivers used their shoulder belts in the 1973 survey. Because the shoulder and lap belts are one unit on 1974 models, shoulder belt use increased to 55 per cent.

Most automotive safety experts agree that getting seat belt use up to about 60 per cent would provide the same overall protection as air bags in every car. However, the only means of increasing belt use has been through a system that forces drivers and passengers to buckle up.

Before January of 1972, drivers had no buzzers or lights to tell them to buckle up. A Ford Motor Co. survey showed less than 30 per cent of the drivers used the seat belt and about 3 per cent used the shoulder belt.

When the buzzer and warning light were added for late 1972 and 1973 models, lap belt usage went up to about 40 per cent while shoulder belt usage barely increased. The Ford survey showed the interlock system increased the use of the combination belts to better than 61 per cent.

GM issued its study without commenting on its significance. The company has been actively promoting the air bag system as the best means of meeting a proposed requirement for a passive restraint system.

When I grow up...

I'll be a Democrat... I'll be a Republican

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Blood is thicker than water, except, perhaps, in the case of politics.

Take the example of Del. Ted Stacy, D-Raleigh, whose twin brother is running for the seat he now holds in the West Virginia Legislature.

Stacy, in a brief floor speech Monday, said he has found it "embarrassing" his brother is seeking election to the House as a Republican while he is a Democrat.

He said, however, their political identifications were apparent during childhood when they both entered the lawnmowing business.

"When people asked me to cut their grass, I would go and sweat and do an honest day's work and get paid for it," he said. "And I grew up to be a Democrat.

"When they asked my brother, he would go out and hire three people to work for him and then take the profits when the work was done. And he grew up to be a Republican."

Stacy said the analogy was still valid. For campaign contributions, Stacy said, he received $5 apiece from relatives, but his brother tapped a rich uncle for $1,000.

The delegate continued his tongue-in-cheek oration by saying he wanted to end the rumor that the two brothers weren't speaking.

"We're speaking, but not to each other," he explained.

But Stacy said there is one qualification which made his brother an "outstanding" person.

"He has the best brother in the world."

Portion of welfare aid to oil dealer?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government is worried that the energy crisis may hit hardest at families on welfare who don't have the money to pay a heating oil dealer who demands cash on delivery.

To partially take care of that problem, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, (HEW) has propposed new rules allowing a welfare recipient to have part of his benefit made out to himself and part to a designated joint-payee, such as a fuel dealer. Welfare payments normally may be paid only to the individual.

"There are indications that in some areas the home heating oil business will be on a cash basis this winter rather than credit as a result of the shortage of fuel," James S. Dwight Jr., administrator of HEW's social and rehabilitation service, said in announcing the proposal.

In an effort to speed the relief to welfare recipients, HEW published the proposal in the Federal Register with only 15 days instead of the normal 30 allowed for public comment before it takes effect. But an HEW attorney conceded that even then, the worst of the winter would be over.

The proposal does not apply to all welfare recipients, but only those receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children, a federally-financed, state-operated program involving some 10 million persons, three-fourths of them children.

Few U.S. airmen still flying Asia missions

UDORN AIR BASE, Thailand (UPI) — A handful of American airmen still fly "combat" reconnaissance missions over Indochina despite last August's U.S. bombing halt.

The airmen fly unarmed recon jets out of Udorn Air Base on little-publicized missions, taking pictures and recording data with complex electronic gear to give America information on Communist military intentions.

U.S. officials opened Udorn, an American installation in northeast Thailand, to a small group of newsmen this week for the first time in almost four years.

The newsmen were allowed to speak to crewmen of the stiletto-nosed RF4 Phantoms, reconnaissance versions of the F4 Phantom fighter-bombers also based at Udorn but reportedly limited to training flights inside Thailand.

The recon fliers are the men who see the action now. It earns them an extra $65-a-month in combat pay fighter crewmen no longer get.

When recon fliers like Capt. Bill Gunn, 27, of Austin, Tex., take off, they're likely to be headed for the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos and Cambodia.

"I'm not flying quite as much these days, but aside from that life has changed very little for me since the bombing stopped," Gunn said.

U.S. officials said the Communists have not fired on any of the recon flights since the bombing halt despite North Vietnamese charges the missions violate the Jan. 28 Paris cease-fire agreement.

They said recon crews have not had armed escort planes to protect them since the bombing halt, but two Phantoms often fly together so a warning can be flashed if one goes down.

Col. Robert W. Clement, the recon commander, said, however, it would take a high-level decision to risk additional aircraft to pick up a downed pilot.

Gunn said U.S. pilots go on almost daily runs over Laos and Cambodia. He said they occasionally fly over South Vietnam, but he denied Communist charges of flights over North Vietnam.

Commanders reported about 20 Phantom recon planes based at Udorn, an hour by road from the Laotian border. About 5,500 of the approximately 35,000 American GIs in Thailand are based at Udorn.

Sharing the base with Gunn's unit is Air America, a civilian charter company that flies for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) in Laos.

CIA operations have been cut back since the truce, but unmarked Air America military helicopters and transport planes still take off all day on shuttle flights to Laos. Some CIA planes have reported being shot at.

Gunn rides the back seat of a two-man Phantom operating cameras and sensors while the pilot, Capt. Dick Rice, 29, of Great Bend, Kan., sits in front and does the flying.

The families of recon fliers have to live with the knowledge their loved ones are among the few GIs still on the firing line.

"It takes a week or 10 days for letters to get back and forth, and they are always concerned about what's happening to us when they can't pick up a phone and get in touch right away," pilot Rice said.

High hospital costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The national average of hospital charges is more than $100 per day. In big cities, sometimes the charges go up to $150 a day and higher.

Develop A Powerful Vocabulary?

A noted publisher in Chicago reveals a remarkably effective method for building a working knowledge of over 2,000 powerful, expressive words quickly and easily.

People unable to express themselves often lose many business and social opportunities. Others who use their vocabulary improperly, subject themselves to ridicule and cause others to misunderstand what they mean.

We need a good vocabulary, says the publisher, to understand more clearly what we read and hear, to think with greater clarity and logic, and to express ourselves more effectively when we speak or write. A command of words instills confidence in one's ability to speak convincingly and impress others with one's knowledge and understanding.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing a large vocabulary, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Vocabulary," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name, address, and zip code to: Vocabulary Studies, 555 E. Lange St., Dept. 510-70, Mundelein, Ill. 60060. A postcard will do.

SURPRISE VISIT—President Nixon places a wreath at the foot of the statue of Abraham Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial Tuesday on the 165th anniversary of the birth of the Civil War president.

Nixon visits Lincoln Memorial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Tuesday he drew strength from the way Abraham Lincoln bore up under criticism —"no matter how harsh and unfair that criticism might be."

Nixon made an unannounced visit to the Lincoln Memorial to attend ceremonies marking Lincoln's 165th birthday anniversary, and used the occasion to cite Lincoln as his personal inspiration.

Nixon made no direct references to the Watergate pressures upon him or to the energy crisis, but the allusions seemed clear and the audience of about 300 persons packed inside the memorial responded occasionally with applause.

The President asked in his speech, "Why is Lincoln of all Presidents more revered not only in American history but in the world?"

He cited Lincol 's accomplishments in freeing slaves, preserving the union and other personal qualities, then added:

"But perhaps more than anything else, people admire the strength, the poise under pressure.

"Lincoln was possibly the most heavily criticized President in history but he had that great strength of character never to display (his feelings) ... no matter how harsh and unfair the criticism might be.

"This particular fact is an inspiration for us today."

Following his remarks, Nixon laid a wreath of red and white carnations beneath Lincoln's statue and stood with his head bowed and hand over his heart while a bugler sounded "Taps."

Labor out to topple Tanaka

Japanese plan massive strikes

TOKYO (UPI) — Spurred by galloping inflation, Japan's major labor organizations plan a series of spring strikes aimed at winning wage increases of more than 30 per cent and at toppling the government of Premier Kakuei Tanaka.

Beginning next month, strikers will strike first at Japan's transportation system, and one union official predicts strikes could become general

In addition to labor negotiations, unions plan demonstrations around the Diet (Parliament) to Tanaka's resignation. He bears the brunt of blame for the country's upward spiral in the cost of living.

"We plan to organize a mass struggle which will exceed the 1960 anti-American struggle," warns a spokesman for the powerful General Council of Trade Unions (SOHYO) which claims a membership of 4.2 million workers.

He referred to the violent demonstrations against the U.S.-Japan Security Treaty which forced the late President Eisenhower to cancel a visit here and caused the downfall of Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi.

Other major unions planning to participate in the strikes are the moderate Confederation of Labor Unions (Domei), the Liaison Council of Neutral Labor Unions (CHURITSUROREN) and the National Federation of Industrial Labor Organizations (SHINSANBETSU). These organizations claim a combined membership of 8.3 million workers.

Tanaka has appealed for restraint, citing Japan's worst economic crisis since the end of World War II. He called on labor leaders to avoid a general strike and pledged his government would work to end the crisis.

Tanaka said wages rose more than 20 per cent in 1973.

But union officials say they will demand more than $100 in monthly wage hikes, a figure exceeding 30 per cent of the present average pay of $323.

The SOHYO spokesman said his union plans to spend $2.3 million to enlist "support of unorganized workers, pensioners and the entire public."

A series of strikes in March, including one by railway and public workers, could cripple Japan's transportation and communications. The SOHYO official said the situation could reach a "general strike level" by the end of March.

Japanese workers tried to organize a general strike in February, 1947 but the plans filed under the iron rule of American occupation forces commander Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

This time, unions are trying to mobilize 1 million workers for a series of anti-government demonstrations around the Diet building during the Spring struggle..

Invasion of locusts new India threat

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Scientists have warned Indians that an invasion of locusts from the great Thar Desert in Pakistan early this year may strike India's bread-basket states this year, aggravating a serious food shortage problem.

If and when it comes, Indians know from experience that the locusts can defoliate an area in only hours. There is no question of hitting back once the swarms of locusts arrive.

Such an invasion could spell disaster for this impoverished country which is slowly getting back on its feet after two years of severe drought. Ironically, officials credit the end of the drought with the beginning of the locust threat.

The "peela rog" (Hindustani for "yellow plague"), most dreaded by Indian farmers, may hit wheat belt states of Punjab and Haryana, the experts said.

The United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), which maintains an international locust warning system, has put out a "special warning" about an invasion possibility late this month or early in March.

The warning is based on information that the desert locusts, the most destrucitve of the hopper species, have been proliferating at an alarming rate in the Thar Desert which is part of the great Rajasthan Desert belt of India's Northwest.

An exceptionally good monsoon last year both in Pakistan and India has created excellent breeding conditions for the locusts, the FAO report said.

Dr. Hans V. Henle, regional Information adviser to the FAO, said, the warning system covers all countries from Senegal in West Africa to India which have a local problem.

He said the FAO observed locusts concentrations in Bahawal district in eastern Pakistan and Jaisalmer District in western India as early as last September. "Later, some large swarms have also been observed," he said.

Bring back the trees

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Pomona and its satellite cities are deeply concerned these days with the "abandoned house" problem, a flock of tract homes built for very little by the Federal Housing Authority, offered to low-income types for no down (and no rent) and eventually turned over to termites, crab-grass and window-breaking delinquents. I remember when those houses were built.

One morning I stood in an oragne grove, thoughtfully chewing a rather wizened Valencia, when, with a great roar and clatter, several huge bulldozers came up behind me, their flashing blades demolishing orange trees right and left.

With a startled (and unprintable) exclamation I stepped back and almost fell into a ditch that had been dug behind me in the past 12 seconds for sewage and water pipes. I caught myself and leaped sideways, right onto a broad expanse of recently poured concrete.

Before you could say "Vets, No Down!" two overall-clad djinns had built a closet around me and were starting on the family room. My left sleeve was nailed to the built-in cupboard, and my shoes were sprayed with floor shellac.

Fighting my way free, I ran into the livingroom where the men were putting the finishing touches on a six-foot fieldstone fireplace and hanging draperies. Rather hysterically I demanded to see the contractor.

"He's in the house next door," said one of the men, unrolling the wall-to-wall carpet.

"There IS no house next door!" I screamed.

He looked at his watch. "There is now."

And there was.

In fact there were 26 houses, complete with lawn and shrubs. The street curbs, sidewalks and street signs were in, also No Parking signs. Five minutes before, I had parked in a run-down orange grove, and now I came out to find a policeman writing me a parking ticket.

The houses were all furnished and occupied, and breakfasts were charring on a dozen self-timing stoves while housewives hung over the backyard fences remarking that the neighborhood was certainly going to the dogs.

They built houses before the ink was dry on the contract. They had quick drying paint and plaster, quick hardening cement, quick growing lawns and bushes, quick foreclosing mortgage companies.

It can go too fast. A carpenter put his lunch down on a blueprint and when he returned an hour later, they had built a two-car ham-and-cheese sandwich with connecting laundry.

Today the mouldy little houses are polluting the Pomona Valley and oranges are a dollar a dozen. The solution to the abandoned house problem is to bulldoze the tract houses and plant orange groves.

SAFETY NET—Chicago firemen believe their helicopter unit and its cone-shaped net would provide a first line of defense against tragedies like the recent high-rise fire in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Chicago fire unit ready for high-rise tragedies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago firemen believe their helicopter unit and huge cone-shaped net would provide "a first line of defense" against tragedies like the recent high rise fire in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

At least 180 persons died in the fire Feb. 1 that swept through the upper floors of the 22-story Joelma office building. Many of the victims were stranded on the roof because thick black smoke kept away potential helicopter rescuers.

The Chicago Fire Department said its "rooftop net" and "Apollo Net" can be extended from a helicopter on a 100-foot cable. Pilots can maneuver alongside a window or hover some 100 feet above the roof and whisk four persons off to a nearby building.

"We have a first line of defense," said Lt. George Tannehill, the department's air rescue unit commander. "It gives the fire department at least a chance where before they had none."

"I don't believe you'll see a fire here like down in Sao Paulo," Tannehill said.

Both Chicago Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn and Tannehill stressed that Chicago was not at all likely to have a fire "of the volume" of that in Sao Paulo because of apparent different building standards.

The rooftop net can hold four persons and the Apollo net is a one-man chair-like apparatus originally used to scoop astronauts out of the water after splashdown.

Although pilots must see to land, the 100 foot cable and net can be dropped to the roof under more smoky conbitions, Tannehill said. He said another problem was the intense heat that reduces the efficiency of a helicopter."

"We have something where other cities have nothing," he said.

The department, confronted with taller and taller buildings like many urban fire departments, began 10 years ago to deal with the special problems of high rise buildings. Most ladders reach no higher than 150 feet. Elevators are not always reliable. And a high rise can house the population of a small town.

Quinn said he now has three helicopters, the specially trained air rescue unit and the nets. The roofs of all tall buildings have been photographed to give pilots the necessary information when visibility is cut by smoke. In case of an emergency, the National Guard can dispatch additional helicopters.

A proposal to require helicopter landing sites on all high rises appears likely to become a city ordinance, Quinn said.

"You have to plan before," he said. "There's always that possibility."

An irony of strike

National flag sales booming in Britain

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

An irony of Britain's devastating coal strike, and perhaps an insight, is provided by the report of a boom in the sale of national flags.

The boom is not confined to any special group or individual. One of the best customers is said to be the National Union of Mineworkers whose strike of 260,000 members threatens Britain with its worst crisis since World War II.

In other words, regardless of which side they are on, everyone is wrapping themselves in the flag.

Beyond the effect on Britain itself, the strike and its outcome must draw the attention of free societies everywhere, for in it is an element with which only the dictatorships have been able to deal successfully.

That is, how to protect the rights of all concerned when a strike by a few can paralyze an industry essential to the whole of society.

A further complication which has few if any parallels is the challenge issued to Prime Minister Edward Heath's elected conservative government by the coal miners' militant Communist vice president, Michael McGahey.

He threatened a general strike and an effort to persuade soldiers to defect if ordered into the mines.

It was a clear call to violent overthrow.

Fortunately, it produced no echoing sympathy among other workers nor from Britain's Labor Party which is Socialist based.

Britain's industry is more dependent than most upon coal. The energy shortage brought about by the Arab oil embargo and the miners' previous refusal to work overtime already had forced a three-day work week.

The total shutdown of the mines could reduce it still further.

Already there are predictions that British unemployment, now at about the million mark, could increase to as much as 4 million.

At issue is the miners' determination to get more than the 16 per cent raise offered by the government and to get it now, and Heath's equal determination to hold the line on Phase 3 of his economic program limiting increases in wages and prices. The 16 per cent offered the miners already went far beyond the 7 per cent lid imposed under Phase 3.

In issuing his call for general elections Feb. 28, Heath took perhaps his greatest gamble.

UPI Correspondent Joseph Grigg in London capsuled the issues when he said that on the Conservative side the election would be fought on themes of "Reds Under the Bed" and "Union Power" and by Harold Wilson's Labor Party on a call to "Get Britain Back to Work."

Public opinion polls so far give Heath the edge, but with a final decision resting with the "undecideds."

Slogan aimed at lifting morale

Israel: sour mood divides nation

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The agreement to separate the warring Israeli and Egyptian armies has done little to alleviate the sour mood that has settled into this nation of 3.3 million since that first day of war. If anything, it has divided the country.

So a group of advertising executives plucked a phrase from the racial unrest in the American South of the 1960s and have hoisted it as a banner in another time, another place and for another purpose—to lift sagging morale.

"We Shall Overcome" is the slogan. It appears on thousands of yellow handbills being distributed by school youngsters. It is embellished with a caricature of an Israeli youth with a peaked cap, a look of stubborn determination and the "thumbs up" sign.

"We have to restore belief in hope," said advertising executive Haim Peled, organizer of the volunteer campaign. "There is a mental crisis that began with the outbreak of the war. People don't know exactly what the future will bring."

Disengagement has split the country as never before. It is reflected in the warring between prime Minister Golda Meir's weakened Labor alignment and the opposition Likud bloc, which opposes the disengagement plan.

The toll of war dead and wounded, staggering for a tiny country caught unprepared for a surprise attack, plunged Israel into depression. Everyone knows someone who has been killed or wounded.

The pluckiness that characterized Israel after the victory of 1967 is gone.

"We paid a very heavy price," Peled said. "We can't ignore the fact that something bad happened. There is shock. There were so many losses, so much damage.

"It's a small nation and we have to be unified. The elections caught us at a bad time because of the disunity they caused. People don't know exactly what the future will bring."

Museums are empty. The concert season is awry. Furniture stores are closing for lack of business. Never has it been so easy to get a seat in a movie theater on a Saturday night. The movies are Israel's favorite form of entertainment.

"You Are Okay, We Are Okay, Everything Will Be Okay," read stickers plastered to car windows and bumpers. These too are part of the campaign by the Israel Advertisers Association.

But the buses run every 30 minutes because many of the vehicles are shuttling soldiers back and forth from the frontlines. The bus stops are full with waiting commuters. Few motorists heed a call by the transport ministry to stop and pick up their brethren at the bus stops.

Old women, some carrying heavy parcels from marketinng, think nothing of trying to hitchhike.

"There will be plenty of hard times ahead in all fields, so we might as well get used to the idea and take appropriate steps to keep each others spirits up," Peled said.

101,000 acres of Texas prisons

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Prisons are big business in Texas, primarily due to the 101,000 acres of land operated by the Texas Department of Corrections.

All of the land, builings and equipment are valued at some $63 million.

Snake as pet? there's no way

You know the trouble with some women? They have no imagination. A neighbor was telling me the other day that her little boy, Jody, wanted to bring a bull snake home from his vacation.

"What did you tell him?" I asked.

"I couldn't think of a reason why he couldn't," she said, helplessly shrugging her shoulders.

"Are you kidding?" I shrieked. "A few years ago, my son captured a small slimy specimen in a Coke bottle and I could think of 10 reasons for leaving him behind. (The snake, not the boy.)

1. Snakes do not know their own minds. They may jump up and down and think they want to leave their Mommys and Daddys for a fun trip, but after two days away from home, it's spit-up time.

2. You would get bored with one another. After all, what can a snake do? Can he chase a ball after you throw it? Can he walk to the shopping center with you on a leash? Can he walk into a crowded room and keep it that way?

3. Snakes are a minority group. Face it. Do you want him to feel the pains of discrimination? Wouldn't it break your heart to have his admission refused at Bible school? Or to leave him outside in a Mason jar while you were inside with friends?

4. Snakes are difficult to paper train.

5. Snakes adhere to a diet of living things. What happens when he runs out of mice and begins to eye your meter reader?

6. How would we know if he got a headache?

7. How would you explain it to him if someone accidentally hit him with a rake?

8. You would be forcing on him a monk's existence. How do you know he doesn't want to date and eventually have a family?

"Did he buy it?" asked my neighbor bright-eyed. "I mean did he realize that there were inherent differences between a boy and a snake?"

"Not until I hit him with reasons 9 and 10."

"Which were?"

9. If you put that snake in the car with your mother, she will have a heart attack and drop dead.

10. Ask yourself, do you want to be a motherless boy roaming through life with a sex-starved, militant, maladjusted snake in a Coke bottle?

"He chose you insead of the snake, right?" she asked.

"No, but he's still thinking about it," I sad.

Bridge

Jacoby's 2-NT gives options

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The two no trump response to a major-suit opening bid by an unpassed hand is popular with all bridge players, who feel that the Declaration of Independence gives every red-blooded American the right to bid notrump before his partner gets a chance to do so.

It also is one of the least necessary bids there is. We have seen many minor-suits slams lost because of the abuse of this bid.

Thus, when we take this bid out of our kit and give it the artificial meaning that it is a forcing raise of partner's major suit, we aren't hurting our regular bidding at all.

The first great advantage of the Jacoby two no trump is that it allows an entire extra round of bidding below game. The rebids by opener are:

1—Three of a new suit to show a singleton or void.

2—Four of own suit to show no singleton and minimum.

3—Three notrump to show no singleton and sound bid.

4—Three of suit to show no singleton and at least three points above a minimum.

5—Four of new suit to show specifically a 6-5-1-1 distribution.

Today's hand shows a 22 high-card-point slam bid by the use of the Jacoby two no-trump. South rebids three hearts to show the singleton. He has a minimum opening, but still must make this bid.

This enables North to go right into Blackwoods to get to the easy slam. He knows that all his high cards will be workers.

Here's text of Hearst girl's tape

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) —The text of Patricia Hearst's tape recording sent to her parents:

Mom, Dad I'm okay. I had a few scrapes and stuff, but they washed them up and they're getting okay and I caught a cold, but they're giving me pills for it and stuff, I'm not being starved or beaten or unnecessarily frightened.

I've heard some press reports and so I know that Steve and the neighbors are okay and that no one was really hurt, and I also know that the SLA members here are very upset about press distortions of what's been happening. They have nothing to do with the August 7th Movement; they have not been shooting down helicopters or shooting down innocent people in the streets.

I'm kept blindfolded usually so that I can't identify anyone. My hands are often tied, but generally they're not. I'm not gagged or anything, I'm comfortable, and I think you can tell that I'm not really terrified or anything, and I'm okay.

I was very upset to hear about the police rushing in on that house in Oakland, and I was just really glad that I wasn't there, and I would appreciate if everyone would just calm down and not try to find me and not try to make identifications because they're not only endangering me but they're endangering themselves.

I'm with a combat unit that's armed with atomatic weapons and there's also a medical team here and there's no way that I will be released until they let me go, so it wouldn't do any good for somebody to come in here and try to get me out by force. These people aren't just a bunch of nuts, they've been really honest with me, but they're perfectly willing to die for what they're doing, and I want to get out of here, but theo nly way I'm going to is if we do it their way.

I just hope that you'll do what they say, Daddy, and do it quickly. I have been starting and stopping this tape myself so that I can collect my thoughts, that's why there are so many stops in it. I'm not being forced to say anything. I think it's important that you take their requests very seriously about not arresting any other SLA members and about following their good faith requests to the letter, and I just want to get out of here and see everyone again and to be back with Steve.

The SLA is very interested in seeing how you're taking this, Dad, to make sure that you're really serious and listening to what they're saying. And they think you've been taking this whole thing a lot more seriously than the police or the FBI and other federal people have been taking it, and it seems to be getting to the point where they're not worried about you as much as they're worried about other people, or at least I am.

It's really up to you to make sure that the people don't jeopardize my life by charging in and doing stupid things, and I hope that you'll make sure that they don't do anything else like that Oakland house business.

The SLA people have really been honest with me and I feel pretty sure that I'm going to get out of here if everything goes they way they want it to, and I think you should feel that way too, and try not to worry so much. I know it's hard. I heard that Mom is really upset and that everybody was at home, and I hope that this puts you a little bit at ease so that you know that I really am all right. I just hope that I can get back to everybody real soon.

The SLA has ideological ties with the IRA, the people's struggle in the Philippines and the socialist people in Puerto Rico and their struggle for independence and they consider themselves to be soldiers who are fighting and aiding these people.

I am a prisoner of war and so are the two men in San Quentin. Two SLA members are in San Quentin Prison awaiting trial on charges of murdering Oakland School Superintendent Marcus Foster last November.

I'm here because I'm a member of a ruling class family and I think you can begin to see the analogy. The men in San Quentin are bieng held and they're going to be tried simply because they are members of the SLA and not because they've done anything.

Witnesses to the shooting of Foster saw black men and two white men have been arrested for that.

You're being told this so you'll understand why I was kidnapped. And so that you'll understand that whatever happens to the two priosners is going to happen to me. You have to understand that I am held being innocent the same way that the two men in San Quentin are innocent and they are simply members of the group and have not actually done anything themselves to warrant their arrest.

They apparently were part of an intelligence unit and never executed anyone themselves. The SLA has declared war against the government and it's important that you understand that they know what they are doing and you understand what their actions mean and that you realize that this is not considered by them to be just a simple kidnaping and that you don't treat it that way and say I don't know why she was taken. I'm telling you now why this happened so that you'll know sot hat you'll have something to use, the knowledge to try to get me out of here. If you can get that food thing organized before the 19th then that's okay and it will just speed up my release.

Today is Friday the eighth and in Kuwait they, the commandos, negotiatedt he release of their hostages and they left the country. Bye.

Bus boycott figure visits Gov. Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Alabama (UPI) — In the 1950's, Mrs. Rosa Parks triggered the bus boycott here because she refused to give up her seat on a bus to whites. Her prosecution sparked years of civil rights demonstrations.

Just before Christmas, Mrs. Parks stopped here and paid a surprise visit on Gov. George C. Wallace. He thanked her for stopping by his office.

She now works in the office of Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich.

Kitchens, bathrooms become glamor spots

MANSFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Housewives are making their kitchens and bathrooms the glamor spots of their homes.

In modern decorating schemes the kitchen often determines the color and design patterns for the bathrooms, James T. Sledge, division president of Borg-Warner Plumbing Products, said recently.

He noted that bathrooms sport fixtures in stylish decorator colors and dramatic wall and curtain designs.

DR. ALPHEUS T. MASON

Princeton man fills professorship

CLAREMONT — Dr. Alpheus T. Mason has been appointed to fill the William A. Johnson Memorial Professorship for a visiting professor in government at Pomona College.

Mason, a native of Maryland, was a member of the faculty at Princeton University for almost 45 years, receiving emeritus status in 1968. Since that time, he has been a lecturer and visiting professor at more than a dozen colleges and universities in Japan, England and throughout the United States.

During the spring semester, he will occupy the Johnson Professorship. Mason will be mainly occupied in the teaching of two courses, Government 161, which will cover American constitutional law, and Government 166, an advanced seminar in law and public policy, according to Fred Krinsky, chairman of the college's government department.

Two trials ordered in burning death

ONTARIO — The murder trial of three men accused of burning a Chino youth to death in a garage has been separated into two trials by West Valley Superior Court Judge James Cunningham.

In a pretrial hearing Friday Judge Cunningham separated the trial of Rudy Arellano, 22, of 1337 Mildred St., Chino, from the trial of Alexander Jesse Ruiz, 23, of 13122 Roswell Ave. Chino, and Steve Edmund Lopez, 20, of 1448 Jacaranda St., Chino. Both remain scheduled for Feb. 19.

The trio is accused of igniting gasoline in a Chino garage at 13216 Fifth St., Chino, on Oct. 26, starting the fire that fatally burned Rodney Almaguer, 14, of 13263 Fourth St., Chino. Young Almaguer died at Loma Linda Community Hospital several weeks after the incident.

Judge Cunningham took the action to sever the trials on a motion filed by John Moore, Arellano's attorney, who argued that Ruiz made statements that could be damaging to his client if the court ruled that he concurred with the statements.

Attorneys John Polakovic, defending Ruiz, and Frank Batchelor, defending Lopez, also filed motions for severance of the trials arguing that statements by Arellano could be damaging to their clients.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Kenneth Kloepfer indicated that he would like to proceed with the murder trial of Arellano on Feb. 19, but Moore said he could not be ready by that time.

Judge Cunningham indicated that there could be a disposition of the Lopez-Ruiz case prior to Feb. 19, and said both trials would still be scheduled on Feb. 19.

Walnut CSEA elects officers

WALNUT — Mark Feigles of Walnut has been elected president of Chapter 446 of the Walnut Valley Unified School District, California School Employes Association.

Serving with Feigles during the year will be Jerry Fehlman of La Puente, vice president; Sheila Mason of West Covina, secretary; Carol Hennessy of Walnut, treasurer; and Audreyann Herring of Walnut, reporter.

Outbreaks of flu reported in 17 states

ATLANTA (UPI) — The National Center for Disease Control (NCDC) says outbreaks of flu have been reported in 17 states, primarily affecting school-age children.

The center said, however, there has been no increase in deaths above the number normally expected during the flu season.

The illness has pushed school absenteeism in some of the affected states as high as 60 per cent. The illness is generally characterized by fever, cough, headache, sore throat, occasional nausea, vomiting and abdominal pain.

The NCDC said the predominant type of influenza in the United States to date has been the B-type, which was identified in 11 of the states reporting outbreaks.

27 years behind bars

Prison bad boy gets chance at freedom

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Cecil J. Lovedahl, who spent 27 years behind bars and compiled one of the worst disciplinary records in the corrections system, is taking his first step toward freedom.

Lovedahl, 47, was paroled Tuesday from Central Prison here to the Delancey Street Foundation in San Francisco. The program is aimed at bringing hardened criminals back into society.

"I'll do my best and try to make a go of it," Lovedahl said. "Someday I'm looking forward to living without supervision."

Lovedahl was convicted in 1946 of murdering a taxi driver in Jackson County and sentenced to 50 years in prison.

"I'd given up (on the parole) when the people at Blanch (State Prison) told me to get my stuff, that I was going to Raleigh to see the Parole Board," he said.

Recently, Parole Board Chairman J. M. Boxley and board member Wiley Earp "came and told me I was leaving today," he said.

At Delancey Street he will be gradually reintroduced to society and trained for work.

Under terms of the release he will remain under supervision of the Parole Board here and the California Adult Authority.

Should all go well during his two years at Delancey Street, Lovedahl will be returned to North Carolina and be considered for parole.

"I think I can handle it—I done some welding once, and I hear Delancey has a garage and a construction outfit, so I think I'll be able to learn something," he said.

Lovedahl plans to go to Washington state where his parents reside "and get a job there" if he wins his freedom.

Salt water gargle still best remedy

NEW YORK (UPI) — The medical newsletter, "Executive Health", says there probably is no more benefit from most commercial gargles than you can obtain by gargling with warm salt water.

"Many ear, nose and throat specialists continue to advise gargling with warm salt water," reports Executive Health.

A child is waiting

He's willing to try adoption again

By CHARLOTTE LOBB

When Michael was 7, he was adopted by a very traditional Japanese couple. They tried to develop him into their definition of a solid citizen. It didn't work.

Now 13, Michael is searching again for a permanent home where the family can accept him just as he is.

"I like his creative abilities," says his social worker. "He is artistic when he wants to sit still and has a talented imagination."

Michael plays a winning game of tennis and enjoys all sports. He hasn't done too well in the classroom yet but does have confidence in his own academic abilities.

Michael accepts authority, but teachers and parents find they must frequently establish boundaries and reassert themselves.

MICHAEL

After he was relinquished from his adoptive home, Michael was both angry and depressed. With the help of therapy and an accepting foster family, he is making progress understanding himself.

A new adoptive family should not expect Mike to change too much. A racially mixed couple might be ideal but race is not as important as acceptance.

A single father would be considered though Mike still responds well to mothering.

Michael says if a family could share his interests in motorcycles and horses, he would like to give adoption one more try. Call the Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions, Mrs. Margaret Sikkens, (213) 338-8461 Ext. 271. If you wish you may call collect.

New Pomona ordinance revises city hiring practices

POMONA — A new city ordinance given initial approval by the City Council would replace a so-called "rule of three" with a more flexible system in the selection of applicants for city employment.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce said the proposed changes, which will include a concept called "band certification," will provide greater opportunity to carry out the city's Affirmative Action Employment Program.

He said the revised regulations also would remove the criticism of only certifying the top three job applicants on an eligibility list "when others were only tenths of percentage points apart on their scores."

"The purpose in revising the hiring ordinance has been to attempt to reduce an extremely burdensome clerical procedure, to clear up some language ambiguities, to modify a very rigid rule of three system, and to assist the implementation of our Affirmative Action Program," said Sidney R. Simms, personnel officer.

The present rule of three was one of the major changes in hiring practices initiated in 1970 following an investigation by a four-man panel into discrimination in employment policies.

Under this rule, a composite score is compiled for each job applicant based on scores on the written, oral and other exams, and from the composite scores, a list of eligibility is set up.

A list of the top three applicants then is submitted to the department with the vacancy. Starting at the top, the department was required to make a selection or justify in writing why, in descending order, any of the nominees were bypassed.

The new ordinance requires that applicants achieving passing scores on each phase of the examination procedure and having a total average composite score of 85 per cent and higher be placed in the top band of certified eligible candidates.

Applicants having a total average composite score of 75 to 84 per cent would be placed in a second band, and applicants with total average composite scores of 70 to 74 per cent would be placed in a third band.

Selection, according to the ordinance would be as follows:

"The appointing authority requesting to fill a vacant position shall be permitted to select (narrow the field) from the top band of eligible candidates until that group has been reduced to three names or less and then can utilize the last three names in that band and the next band of eligible candidates to make his selection."

Another major change made in 1970, since revised somewhat, was the requirement that the interviewing committee include a representative from the department with the vacancy, a personnel office representative and a member of the community.

The new ordinance reads:

"This committee will consist of a combination of any of the following: representative(s) from the department, representative(s) from the personnel department, representative(s) from the community, an outside expert in the job area, and-or others as designated by the personnel officer."

"The clerical problems with the current system have created a financial and time-consuming catastrophe which will continue to grow and should be controlled immediately," Simms said in his written recommendation to the council.

"To maintain our present system with the constantly increasing number of applicants will increase the recruiting budget in the coming two years by 100 per cent with the necessity of two additional people."

The new ordinance requires the personnel officer to advertise the availability of a position but makes this exception:

"However, the personnel department shall first notify those individuals with interest cards or applications on file for said position and the personnel director shall determine within five working days after said notification if there are at least 75 applicants, including a reasonable number of qualified minorities and females in accordance with the Affirmative Action Program, to satisfactorily conduct said examinations, without further advertisement."

The new ordinance gives an applicant for employment the right to appeal to the Merit System Commission on any alleged violation of the personnel ordinance or rules.

The new ordinance was placed on a first reading on a 3-1 council vote. It would go into effect after a second reading followed by a 30-day referendum period.

The dissenting vote came from Councilman Adrian T. Wright, who said, "I don't like it."

Stockpiling gasoline can kill, chief says

POMONA — Every consumer who stockpiles gasoline exposes his family and his possessions to the real danger of deadly explosions and fire, Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes warns.

"In the face of gasoline shortages, many householders and motorist are hoarding fuel without thinking about the tragedies they could cause," said Fowlkes.

He urged consumers to be alert to gasoline's danger signals.

"Any smell of gasoline in a storage room or automobile trunk is good evidence of a vapor leak in the container and sould be taken care of immediately," said Fowlkes.

To store gasoline at home, Fowlkes advises use of an approved safety can—never a glass jug, discarded bleach bottle or other makeshift container.

Gasoline should be kept in a well-ventilated area where it can't be tipped or damaged accidentally and kept well out of the reach of small children.

Gasoline should never be stored in the same room with hot water heating equipment where a pilot light or sparking switch could set off an explosion of accumulated vapors, said Fowlkes.

"This means that home storage areas, such as utility rooms and garages shouldn't be used for gasoline, especially if heating equipment is located there."

Carrying extra gasoline in the trunk of the car also can create an explosive situation, the chief added.

"Gasoline vapors can filter from the trunk into the car's interior where the striking of a match or an electrical system spark can set off a powerful explosion."

If spare gasoline must be carried on the road, Fowlkes recommends use of a metal or approved plastic can that is absolutely vapor tight.

Rotary scholar shows pictures

POMONA — Stephanie Dempsey Herkelrath, who did graduate work in Australia last year under a scholarship from Rotary International, showed color slides of scenic views "down under" at the meeting Tuesday at the Elks Lodge of the Rotary Club which sponsored her.

Her slides included scenes photographed on a 5,600-mile bus tour taken with international exchange students last summer.

To handle Cahuilla Park problems

Claremont decides: 'no proctor'

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The City Council Tuesday night decided that hiring a proctor to handle the vandalism problem at Cahuilla Park is not the way to go, and instead will send a council representative who will hopefully join a school board representative to "rap" with Claremont High's meandering students.

The council had deferred a decision at its last meeting to share the cost of hiring a proctor with the Claremont School District to work with those students who spend their spare time during school hours at Cahuilla Park, the community park adjacent to the high school campus.

The school district had offered to share the cost of a proctor for about four hours a day.

Mayor Bertye Smith estimated the city's cost would be between $135 and $150 a month, "and then you can't guarantee that the vandalism will not continue."

The council was told that vandalism at Cahuilla Park since the opening of school in September has been between $300 and $400.

Mayor Smith said that the publicity given the situation at Cahuilla Park has been very good, and that service clubs at Claremont High have initiated an antilittering campaign, which includes the park.

Asked if the city might consider opening the Youth Activity Center in the park for students to spend their time, Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan explained that the building is "carrying a full load" during the day and evening hours with gym classes and recreation activities.

Hagan said that allowing students to use the center would not solve the current problems of vandalism, harassment of citizens, and littering at the park, but would create another area for problems.

Pete West, city human resources coordinator, said that he had talked to the meandering students, and that "some of the things you want to do, they want to do, too."

West said that some students use the park before their morning classes, some he interviewed were between classes, and others were cutting classes.

He said that the students told him, "We want some benches here. We want some grass," the latter comment evoking laughter in the audience.

"The students have isolated themselves depending on what's going on in their heads," West said.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald said, "I feel they have every right to use the park. I feel supervision would not stop vandalism. I feel a proctor would not make that much difference. I would like to see them on their own shape up."

West said that if a person were hired there would have to be a program to go with him.

Hagan said that he hopes the antilittering campaign will work. He said that there have been no recent problems of groups of students "taking after tennis players."

West explained that individual students are willing to talk to those in higher echelons, and that they want to open communications. "They're not that anti," he said.

Councilman Frank Hungerford commented that he likes the communications angle, and suggested that a council representative, a city staff member, a school board member, and school district staff representative sit down with someone from the student group.

"The students are not adverse to rules," West said, "but they want to know what the rules are all about."

Hagan said that setting the ground rules for Cahuilla Park had been held off until the park is developed.

Mrs. McDonald volunteered to serve as the council representative.

City Manager Keith Mulrooney noted that the Assembly has passed a bill allowing students to smoke in designated areas on high school campuses.

Councilman Gene Block said that the council is due soon for a joint meeting with the school board, but the city Parks and Recreation Commission could be included in the meeting.

Ski champion to show film at library tonight

POMONA — Rolf Chrisofferson, expert skier and downhill racing champion, will talk about techniques of cross-country skiing and show a 25-minute color film during a program at the Pomona Public Library tonight, starting at 7:30.

Chrisofferson's presentation, open to the general public, will deal with different kinds of skis and explain the differences between touring, racing and cross-country skiing.

A native of Norway and a resident of West Covina, Chrisofferson has been skiing for 40 years. So far this season he has won three gold medals in slalom competition.

Nothing 'flighty' about dirigibles

An idea whose time may be coming back is the dirigible.

Not those "little" ones of the 1920s and 1930s like Germany's Graf Zeppelin or Hindenburg or America's Akron or Macon but giant airships longer than three city blocks, powered by steam or nuclear engines, with cargoes weighing as much as a million pounds.

The day of the dirigible supposedly ended in the hydrogen fire that destroyed the Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J., on May 6, 1937, as it was completing its 37th commercial ocean crossing. But immense advances in technology have been made in the past four decades and engineers are beginning to take a second look at this form of aerial transportation, say scientists Kurt R. Stehling and J. Gordon Vaeth, writing in NOAA the magazine of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Among the things the dirigible has going for it, at least theoretically:

—It needs no costly runaways. It can "land" without landing. Passengers could be taken off by means of onboard shuttle helicopters or airplanes; cargo could be winched up and downwhile the dirigible hovers.

—Using large, steam-driven, slow-turning propellers, the dirigible would be exceptionally clean and quiet and have a range of 10,000 miles. With nuclear power, its range would be unlimited.

—Using helium instead of inflammable hydrogen and with radar and the ability to fly around or over storms, it could be as safe and reliable as the modern jet liner.

—The dirigible is attractive, also, in light of the energy crisis. Because its lifting gas is what enables it to fly, it needs propulsive power only to move it through the air. Thus its energy needs are remarkably low.

A dirigible of the 1970s would not simply be an enlarged version of the 1930s model. Utilizing recent advances in propulsion, materials, guidance, navigation and electronics, it would be on the order of 25 million cubic feet (the Hindenburg was seven million) with a prestressed metallic or plastic skin and a minimum of internal girderwork. Such a vehicle, capable of 100 to 150 miles an hour, and measuring something like a thousand feet long and 300 feet in diameter, would have a useful lift of 400 to 500 tons.

The slow-moving dirigible could not compete with the jet, of course. Rather, it would be a luxury liner of the skies, carrying 200 to 500 passengers in stateroom comfort on leisurely sightseeing cruises, able to pause in mid-air for close-up views of spectacular scenery through picture windows.

It would also have more practical uses: As a scientific platform for studying the earth, as a pollution monitor, as a transporter of perishable foodstuffs, as an emergency relief vehicle carrying great quantities of aid to disaster areas. An aerial version of the medical ship HOPE could go places where the HOPE cannot go.

The first step, however, should be construction of a training airship of perhaps three million cubic feet to develop the critical piloting and ground-handling skills required. This scaled-down craft, which would also serve as a flying testbed for developmental items, might be put into the air in two years at a cost of $50 million.

It, and the larger ships that would follow, could be built in the 13 airship hangars still standing in the United States.

Is it possible that the dream vehicle of tomorrow may not be the supersonic transport or the rocket but the dirigible? There's increasing reason to believe that it may, say the authors.

There's no peanut crunch

There may be another use for the lowly peanut that even George Washington Carver never thought of.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, fireplace "logs" made of a mixture of peanut hulls and waxes may soon be doing their small bit to ease the energy, uh, crunch.

At the present time, the producers of peanuts and peanut products get rid of vast quanities of the hulls in incinerators.

"That seemed to us to be a terrible waste of a potentially useful resource," says Bill Albrecht, of USDA's Russell Research Center at Athens, Ga. "So by way of experiment, we compared two brands of commercial wood chip longs with our peanut hull logs by burning them in a home fireplace."

The wood chip logs burned about four hours, while the peanut logs burned for three. But the latter, he reports, "seemed to burn more vigorously, with a warmer flame."

Also, the peanut logs were easier to ignite, odorless and produced little smoke. When salts were added to the mixture, the logs burned with pretty colors.

The researchers believe that peanut logs could be marketed for about the same cost per unit of warmth as wood chip logs.

The nation's $6 billion joy ride

WASHINGTON — That renaissance man of consumerism, Ralph Nader, has turned temporarily from auto safety to auto fuels and found gasoline companies are taking the United States for a $6 billion joy ride in 1974.

In a draft study, Nader reports the oil companies pay even less tax on their income than President Nixon, while they pump the Treasury for $6 billion in unwarranted tax breaks.

"Taxpayers have been tricked into paying the oil companies and their wealthy investors billions a year through tax subsidies," says Nader's Tax Reform Research Group. Big Oil's friends in Congress try to justify the loopholes by saying they are needed to encourage exploration.

"But the billions. . .we've spent have utterly failed to prevent the present energy shortage," the Nader report goes on. "Consumers and taxpayers shouldn't always be the fall guys. The. . .tax subsidies should be scrapped."

For instance, in 1972, Exxon paid 6.5 per cent on $3.7 billion in profits, Texaco paid 1.7 per cent and Mobil paid 1.3 per cent, although corporations are supposed to pay 48 per cent.

And while motorists line up at 6:00 a.m. to pay 50 cents a gallon for "regular," and sleepy-eyed attendants and station managers do their best to keep a stiff upper lip, the oil moguls are reaping 60 per cent higher profits than last year. Their recent 10-cent-a-gallon rise is giving them a $10 billion bonanza, the tax reform group says.

The two most gaping tax loopholes are the famous oil depletion allowance and a provision that permits write-offs of "intangible drilling costs" like labor and transportation in a single year. Most businesses have to spread write-offs over many years.

These two breaks alone "cost the taxpayers $1.6 billion in 1972 and are projected to. . .a whopping $2.9 billion in fiscal 1975," the report contends.

Another little-known loophole is that oil firms with foreign subsidiaries can count their royalties to Arab and other potentates as taxes and deduct the entire amounts from their U.S. tax bill. This is a little like letting an ordinary taxpayer deduct charitable contributions and doctors' fees from the actual amount of income taxes owed instead of from income.

Far from suffering from the increases of foreign oil prices, the oil companies will be able to reduce their U.S. taxes by $3 billion in 1974 because of this royalty gimmick, the Nader group estimates.

"And we taxpayers have to foot the bill for tax laws that actually deprive us of oil by making it more profitable for oil to be produced and sold abroad," says the study.

President Nixon's "windfall profits" plan actually would only cost the oil companies pennies per barrel even if present profits soar higher, Nader concludes. "In three years the oil companies will pay no tax at all on oil they sell for $7 a barrel. This phase-out will just encourage the oil producers to keep their oil in the ground until the tax. . .ends completely."

In any case, the Nader group predicts that when the going gets rough, the guileful oil companies will sneak their profits into other parts of their operation such as shipping or refining.

Nader castigates Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, D-La., an oil millionaire, and his House counterpart, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., for paying attention to "their own self interests" instead of the national interest.

While Long has made no secret of his friendship for fellow oil millionaires, Mills has tried to appear more even-handed. Yet, in fact, at Mills' House Ways and Means hearings, witnesses for Exxon, Gulf, Sun and other oil companies were allowed to testify in prime time so their views could be heard by the full committee.

But such devoted consumer advocates as former Treasury tax analysis head Gerard Brannon had to testify at 7:00 p.m., when only four yawning congressmen were present in the committee room.

In addition, a new study of Mills' 1972 presidential campaign contributions show that of almost $250,000 known to have been contributed, some $50,000 came from donors connected with energy companies.

Gulf Oil, for example, gave him an illegal contribution of $15,000. Mills, when pressed, returned it.

Records show that C.H. Murphy of Murphy Oil and Edward M. Carey, New England Petroleum president, each gave him $5,000.

One of the men favored with a prime time appearance before Mills' committee was Emilio Colado, executive vice president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, who sweetened Mills' campaign with $500.

FOOTNOTE: The oil executives, and their trade group, the American Petroleum Institute, swear that oil profits are not too high and insist they pay a fair share of taxes.

Getting gas in the olden times

BY DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The kid and I were in a gas line. To pass the time, I was telling him stories about the olden times.

"What was it like getting gas in the olden times?" the kid asked.

I shaded my eyes with my hand and peered into the distance.

"See that service station up on yonder bluff? I can remember when it stayed open 24 hours a day."

"You sure you don't mean 24 hours a week, old timer?"

"Yeah, kid, I'm sure. It was open all day and all night. I can remember it as plain as yesterday."

We moved up a car's length and the kid said, "Why would it stay open all day and all night to sell gas from 7 to 9 a.m.?"

"That was part of the beauty of the olden times, kid," I said. "We could buy gas around the clock, seven days a week."

The kid said, "I'm getting out of the car if you're going to start lying again."

"Honest to Pete, kid, this is on the level. We never had to hunt around for a station that was open. Any time the tank ran low we always knew there would be an open station down the road a piece."

"How long were the lines, old timer?"

The kid thought I was joshing him.

"There weren't any lines, kid. We just drove right up to the pump."

"Holy Simon!" the kid exclaimed. "Do you mean to tell me you could get $3 worth of gas without waiting half a day?"

He was testing me now. But I gave it to him straight.

"There wasn't any $3 limit or any other ceiling. Usually we just told the attendant to 'fill 'er up' and he would pump in as much as the tank would hold."

"What was the gimmick?" the kid asked with the cynicism endemic in his generation. "Did you have to have your car washed, or sign up for a towing service, or what?"

"No gimmick," I doggedly replied. "As a matter of fact, if we bought 10 gallons or more the attendant would give us a free box of candy, or maybe an amber drinking glass, or some other token of appreciation."

The kid was almost doubled over with laughter, which goaded me on.

"And not only that, he would give you trading stamps, and wipe the windshield and check the tires and fill the radiator and..."

"You sure know how to pile it on thick, old timer," the kid said, wiping his eyes. "Now tell me about the time you headed off a buffalo stampede."

Forgotten middle America

This is my own opinion and not necessarily that of whoever passes it on. It is meant to present another point of view that will not reach the intended forgotten middle American taxpayer. Are we bogged down in so much intelligence that we have lost sight of common sense?

I have heard much talk about how the future of middle America being restricted is for their very best interest. But I hear very little talk that is for middle American best interest.

Six months ago people who traded their worn out cars for a down payment on a five to six thousand non luxury car made in America and supported American economy found their car of the same class that they had traded used 20 to 25 per cent more gas. If there were complaints they were muffled.

Then about the time they got back from their vacations they found that they had 30 to 32 payments left on a car that is to be restricted to 100 or less miles per week while many of the foreign cars supporting foreign economies will receive enough gas to travel 200 to 300 miles a week.

Then there is the matter of insurance. I have not heard a word about cutting premiums to fit the mileage restriction, but with this thought I could be investigated. Well, I said it in spite of the hazard. There are many more things that happen to middle America. Of course for their own good and protection. But I will not mention any more at this time because this kind of talk is not good for middle America as long as they are to be the victims. —M. B. Cooper, La Verne.

Gossip for today

I have been recording the various gasoline saving percentages folks claim they are getting because they drive 55 miles per hour; because they have disconnected their car radio and air conditioner; because they time their driving speed so as not to have to stop so often for traffic lights; because they've quit gunning their cars for fast starts; because they turn off the motor instead of letting the car idle while waiting for passengers to arrive; because—but you name it, someone is doing it and claiming phenomenal results. —Finally I added all those gas saving percentages together and it came to 110 per cent. So now I realize my gasoline shortage worries are over. All I have to do is drive my car, practice all those gas economy suggestions, and when I get home I'll have 10 per cent more gasoline in the car than when I started out.

Soviets prepare for gunboat wisdom

It can be stated with assurance that even the pessimists in the Pentagon are convinced Russia will not attack the continental United States with ballistic missiles in our lifetime.

The judgment here is that the Soviet Union, however adventurist philosophically, however willing to explore and exploit every U.S. and Western weakness and however eager to promote wars (among others) which serve its interests, is militarily very cautious about taking any actions which would invite a counter attack on Russia.

Even the worry that Moscow would launch a preemptive attack, destroy our missile bases (spare our cities) and then sit back and wait has long since evaporated here at the top.

This happy conclusion does not mean safety for the United States. The belief here is that Moscow aims at a strategic superiority so great, that without overt military moves of any kind, the Soviet Union will be able to slowly nibble away at the Western world until the United States is left economically, politically and militarily isolated. (Schlesinger believes the breakup of the West European alliance has Soviet top priority.)

If that U.S. isolation could be achieved, Moscow, without firing a shot, would be able to dictate to this country and to our associates — any that remained.

The Soviet Union could then, if it chose, insert missiles into Cuba without fear of American challenge. It could force the Europeans and South Koreans to order American troops home. It could tell Japan to end its alliance with the United States. It could dominate votes in the United Nations.

Moscow could interfere with complacency in the Middle East, in Southeast Asia, in Africa and Europe, deciding the flow of energy and minerals on which American and Western stability exists. In a host of smaller countries, Russia could decide which governments should live and which be taken over by infiltrators and peoples militia — all by simple threat of force or by proxy with non-Russians fighting with Soviet arms.

What this adds up to is that Schlesinger believes a new era of gunboat diplomacy is in the works, but wth Russians manning the gunboats. Thus the huge Soviet strategic arms buildup.

It is this analysis of Russia's aims — not fear of an attack on the continental United States — that lies behind Schlesinger's drive for a broad-based American strategic buildup.

According to this revised Schlesinger analysis, the wars Moscow plans will be fought on the Middle East pattern. That is, the Soviet Union will supply its clients with great numbers of relatively inexpensive weapons, on the theory that mass will overcome most obstacles, including sophisticated planes, tanks and warships.

In Southeast Asia, the Viet Cong were heavily armed with simple, but effective, automatic AK47s. The Egyptians and Syrians had unbelievably large amounts of equipment which they threw into battle with abandon. Thus Schlesinger's search for submarines, anti-tank, surface-to-air and long-range missiles and fighter planes of our own which can be produced economically in quantity.

Thought for today

"When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth; for he will not speak on his authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come." —John 16:13.

If any man seeks for greatness, let him forget greatness and ask for truth, and he will find both. —Horace Mann, American educator.

Yesterdays

Looking backward through the files of this newspaper

10 years ago Feb. 13, 1964

Several cities in the Pomona Valley are working on annexation projects. For instance, Chino is considering the annexation of 2,400 acres which includes the California Institution for Men, the Youth Training School and two smaller state correctional facilities.

20 years ago Feb. 13, 1954

The Los Angeles County branch Court House to be built in Pomona may become a reality in the very near future.

50 years ago Feb. 13, 1924

A large delegation of Pomona Republicans will attend the formal opening of the "Coolidge for President" headquarters for Los Angeles County and Southern California in Los Angeles tonight.

Berry's world

"... Yes—INDEED, it DOES say something to me. It says to me: You're in the wrong field, Ace!"

Little vehicles don't arrive; paper drive stalled

ONTARIO — The city's paper drive has been stalled by the delayed delivery of small collection vehicles.

Officials had proposed starting the collection of old newspapers next month. But this has been delayed several weeks by a request from Cushman Motor Sales of Santa Fe Springs for a 60-day delivery.

The city proposes to make daily collections of old newspaper for sale to the Garden State Paper Co. in Pomona. All profits will be used to purchase trees for parks and parkways.

The City Council recently awarded a contract to the Santa Fe Springs firm for purchase of four small three-wheeled vehicles for use in collecting the newspapers. Its low bid was $2,094 per vehicle. These have flat beds and covered cabs. Each has a carrying capacity of 2,000 pounds.

Because of the heavy demand for these small vehicles, the manufacturer requested 60 days to make delivery.

"There has been a large demand because of the recent fuel shortage," explained Dennis Wilkins, the city's director of public service.

The program will be started by part-time employes who will work on an hourly basis. The staff could range from five to 15 members and may include retired persons, college students and housewives.

Residents will be asked to set out newspaper bundles the same day they put out their trash.

The newspaper collectors will pick up these bundles and haul them to collection stations to be established in city parks. From here, the paper will be picked up periodically and taken to the Pomona plant.

The City Council had earlier approved a contract with the Recycling Resource of Pomona, which is a supplier for the Garden State Paper Co.

This calls for a base purchase price of $25 per ton, with a provision for review and possible adjustment each three months.

Wilkins estimates a total revenue of $35,000 the first year. This will be offset by $20,000 operating cost, leaving about $15,000 for trees.

But he cited the conservation aspect as being an important part in the program. "We must all consider taking reclaimable materials and putting them back into use."

Persons interested in part-time employment in collecting the old newspaper may contact the city's public service department at 217 S. Lemon St.

"We are now taking names and addresses of persons. We will send them cards when we begin accepting formal applications," said Wolkins.

Collection box yields strange gift--7 pups

ONTARIO — In these days of increasing crime and street violence, it isn't often police officers receive sympathy, help and credit from local citizens. But Sunday in front of the Southland Market at 1714 S. Euclid Ave. it was a different story.

Sgt. Jim Boggs, Officer Wayne Hurte and Officer Ted Desormiers, responding to a report that strange and high-pitched cries were coming out of a large Salvation Army collection box, arrived in front of the Ontario market.

The officers looked into the collection box and saw seven small crying puppies crawling out of a plastic garbage bag. The officers quickly discovered that the puppies would be hard to reach. With a great deal of effort the three officers, assisting one another, managed to pull five of the seven pups out of the box.

The unusual scene, of police officers crawling half in and half out of the box in the effort to rescue the pups attracted a large number of people. A sigh of relief from the sympathetic crowd surrounding the struggling officers was heard when the first five pups were lifted out to safety. A dozen hands reached out to comfort the squealing pups.

The three officers tried in vain to reach the other two pups still inside the box until one member of the crowd volunteered to crawl inside the box and hand them out to the officers.

When all the pups were safe, the officers and the unidentified citizen received pats on the back from members of the crowd and three, Charles Mora, Mitchell Lopez and Nancy Wilde, took pity on the puppies and offered to give them homes until the owner could be located.

A TREE-LINED STREET

A car drives down tree-lined Schaefer Avenue between Euclid and Bon View avenues near Ontario. San Bernardino County supervisors were informed this week that 250 of these eucalyptus trees will be removed when Schaefer is widened and improved. Several dairies are located along the street.

Upland man running for supervisor post

UPLAND — Pledging to restore local government to the direct control of the people, Cal McElwain of Upland announced he will seek election as San Bernardino County supervisor for the Second District.

"I plan to be in this district and available to the citizens," he said.

McElwain, an Upland resident for 16 years, recently served on the San Bernardino County Grand Jury. He is now a member of the Inland Counties Comprehensive Health Planning Council which approves all hospital construction and expansion in the county.

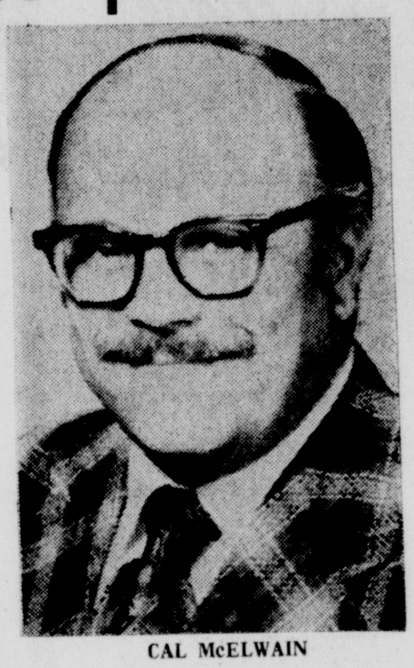
The candidate is employed at the Kaiser Steel Corp.'s metallurgical department as a control specialist.

McElwain said he will stress in his campaign the need for public transportation facilities. "For example," he said, "the experiment being conducted by the RTD (Rapid Transit District) with 10-cent bus rides on Sunday has proven very successful, and yet the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors has shown little interest in cooperating—let alone developing their own ideas."

McElwain said local leaders should give development of a public transportation system top priority. "The so-called gas shortage and soaring price of gasoline only compound the problem. Ordinary people are threatened with being taxed out of their homes and now they're faced with being priced out of their cars."

The candidate is also concerned about senior citizens faced with rising property taxes. "Taxes for those on fixed incomes should be limited on the basis of income so as to prevent elderly and disabled citizens from being forced to leave their homes," he noted.

McElwain pledged to wage a "tough, clean campaign" and to talk about the "bread and butter" issues of local government. He will seek the office now held by Supervisor Daniel Mikesell of Ontario, who announced he will seek reelection.



CAL McELWAIN

Active in community programs, McElwain is a member of the Speedway Lions Club, Elks Lodge, Upland Masonic Lodge 419, American Legion, Scottish Rite and Old Baldy Shrine Club, and is president of the Wilsonian Club. He is also a former cubmaster and served several years as director of athletics for the Calvary-Arrowhead Association.

He and his wife have six children. The family resides at 2658 Mountain Ave.

Ecology Week theme: energy conservation

ALTA LOMA — Energy conservation will be the emphasis during Ecology Week at Chaffey College starting Tuesday.

The activities will be keyed to bikes, horses, kites, car pools and hiking, with a spread of health foods for human energy.

Bike races, featuring college administrators, students and staff, will be held on Amber Lane from 2 to 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Students have been asked to commute to school on bikes that day and there will be a bike show from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a talk on biking abroad at noon by Pete Van Nuys, an American Youth Hostel representative.

Wednesday events will be devoted to horses and kites with special inducements to riders and flyers.

Corrals will be available for students commuting on horseback that day. The film, "The American Horse," will be shown at noon and there will be a kite contest from 1 to 2 p.m. and a cross-country trotting horse race from 2 to 2:30 p.m.

Other events include a car-pool drive Thursday for students in search of a commuter group, a health foods display and a mini course in terrarium building.

Friday's events include a backpacking equipment display from 10 to 1 p.m. with a noon discussion of the art of hiking and a half-hour hike starting at 1 p.m.

MHS blacks will present fashion show

MONTCLAIR — Black students at Montclair High School will present a fashion show Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the campus Little Theater.

Approximately 15 students, boys and girls, will model the latest styles.

The show is being coordinated by Paula Johnson, campus leader of the Black Student Union, and Sonja Mann, secretary. Hortense Hernandez is the adviser.

The show is one event marking Black Awareness Week of 1974.

The black students will sponsor a record hop tonight from 6 to 9:30.

They served tea to the staff in the staff lounge during luch hours on Monday. Last Sunday, they presented a choir concert in the Little Theater.

McCartney seeking Superior Court seat

SAN BERNARDINO — Municipal Court Judge James J. McCartney, in his bid for the Superior Court seat now held by Judge Joseph Katz, feels that the courts should take a tougher stand with criminals and cites San Bernardino's high crime rate.

The candidate said San Bernardino rates as the nation's eighth highest city on over-all crime.

"During merely the first nine months of 1973, San Bernardino's violent crime rate rose a disgraceful and very dangerous 18 per cent," he said.

McCartney said blaming law enforcement officers for the increase in crime is "irresponsible." He said law enforcement needs more support and that "swift and sure punishment is the greatest deterrent to crime."

"Although justice is due to the accused, it is also due to the often times forgotten person, the victim," he said.

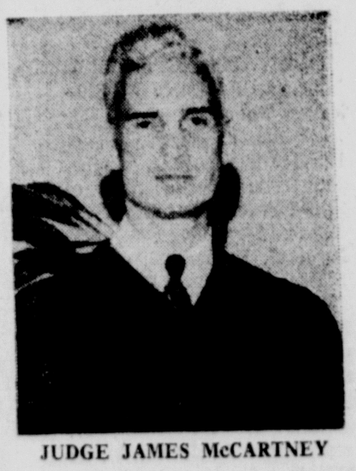
McCartney said the rights of criminals must be kept in reasonable balance with the rights of society to protect itself from an ever-increasing crime rate.

He said there should also be concern for the innocent victims of the "raging crime spree afflicting this county."

McCartney said some of the significant reasons for the perilous increase in crime in San Bernardino is the "turnstile justice that often times merely recycles criminals back into innocent society."

He said criminals are "con wise" and readily pick up the "misguided and unduly soft handling of criminals by some probation officers and some parole officers and some courts."

"Criminals readily take advantage of this situation to escape having to account for thier lawless conduct," he declared.



JUDGE JAMES McCARTNEY

McCartney, 51, is a native of New York. He has lived in San Bernardino for the past nine years. He is a graduate of the Law School at St. John's University and of the California College of Trial Judges.

He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1950 and the California Bar in 1963.

He and his wife, Leona, have one daughter, Mona.

Sports stars to appear on Black Week program

ONTARIO — Black stars from the world of sports will be on the Chaffey High School campus Thursday as part of Black Awareness Week.

Elgin Baylor, former Los Angeles Laker basketball star; Maury Wills, former Los Angeles Dodger baseball team captain; and Willie Davis, former all-pro defensive end for the Green Bay Packers football team, will be featured at an afternoon assembly on Sports Day. The assembly will be held in Spring Auditorium at 1:30 p.m.

Celebrities from the sports and entertainment fields will also take part in a basketball game in the Chaffey Boys Gym at 8 p.m. Thursday. Johnny Brown Celebrity All Stars will compete against members of the Chaffey High faculty during the game.

The Celebrity All Stars team is composed of Johnny Brown of television's "Laugh-In" show; Richard Roundtree of "Shaft", Clarence Williams III of "Mod Squad", Kent McCord of "Adam 12", Mike Warren, actor and former UCLA basketball star; Bernie Casey, actor and former Los Angeles. Ram football player; and baseball's Tommy Davis, former National League batting champion.

Doris Davis, the mayor of Compton, will speak on "Blacks in Politics" in Hill Auditorium at Chaffey High on Friday at 1:20 p.m. to conclude the Black Awareness activities at the school.

Roadside rest area opening in Fontana

FONTANA — An enlarged roadside rest area will open here Friday for motorists driving west on the San Bernardino Freeway.

It is located on the north side of the freeway between Cherry and Citrus avenues. The facility will allow travelers to rest before entering the maze of streets and freeways in Metropolitan Los Angeles.

The rest area replaces a smaller one which proved inadequate for the number of vehicles which stopped each year.

The new facility will be able to accommodate 535,000 vehicles and 1.3 million persons annually. It was enlarged at a cost of $500,000.

The rest area includes picnic tables, refrigerated drinking water, restrooms, pet areas, an information kiosk, public telephones and landscaped areas.

It will have separate truck parking for 35 truck-trailer rigs.

The Automobile Club of Southern California is preparing special mapping and displays for the kiosk.

Second session in car course is starting tonight

UPLAND — The Upland Recreation Department will offer a second session of its four-week general car maintenance class, beginning Thursday, from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Recreation Hall.

Designed for persons 15 and over, the free class covers maintenance of air filters, spark plugs and wires, points, condensers, rotors, distributors, generators, starters, solenoid switches, batteries; and includes oil and oil filter changes and tire-changing.

Upland contractor appointed to panel

UPLAND — Leo G. Valadez, an Ontario contractor, has been appointed to a vacant seat on the Upland Architectural Commission.

Valadez, of 1250 N. Euclid Ave., will fill the unexpired term of Bill Campbell.

State fights shoplifting

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York State Commerce Department sponsors anti-shoplifting workshops throughout the state in cooperation with local retail organizations and chambers of commerce.

The workshops are aimed at helping store executives and sales personnel combat the problem of shoplifting, which results in losses of more than $300 million annually to businessmen in the state.

For Thursday, Feb. 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Have the courage of your convictions. If you feel your idea is better than another's, ask for further discussion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're more capable today in helping another manage his affairs than he is. Offer him your assistance — diplomatically.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone you care a great deal for won't have any trouble swaying you to his way of thinking today.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) You'll produce your best and be more easily motivated if your tasks are for those who fall under your protective wing.

FORTUNE KOOKIES

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This will be a good daay for you. You'll be able to center your attention on the things that return the most pleasure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Yu'll have extra reserves to draw upon today, both materially and emotionally. Direct your activities from your inner strength.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your ability to communicate your ideas to others is very powerful at this time. Use your words as effective tools today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something is brewing behind the scenes that will later prove good news for your pocketbook.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may experience some unusual form of pressure from the group you're involved with today. Don't worry, you can handle it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to make your personal ambitions too obvious at this time or you'll lose the support of one who could help you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The larger the crowd, the better you function today. You need to be out where there is action, bright lights, people.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't just talk about what you'd like to accomplish. Do it. Today you can go a long way toward realizing an ambition.

February 14, 1974

This year you will be able to successfully concentrate your efforts on your most progressive hopes. A trip of considerable distance is likely.

Teaching perils cited for novices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teaching has its perils, says Frank Ward, graduate student at the University of Rochester Department of Psychology.

He offers some tongue-in-cheek advice to novice college instructors. The first problem he tackled: the situation involving a student throwing up during the teacher's first lecture.

Ward's RX: "The show must go on. Ignore minor classroom interruptions and unsolicited comments on lecture quality."

1st newspaper for Texans

Texas' first newspaper was published in Galveston in 1841.

Piano recital set at Cultural Center

LOS ANGELES — Pianist Gary Osby, a protege of the late Margaret Bonds, wil present a recital at the Inner City Cultural Center at 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

On the program are Scarlatti's Sonata in A Major, Prelude in A Major, No. 8, by Rachmaninoff, and Bach's Chaconne, Study No. 5.

ICCC will offer the Pilobolus Dance Theater in a performance Sunday evening.

Information on the two programs can be obtained at (213) 387-8289.

Movie office set up by New York state

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — For movie producers considering makung New York State the backdrop for their next pictures, the State Commerce Department has set up an office to coordinate such projects.

The Division of Public Information in the department helps commercial film mkers identify and make use of appropriate filming locations, including such areas as parklands, forest preserves and historic sites.

A long hall

If the Washington Monument were laid lengthwise on the floor of the grand concourse of Union Station in Washington, D.C., it would lack 205 feet of spanning the great hall. The monument is 555 feet tall; the concourse is 760 feet long.

TV nets to offer variety of shows

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television often saves its biggest hoopla for high-toned specials, but there's nothing wrong with down-to-earth, colorful entertainment shows, and the networks have a number of these entries coming up. For instance:

On Feb. 26, Gloria Swanson, a fantastic and seemingly ageless star who thrives on work, will be the headliner of a suspense drama on ABC-TV's "Tuesday Movie of the Week" series, an anthology of teleplays.

She will appear as "an aging matriarch dominating her family and terrorizing a heel town by her strange power to control a hive of murderous bees." The ABC-TV outing is a 90-minute presentation, and is entitled "Killer Bees."

On March 2, another 90-minute ABC-TV anthology series, the Saturday "suspense movie," offers a fictional work built around "the struggle to return the Apollo 13 astronauts safely to earth after their moonbound spacecraft was damaged."

The network says this teleplay, entitled "Houston, we've got a problem," is "based on events that occurred in April of 1970, when America's third moon-landing mission was aborted." The astronauts involved in that mission were James Lovell, John Swigert and Fred Haise.

According to ABC-TV, "Richard Nelson's fictional screenplay telis of mission control's grueling efforts to bring Apollo 13 home, against a backdrop of personal crises besetting members of the mission control team."

Among the performers in the teleplay are Robert Culp, Gary Collins, Clu Gulager and Sandra Lee.

CBS-TV, meanwhile, has announced that its planned adaptation of the Broadwy comedy "6 Rms Riv Vu" —with Carol Burnett and Alan Alda in the video version—will be broadcast March 17 as a 90-minute presentation.

Foreign winner

"Never on Sunday" was the first foreign song to win an Academy award.

At City Hall

Community Chorus to give concert

POMONA — The Pomona Community Chorus will present a concert in the Pomona City Hall at 7:30 Sunday night in observance of Black History Week. The program will include solos, readings and chorus numbers.

On March 30 the chorus will present a pops concert made up of selections from Broadway musicals and other popular music. On May 17 the group will sing Brahms' "German Requiem." Locations of these two concerts have not been set.

There are still openings in the Pomona Community Chorus for young and adult singers in all parts. Both men and women are needed. Anyone interested in joining the group can get further information from director Ray Woods, 623-5251, Ext. 351, during the day or 983-5265 in the evening.

CLAYTON-THOMAS

New play scheduled at Scripps

CLAREMONT — The Four Colleges Players will present "Nobody's Birthday," an original play by Pitzer College student Glenda Raikes, in the Strut and Fret Theater, Scripps College, at 8 p.m. March 8-10. Jesse Swan, professor of drama, will supervise.

On March 22, 23 and 24, the Players will perform Paul Foster's "Tom Paine" in Balch Auditorium, Scripps College. Guest director will be Richardson Morse, author, producer and director of the movie, "The House Made of Dawn."

Scripps student Michelle Souza will direct three one-act plays in the Strut and Fret Theater March 29-31. Other student directors will do plays there April 26-28 and May 24-26.

Swan will direct a musical version of Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" in Garrison Theater, Claremont, May 10, 11, 17 and 18.

FDR's favorite

"Home on the Range" was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's favorite song.

Disneyland to present 'Holidays'

ANAHEIM — Disneyland will observe the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln in "Star-Spangled Holidays" Saturday through Monday.

Such artists as the Four Tops, Les Brown, David Clayton-Thomas and Peter Noone, as well as the park's colorful "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks, will highlight the nighttime festivities.

An "I Am An American" ceremony will be presented each day at 4:30 p.m. in Town Square.

Television and motion picture star Cesar Romero will read the presentation's dramatic "I Speak for Democracy" essay on Sunday while background is prvided by singers and muscicians from Southern California high school and college choirs and bands.

Other stars will take the podium on Saturday and Monday.

Spotlighted on the park's Tomorrowland Stage at 8 and 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday will be the Motown sound of the Four Tops and David Clayton-Thomas, former lead singer with the popular musical group, Blood, Sweat and Tears.

On these same dates, Peter Noone, who gained fame as Herman of Herman's Hermits, will sing at the Tomorrowland Terrace at 9 and 11 p.m.

Date Festival to open Friday

INDIO — The National Date Festival, opening its 10-day run Friday, has taken steps to assure motorists that gasoline will be available for the return trip to their homes.

Festival officials and the Indio Chamber of Commerce conducted a survey and found that 15 to 30 service stations in the area plan to remain open for both weekends of the festival and others will be open during the week.

The first wekend will be highlighted by the annual Arabian Street Parade from downtown to the fairgrounds, starting at 10:30 a.m. Monday, Washington's Birthday.

Festival spokesmen said that for overnight visitors to the city there is ample motel space as well as camper and trailer parking areas.

Indio is some 100 miles from Pomona.

The free stage shows at 4 and 8 p.m. daily will feature Susan Raye, Friday; Les Brown and his Band of Renown, Tuesday; accordian star Myron Floren, next Wednesday; the Ink Spots Feb. 21; and Alvino Rey and his band Feb. 22.

Youths plan basketball on unicycles

POMONA — Anyone for basketball?

On unicycles?

Six local youths are getting up a free-wheeling team to play against unicycle clubs in the Pomona Valley. The chief organizer is Gary Hoisington of 1641 Kingsley Ave., who has been riding the one-wheeled vehicles for several years.

An organizational meeting for the new team, the Basket Weavers, will be held at the Pioneer Take-out, 705 E. Holt Ave., at 4 p.m. Monday.

Further information can be obtained by calling Hoisington at 626-7093.

SAN DIEGO — "Up With People," popular folk-rock musical, will be presented at Shamu Stadium, Sea World, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday and at the San Diego Civic Center at 8 p.m. Sunday.

The musical organization is made up of 130 young people from 15 countries and every state in the union. They earn high school and college credit while performing. The group recently returned from a five-month European tour during which it gave performances in 65 cities in five countries. They have appeared at the White House and before the Royal Family in London.

Unwelcome visitor

The first non-Indian to visit what is now Yellowstone National Park was John Colter, in 1807, and he almost didn't live to recount its scenic wonders. Forced by Indians to run the gantlet, the trapper dived into a river and surfaced inside a beaver house, where he hid while angry braves searched the banks for him.

Restaurant Meals More of Bargain

NEW YORK (UPI)—Restaurant meals are becoming more of a bargain as food prices in supermarkets move upward, according to the president of the National Restaurant Association.

Richard J. Harmon said that in the 12-month period ended Sept. 30, 1973, the price of food in the grocery establishments had increased 21.5 per cent, but the cost of meals served in restaurants had moved only 9.5 per cent higher.

"The restaurant meal is one of the best consumer values in America today because operators have been able to effectively control prices without sacrificing quality," he said.

MEETIN' & EATIN' at BETSY ROSS

By Gene Neighbors

Hi, Neighbors,

It was good to see Mrs. FRANCES McVICKER at Pomona Valley Center Betsy Ross Friday, having an afternoon snack with her granddaughter, VICKI McVICKER. VICKI attends Margarita School in Montclair.

We had an interesting chat with CHARLOTTE and BOB BARTON of Char-Bob's Appliances in Cucamonga Saturday at Upland Coffee Shoppe. Seems they'd had breakfast there that morning, but were not content with that, so drove back for lunch.

Now if you think eating out is a waste of money, hear this:

We at Betsy Ross subscribe to this philosophy — whole heart-ed ly! We believe you can enjoy the food and service, quality and personal attention at such low prices that the same foods are less expensive than you can afford to eat at home. (Wifie says," There's the preparation and cleaning up too.")

Give us a try—and, we'll prove it to you.

See you at Betsy Ross?

Balance fund portfolio

By ROGER SPEAR

Q—My husband and I are approaching retirement and would appreciate your advice on handling our investments. We own: 100 shares of Rockwell International (NYSE), 100 shares of Highland Capital (ASE) and 290 shares of One William Street Fund. I have $20,000 available now for investment. Would you advise us to purchase units in a tax-exempt bond fund?—D.R.

A—A tax-exempt municipal bond fund is only advantageous for persons in a 30 per cent or greater tax bracket. Assuming you purchase a fund yielding 5.5 per cent tax free, in a 30 per cent bracket you would be receiving the equivalent of 7.9 per cent of taxable income. There is also a 3½ per cent to 4½ per cent sales fee on these funds which would largely offset your first year's income.

As an alternative, direct purchase of a good quality taxable bond, rated single or double A, seems preferable. In this area, there are a number of issues available currently returning 8.5 per cent or better. The commission on such purchases is considerably smaller than on a fund.

Your portfolio, with the exception of the venture capital fund—Highland Capital—should be left intact. Highland (formerly Price Capital) has 32 per cent of its portfolio committed to nonmarketable securities and is too speculative a holding for a couple approaching retirement.

While the yield from income dividends on One William Street is a modest 1.9 per cent, the fund has an above average performance record. This high quality no-load has a low portfolio turnover rate—20 per cent in 1972—and an impressive list of securities with about 85 per cent of funds in equity investments.

Rockwell's aggressive management has successfully steered that company through its transition from primarily a military contractor to a balance of commercial and government business. Two recent acquisitions, Collins Radio and Admiral Corp., should strengthen the company still further.

The 20 per cent increase in order backlog reported at the end of fiscal 1973 (Sept. 30) reflected growth in most of the company's divisions. Currently yielding 7 per cent, shares are well worth holding.

Q — I would like to invest approximately $80,000 in short term bonds at 8.6 per cent or better. I have enclosed a list of 25 NYSE bonds. Which ones would you recommend? —W.S.

A — I have selected a portfolio of six noncallable bonds trading at an average price of 101¼ with interest payable in each of the 12 months. 13M in each issue will cost approximately $79,000 plus accrued interest and commissions. The portfolio returns $7,425 or 9.4 per cent, averaging in excess of $600 monthly.

The bonds are: Chrysler Financial 9s, 1976; Essex Int. 9¼s, 1975; Monogram Ind. 10½s, 1975; Northern States 8⅞s, 1974; Tenneco Corp. 10¼s, 1978 and U.S. Leasing 9¼s of 1974.

Tiny clues lead arson men to their suspects

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A piece of charred rubble, a pile of ash—these are sometimes the only clues left that tell a story. But it is just such clues that lead arson investigators to their suspects.

According to Capt. Robert Dove, of the Los Angeles arson squad, only 5 per cent of all fires are caused by mechanical means—electrical failure, lightning, crashes, etc. The other 95 per cent are caused by people.

When investigating fires, Dove said, the fire department first tries to prove that it was an accidental fire, looking for signs of electrical failure, overheated engines, etc. When no mechanical explanation can be found, arson investigators begin their search.

The Los Angeles arson squad relies on the police crime lab for much of its evidence. Among the equipment used is a gas detector to determine foreign vapors and an infrared test that gives a "fingerprint" of the compound.

Some of the signs of an intentionally set fire include the presence of flammable vapors, strange fuel loads and some type of fire ignitor, but Dove would not elaborate on other arson indicators.

"It's part of our trade that we don't put out," he explained. "The fire setter is an enemy of society and naturally you don't tell the enemy about your plans against his activity. We keep our indicators to ourselves— that's part of our armament."

The 22 firemen of the Los Angeles arson squad always work in pairs, "just like a pair of detectives," Dove noted. "That's what they are. fire detectives. It's just good old hard police work.

"The police department and the fire department work extremely close in arson investigations," he added. "We don't duplicate any police-offered service. We have the expertise indetermining cause, location and motive. They have the technical lab."

Dove said that between 43 and 55 per cent of all fires are intentionally set. Children, he added, are guilty of roughly half of these. Most fires started by children result from playing with matches or are accidental, experimental or pyromanical.

Other common causes of set fires are spite-grudge types and fraud fires set to collect insurance money. Dove said that the fire department is affected greatly by current social problems.

"Whenever there is a downturn in business, there is also an increase in fraud fire," Dove said. "A person thinks that he will lessen is losses by a fire. We're ready for that."

Out of the $11.4 billion yearly cost of fire to the nation, Dove reported $1.75 billion stems from arson. Although arson incidents have increased, Dove said the increase is not as noticeable as it was a few years ago during the "social unrest" stemming from the Vietnam war.

"And before that," he continued, "we had a problem with all the exotic fuels being brought into the city in preparation for the space program."

There are about 200 felony arrests for arson each year, according to Dove, and of those cases that go before a jury, about 85 per cent are convictions.

Sometimes the fire may destroy any evidence of crime. But Dove noted that this was more the exception than the rule.

"Our investigators have been at it so many years they can usually come up with the cause. And if the cause is criminal, they can usually identify it."

Arson detectives receive special training. They must know all the laws of arrest, evidence and fire arms, and need expertise in the causes and properties of fire.

"But above all," Dove said, "they must be good firemen, first."

New process can recover heavy crude

FRESNO (UPI) — A new oil boom may be triggered in the San Joaquin Valley and other regions with the advent of a new process to recover heavy, viscous crude oil from the ground, the Fresno Bee reported today.

Glen Speidel, chairman of Suntec Corp., of Fresno, said the patented process involves a special electrode which heats the heavy crude in the well and renders it pumpable.

He said the process has been in the test stage for several years.

The Bee said other officials of the corporation, a joint venture formed by Sunland Refining Corp. of Fresno and the Electrothermic Co. of Corpus Christi, Texas, said the process will be put into operation in Kern County oil fields immediately.

San Joaquin Valley oil fields have had a serious problem with recovery of heavy crude. Two years ago the American Petroleum Institute said there were about 27 billion barrels of crude oil under the valley floor but only about two billion barrels were recoverabe.

Suntec officials said the process is not limited for use in the valley and that the company has met with members of the federal energy office in Washington who reportedly "were very interested."

Doctor's diagnosis --it's love sickness

Sir, do you recall when you first fell in love? Did it tend to make you stammer? And cause you to perspire? And pick up your heartbeat some? That's what happened to the son of one of Alexander's generals in the Third Century B.C. The renowned doctor of the day Erasitratos, observing the lad over several days, noted the aforementioned symptoms everytime the boy's new stepmother showed up. "Love sickness," diagnosed the doctor, solemnly. What he prescribed for the condition is not a matter of record, unfortunately.

Face the music

Q. "Where'd we get that phrase "to face the music'?"

A. Goes way back. To 1785, in fact. In the theater jargon of the day, it alluded to moments of stage fright when actors walked out in front of the orchestra pits.

Q. "What's the normal body temperature of a turtle?"

A. Same temperature as whatever surrounds said turtle. Varies.

Q. "Louie, who's your favorite actor?"

A. Alan Alda. This week.

Statistics out of the Soviet Union indicate that there are just about twice as many people over 100 years of age there as in this country.

Solar energy

Long ago, somebody roughed out a notion of how steam could power an engine. Took 160 years thereafter for it to materialize in a locomotive. Much later, somebody roughed out a notion of how the chain reaction of nuclear fission might work. Took only six years thereafter to bring out the atomic bomb. The science boys now point out this fancy fact as they tug at the government's sleeve about solar energy.

Alpine nations fight for U.S. ski dollars

VIENNA (UPI) — The European Alps and American Rocky Mountains are fighting it out for the dollars of American ski tourists.

The Alpine states—Austria, Switzerland, West Germany, Italy and France — have launched a counter offensive against the "Rocky Mountains versus Europe" advertising campaign mounted earlier this year by American ski resorts.

"We are taking it very seriously," said Guenther Spazier, director of the West German central tourist office.

"It is part of an over-all campaign to keep American tourists at home."

Harald Langer-Hanel, head of the Austrian national tourist office, said the Rocky Mountain campaign was "unfair and illegal."

"The lies they are telling about Europe are unbelievable," he said.

The Austrian official said the Rocky Mountain campaigners were publishing photographs of well known European Ski resorts without snow.

"They are telling Americans you have to walk three miles from your hotel to reach Alpine ski slopes," Langer-Hansel said.

"Such misleading advertisements would be considered illegal in Europe."

In France, a spokesman for the French Ski Federation said, "It is pretty audacious on the part of the Rocky Mountains to say we don't have enough snow."

Upset by U.S. Ads

In Switzerland, Fred Firnmann, spokesman for the Swiss national tourist office, said reports of an Alpine snow shortage were "an absolute lie."

"We are very upset about the U.S. advertisements and we are doing something about it," he said.

Langer-Hansel said that as a first step the European Travel Commission had instructed its representative in New York to contact U.S. newspapers and public relations firms and "tell them the truth" about Alpine ski facilities.

Austria has countered Rocky Mountain claims of longer downhill ski runs than Europe by publishing a list of 14 Austrian Alpine resorts with runs of 1,330 meters (4,390 feet) or more.

The list says the longest U.S. downhill run is only 1,261 meters (4,161 feet) at Jackson Hole, Wyo.

The Austrian national tourist office is also urging Alpine hotels to keep their prices competitive, and wiring twice-weekly snow reports to its offices in the United States to counter snow shortage claims.

Another Austrian counter move is a new package tour for Americans, who are met at Munich airport by a ski instructor-chauffeur who not only guides them to the most suitable resorts but also teaches them to ski when they get there.

"We are going to fight for every tourist," Langer-Hansel said.

Europe had a bad tourist summer because the revaluation of the U.S. dollar made European holidays more expensive for Americans and prompted many cancellations.

Winter tourist bookings by Americans are also down this year.

Alcoholism recognized as disease

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Families must recognize that alcoholism is a disease which must be treated.

The California Medical Association says alcoholism has become a public health concern of major proportions — challenging heart disease, stroke and cancer as the No. 1 health problem in the United States.

Hazardous sports can be damaging

CHICAGO (UPI) — The urge to win, if not controlled, can lead to psychological as well as physical damage to pre-adolescents competing in such sports as hockey, football and baseball.

An article in Family Safety, a publication of the National Safety Council, said pediatricians fear that poor supervision by overzealous adults can lead to exploitation of youngsters.

Only woman in U.S.

She gave up office desk for nuclear reactor job

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Pamela Smith is 24, black, beautiful and the only woman in the United States learning to operate a fast flux test facility.

An FFTF, as the faculty is designed by the atomic scientists who invented it for Westinghouse, is a fast test nuclear reactor being constructed on the Atomic Energy Commission's Hanford reservation near Richland, Wash.

Pamela, who says she envisions herself "turning into a monkey wrench," is committed to an intensive, two-year training program as an operations technician.

It is quite likely she could have made it as a fashion model or some such glamorous pursuit, but she decided to be technician operating a complex reactor system because it posed "a real challenge."

"It's a lot different than sitting behind an office desk," said Pamela, who did that type of work for a safe company and the Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco for two years.

"I know I'm competing on the same level as men are and getting paid the same. That's comforting. It's nice to know someone's given me the opportunity to prove myself.

"I think I'm kind of the forerunner for other women. I just hope they aren't placing the full responsibility of doing well on my shoulders before other women are considered for similar positions. If I don't make it, I'll have myself to blame. I just hope I don't blow it for other women."

Westinghouse, a major AEC contractor, is responsible for the construction and operation of the FFTF, which will be the world's largest facility designed exclusively for irradiating testing of fast reactor fuels and components.

Westinghouse Hanford also manages an engineering laboratory where base technologies are being developed for liquid metal fast breader reactor fuels and comonents like its liquid sodium coolant.

"It's a little mind-boggling when you think of all the brilliant minds gathered here," said Pamela. "It's frightening that they know so much and you don't. And it's frightening to think that technology changes so rapidly that by the time the reactor is completed, most of what I'm learning now might be passe."

She is one of seven operations technicians who have been selected for training programs. Currently she is assigned to the high temperature sodium facility where reactor core components are to be tested in liquid sodium prior to installation in the FFTF.

"I'm doing a lot of reading, taking utorial classes, studying equipment and learning the basics like 'This is a valve,'" she said, her eyes twinking. She added that her male counterparts, also training, have been very helpful.

"The first day we were introduced," she said, referring to the men trainees, "they asked me which nuclear submarine I'd worked on. They treat me like a novelty. They seem a little skeptical about a woman becoming qualified to operate a reactor. But they keep telling me I can do it if they can."

Gains in war on cigarettes could go up in smoke

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Cancer Society reported today some "notable gains' in the fight against smoking in the last 10 years, but called recent developments "cause for great concern."

Per capita consumption of cigarettes is down six per cent and of cigarette tobacco 18 per cent since the surgeon general's report on smoking and health was issued in January, 1964. Tar content of cigarettes has dropped 30 per cent on average, 10 million cigarette smokers have stopped smoking and the percentage of adult smokers had dropped from 43 to 36 per cent, the society said.

"Notable gains have been made in the fight against smoking" since 1964, a report adopted by the society's National Board of Directors said.

"Nevertheless, there are a number of recent developments which are cause for great concern," it continued.

The society reported that per capita consumption of cigarettes has started rising again.

"While the rise is slight, and while the per capita figure is still lower than it was in 1960, we are losing some of our gains," the report said.

"This concern is reinforced by the continued rise in the gross consumption of cigarettes, now at an all time high. Unfortunately, the gross consumption is greater than the percentage increase in smoking age population."

The society also reported smoking among teen-age girls, which always was behind that of boys, was catching up and the lung cancer death rate for women has doubled in 10 years.

Among other things, the report recommended:

—An end to advertising of cigarettes in all media, including indirect advertising through cigarette companies' sponsorship of sports events shown on television.

—Federal action to reduce tar and nicotine content of cigarettes, to require disclosure of the content on packages and advertising and to require a stronger warning label.

—Television personalities and entertainers not smoke during broadcasts because of the influence on the young.

—Restrictions on smoking in public places.

New drug developed

Good news for stroke victims

ATLANTA (UPI) — An Emory University scientist says a new drug, recently approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), will bring relief to thousands who suffer from strokes, multiple sclerosis and cerebral palsy.

Dr. John V. Basmajian, director of an Emory team that helped develop the drug, dantrolene sodium, said it could have far-reaching effects for persons affected by crippling diseases.

"This drug can release the potential of thousands of people suffering from various crippling disorders and allow them to lead something approaching a normal life," Basmajian said.

"In the United States alone, we have more than 500,000 people a year who survive strokes but are left with some form of spastic condition. This is an indication of the importance of this drug," he said.

Dantrolene sodium relieves spasticity, a condition in which muscles are overactive due to faulty impulses from damaged centers of the central nervous system.

The drug works on the muscle fiber, not on the central nervous system as some earlier drugs have, and does not make patients sleepy or listless.

The bulk of research on the drug was done by scientists at Emory's Rehabilitation Research and Training Center at the Georgia Mental Health Institute (GMHI), although several other institutions have also participated.

The drug originally was tested on 105 patients at GMHI.

"Many of the multiple sclerosis patients we have treated with dantrolene sodium said it has changed their lives," Basmajian said.

"I expect it to give relief to thousands of persons around the world ... because this drug will not cause sleepiness and loss of drive as other antispastic drugs do," he said.

University saves on use of natural gas

CORTLAND, N.Y. (UPI) — The State University of New York College at Cortland cut back on its use of natural gas for heating campus buildings this winter. It saved an amount in the first 13 days of the midyear break sufficient to heat 200 area homes for the same period.

The college said it used 9,010,000 cubic feet of natural gas during the period, compared with 12,695,000 used in the same time span in 1972. It also resulted in a savings of $2,800.

Arabs helping Italians find Sunday again

ROME (UPI) — At the pizzeria the boys congregate early to debate Rome's soccer prospects between bites of melted mozzarella cheese.

At the piazza up the street, their fathers walk arm-in-arm a prudent 10 feet behind the mothers and talk of the weather, their liver and the rising price of spaghetti.

With a helpful nudge from Arab sheikhs, Italians have rediscovered Sunday.

"Good day," a short, rotund man says as he lifts his hat and bows slightly to a neighbor. "We have just come from mass and thought of taking a walk before lunch. Won't you join us?"

The men link arms and walk leisurely up the middle of Via Carini, normally a busy traffic artery in the Monteverde neighborhood of Rome. Their wives, always those few paces ahead, do likewise.

They are among hundreds of boys, girls, men and women strolling along the street and sidewalks. They greet friends and acquaintances they meet and cast stares of annoyance when a bus or taxi attempts to crawl through the crowd of pedestrians.

After two months of a Sunday and holiday driving ban due to the energy crisis, about the only people still complaining are newspapers. And even that criticism is simply to call for more buses and taxis.

Individual neighborhoods which during the week are simply another piazza to the spreading metropolis which is Rome become for one day a small village in themselves. Sundays have returned Italy to a way of life which vanished with the combustible engine.

Although there are no definite figures available suburban churches report a marked increase in attendance since the driving ban went into effect. Neighborhood piazzas and parks are filled with the laughter of children playing. Coffee bars, pizzerias and restaurants which formerly closed on Sundays have changed their day off.

"We used to go somewhere every Sunday," one middleaged man said. "It was the beach in the summer or to a relative's house or somewhere. Now I have a real day of rest."

"One thing is that I have met several people I had often seen in the neighborhood but never got to know," another man said, watching his little boy play soccer with some neighbors' children.

"At first I was annoyed," another man said. "It changed our whole weekend. I used to drive the car to the newsstand just to get the papers. Now I walk and even take the family. And you know what I like it."

Assemblyman: oil industry actions 'national scandal'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, D-Garden Grove, asserts that the refusal of oil companies to supply "fundamental data" to government is a "national scandal."

"When national security and the country's economic health are at stake, we cannot continue to allow the oil industry to simply spoon-feed information to us at their convenience," Cory declared.

His remarks were prepared for delivery to the U.S. Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, which is considering a measure to create a federal agency to gather energy information.

Without "fundamental data" about the oil industry, Cory testified, "it is impossible for any level of government to regulate the oil industry.

Cory is chairman of the Joint Committee on Public Domain which has charged five major oil companies with contempt in connection with an investigation they have been shortchanging the state by more than $150,000 a day on oil from state tidelands.

The doctor comments

Control of diabetes presents problems

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 70-year-old diabetic man. I've had it for 25 years. I take insulin twice a day. Until three years ago I was pretty well controlled. Then everything went haywire. I would go for days showing very little sugar or none at all in tape tests of my urine and be feeling fine. Then I would go a few days showing two or three plus ugar and would have an insulin reaction. I've even had a four plus sugar test and had a reaction.

Could you possibly tell me why these reactions occurred with so much sugar showing in the urine? The tests were taken before, after, and during the reactions.

We have had the same doctor for more than 40 years, and he has never been able to explain it to me. Just tells me to try and stay at two plus to avoid reactions because I am a "brittle diabetic," and yet I have reactions while showing four plus.

We read your column every night and hope you will be able to give us the answer to our most urgent problem.

DEAR READER — The sugar in the urine is directly related to how much sugar there is in the blood. To have an insulin reaction you would have to have low blood sugar. That doesn't cause sugar in the urine. So, there are two possibilities that come to mind.

You may have some type of kidney defect that causes you to filter out a lot of sugar in the urine even when your blood sugar is normal or on the low side. These are quite rare problems and rarely defects of this nature are the cause of low blood sugar.

If it is not the kidney filtering mechanism, then I would think of a problem in your bladder emptying mechanism. I think this is more likely, and you may have a large prostate gland preventing you from emptying your bladder completely. In that case, you could collect urine in the bladder when your blood sugar is high and then not eliminate it until after the blood sugar has fallen.

Large volumes of urine can be trapped in the bladder with obstruction from a large prostate. Using urine samples under these conditions to judge your blood sugar level could be very misleading. You would be adjusting your insulin dosage to urine that may have been collected even a day or so earlier. A large reservoir of urine retained in the bladder would always be there mixing with the newly formed urine.

You should be checked to see if you are retaining urine in your bladder. Your doctor may want to have you consult a urologist. He could check out this problem by having you empty your bladder completely and then using a catheter to drain the bladder to see if there is still more urne left in the bladder. If retention of urine in the bladder is not the problem, then your kidney function should be evalauted. Finally, you may need to have your insulin regulated by using blood tests, then stay on that amount.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of the Progress-Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on low blood sugar, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Blood Sugar" booklet.

Co-op medical program saving babies' lives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A unique cooperative medical program in New England has saved the lives of hundreds of babies born with serious heart ailments during the past four years.

Dr. Alexander S. Nadas, a cardiologist and professor of pediatrics at the Harvard Medical School, estimated that if similar projects were organized in other parts of the nation as many as several thousand babies would be saved each year.

Two out of every 1,000 babies born alive each year in this country become seriously ill with heart disease within their first few days, weeks or months of life. Nadas said statistics show that three-quarters of these babies will die unless their problem is recognized and treated promptly.

"This then represents a challenge of about 11,000 babies in America every year who need to get into the hands of the experts quickly to survive," Nadas said at a recent seminar sponsored by the American Heart Association.

To provide this type of care, eleven hospitals in the six New England states banded together in a federally financed effort called the New England Regional Infant Cardiac Program.

"The goal of the program is to find as many of these babies as possible, to see that they get in the appropriate medical hands as soon as possible and when they get there, that they should receive the best possible treatment available," Nadas said.

The program was formed in 1969 and 11 hospitals were identified as institutions capable of handling babies critically ill with heart disease. Teams of doctors, nurses and social workers then canvassed the entire region and explained to local hospitals and physicians what can be done with these babies today, where and how important prompt action is. Pediatric cardiologists were made available around the clock, special telephones and radio communications links were established, ambulances alerted and a computer data bank was started.

As a result, Nadas said at least 90 per cent of the nearly 500 babies born annually critically ill with heart disease in New England are now spotted and rushed to one of the special medical centers within several hours after the problem is detected.

If the medical center cannot adequately treat a problem, the child is quickly taken to a hospital which can. Nadas said the regional cooperation and trust is probably the most important part of the program.

He said the case load for children with heart problems increased from approximately 1.5 per 1,000 births in the 1960s to 2.2 per 1,000 today. And the number of babies under the age of one week referred to the special medical centers has increased from 39 to 45 per cent.

There is now an average survival rate of 65 per cent for the entire group of children with serious heart ailments. Nadas said this compares with a survival rate of only 25 per cent before the progrm started.

The hospitals participating in the program are the Hartford hospital and St. Francis in Hartford, Conn., Yale in New Haven, Maine Medical Center, Portland, Dartmouth Medical Center, Hanover, N.H., Rhode Island Hospital in Providence, Medical center Hospital of Vermont in Burlington, and four hospitals in Boston, Massachusetts General, Children's Hospital, Boston Floating Hospital and Boston City Hospital.

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Are all cats either right-handed or left-handed? — H.V.

Dear H.V.: Al cats are either right-pawed or left-pawed except for the few who may be ambidextrous.

DEAR DR. MILLER: This puppy I have looks and acts OK. He's not sick or anything like that. The only trouble is, well, frankly, he is pretty dumb. He just doesn't catch on to things too well. A friend says worms take the "smart" out of a pup and that worming is what he needs. He goes in for his distemper shots and checkup anyway, but I would like to know if worms can actually have any effect on a dog's thinking? — T.V.

Dear T.V.: Many puppies show little physical sign (perhaps no more than a dull coat) of parasites they may be carrying. Yet these same parasites may be affecting their little hosts profoundly, particularly in their "sharpness" or lack of it. A puppy ill from intestinal parasites is naturally less alert than one who is well — and so you shouli not expect the sick pup to do well in school.

Many puppies afflicted by worms may appear to be doggy dunces but seem to smarten up after a worming visit to the veterinarian.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Because the veterinarian in our town doesn't have much time for snake cures, I am writing to ask you if there is something we can use to prevent mouth infections or injuries in snakes. We have had this problem before and are afraid it might happen to our snakes again. Might there be something we could put in the water that would really help? — G.Z.

Dear G.Z.: Reducing or eliminating mouth injuries by avoiding any abrasive surfaces within the snake house is an important preventative measure. Keeping the snakes in the best possible physical condition will raise their resistance to infection, also. To guard against mouth infections, the use of a solution of chloramphenicol powder in a strength of 75 mg. per pint of water may be justified. This antibiotic should be given daily in the snake's water for six or seven days only and can be repeated at six-week intervals.

Washington sites decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — The only "Washington slept here" site that has survived in New York City is the elegant Jumel Mansion in upper Manhattan which Washington occupied briefly during the Revolutionary War.

However, tourists may visit two other sites associated with Washington — Fraunces Tavern where he bid farewell to his officers at the conclusion of the war and St. Paul's Chapel where he worshiped immediately after his first inaugural ceremony.

How some dealers adjust to gas shortage

A 'DOCTOR' ON CALL — Service station owner Harold Harwock of Spokane, Wash., set up this sign to attract more repair business. He says he can't break even on the sale of gasoline.

BEGGING FOR CUSTOMERS — This gasoline station at Ellensburg, Wash., is begging for business—even on Sunday. The central Washington station is one of many that have fewer customers because of greatly reduced cross-state travel since the fuel crisis. The "Sorry Dick" on the sign refers to President Nixon's plea for a voluntary ban on Sunday sales.

Flowers pose germ threat in hospitals

MIAMI (UPI) — David Taplin found at the bottom of a flower vase a possible cause of hospital-contracted bacterial infection by seriously ill patients.

At least nine kinds of bacteria were multiplying by the millions in the water which nourished the flowers. Six of the species are known to cause infections in debilitated or otherwise susceptible hospital patients.

Taplin, an English-born associate professor of epidemiology at the University of Miami, and Patricia M. Mertz, a research associate, have just published the findings of a year-long study in a professional magazine (LANCET) article.

"I want to emphasize we do not want to ban all flowers from hospitals," Taplin said. "Flowers play a role in the morale and recovery of the sick.

"But they do pose a threat to the high-risk patients, such as burn victims, those who have undergone extensive surgery, those under dialysis and others seriously ill where sterile conditions must be adhered to."

He noted that flowers are only a potential source of infection and that there is no clinical evidence that flowers ever caused an infection in a patient.

Taplin more or less stumbled onto the bacterial breeding source.

"We were making a routine environmental survey of the burn unit to determine where some of the 'hot' bacteria were coming from," he said. They were checking all the sources of wetness—mops, soap dishes, sinks and the like.

"Flowers have been largely ignored as a source of infection because they are pretty and an emotional thing," Taplin said. "But I remembered a paper I'd read back in 1963 which said something about flowers wilting and smelling when the bacterial count in the water was high. It didn't say anything about a threat to patients, though.

"Anyhow, we checked, and we were amazed at the variety and high count of the bacteria," he said.

The bacteria multiplied so rapidly, even in chlorinated city water, it required a special electronic counter to record their numbers. Within an hour after placing cut flowers in fresh water, the bacteria count in a teaspoonful of water reached 100,000; within three hours the count reached 20 million.

Taplin said the bacteria come from the soil in which the flowers are grown, generally Everglades muck in South Florida. The bacteria found by Taplin and his associates are mostly harmless to all but the very sick. But he found them more resistant to antibiotics than the dread "staph" and streptococcus germs.

Salary not executives' only concern

NEW YORK (UPI) — Young business executives with families rarely are willing to pull up their roots, so a sizeable increase in compensation should be used to encourage movement from one area of the country to another.

Paul R. Ray of Fort Worth, an executive recruiter, says that executives now are placing values on many factors besides their salary.

Largest stone span in Utah

Rainbow Bridge in southern Utah is the world's largest stone span — 278 feet across and 309 feet to the top.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Democratic Party might be torn by 1976 presidential primaries between Sen. Edward Kennedy and Gov. George Wallace, a Louis Harris poll released Thursday said.

Such a "series of bruising primary contests," Harris reported, "might severely damage Democratic prospects in 1976."

Kennedy is now first choice of 31 per cent of Democrats for the presidential nomination while Wallace is second with 16 per cent, Harris said. Sen. Edmund Muskie is third with 11 per cent.

"Both Kennedy and Wallace run relatively weaker among the college-educated, professional people and business executives, all of whom are moving up sharply as important proportions of the electorate," Harris eported.

"The danger of a Kennedy-Wallace contest is that the swing, independent, better educated groups might well sit on the sidelines during the primaries and vote Republican in the general election,' he said.

Too much of it, now

Oil still problem for L.A. Water and Power

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Department of Water and Power, which has been plagued with too little oil and too little power, has a new problem—too much oil.

The DWP has been calling on consumers to reduce electricity usage to avoid blackouts because of the shortage of oil for its generators. The City Council made the program mandatory.

DWP buyers scoured the earth for oil, paying up to $25 a barrel—five times the going rate last year—to get it. The Pacific Northwest, with its abundance of hydroelectric power, was called on for help.

The combination worked so well it has caused a new problem, DWP engineer Carl Osborn reported Wednesday.

Now the utility has so much oil it doesn't know where to put it, Osborn said. Arrangements are being made with other utilities and oil companies for storage space, he said, and some oil shipments are being deferred until spring or summer.

A number of favorable circumstances combined to bring on the surplus, which may be only temporary, he warned.

Rain drenched the Pacific Northwest, filling the reservoirs that run hydroelectric plants, and the same time the northwestern winter has been comparably mild.

So the northwest shipped to Los Angeles electrical power equivalent to 892,000 barrels of oil.

Since the winter has also been mild here, homeowners used less power than expected. In addition, supplies of natural gas were easier to get because less was needed for heating, and so the DWP used more of that fuel, which is cleaner.

The DWP's storage tanks, which can hold 4 million barrels, are now full with the oil that did not have to be burned because of this combinatio of circumstances, Osborn said.

But none of the oil will be sold, he said, and the DWP still has long range worries. "The situation in 1975 still looks particularly bad."

Gasoline price hits 64.8 cents

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The price of gasoline at a Portland station has reached 64.8 cents per gallon and the Internal Revenue Service says it is legal.

The price was listed for premium gasoline at a Sav-Mor station Thursday with regular at 60.8 cents a gallon.

An IRS spokesman said the high prices were not illegal because it reflected the higher costs of fuel obtained from Time Oil Co., which recently bought high-priced Indonesian fuel.

Fired, wants his job back

Witchcraft spells trouble for prison psychologist

By PATRICK A. MALONE

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Psychologist Bob Williams got a lot of ribbing from friends when they learned he practices witchcraft. Somebody asked him if his broom was overparked.

But the joke quickly soured when Williams was fired as chief psychologist at the Kansas State Industrial Reformatory. Now he's fighting—not with spells or sorcery but with a lawyer and a pile of legal briefs—to get back his job and reputation.

Williams, an unassuming fellow whose balding pate and chubby build conjure no images of crone dancing around a bubbling cauldron, has filed appeals against the man who fired him, the newspaper that exposed him and with the State Civil Service Board, which could rehire him.

The superintendent of the reformatory, Kenneth G. Oliver, fired Williams Jan. 18 because of "a loss of credibility with those with whom he must work." Oliver has been accused in federal district court of violating Williams' right to practice his own kind of religion under the first amendment.

Another federal district court suit at Wichita accuses the Wichita Eagle and Beacon of breach of confidentiality and invasion of privacy, because the newspaper published a story detailing Williams' beliefs after the reporter allegedly promised Williams his name would not be used.

"I never had any intention of attracting personal attention with all this," Williams said in an interview.

But now, mostly because of the principles at issue, he has vowed to fight and has drawn a flurry of attention from Kansas —more accustomed to dealing with funamentelist preachers than spell-chanting witches.

"I guess the question is what is loss of credibility," Williams said. "I can't see there was any difference in my relationships with anyone. I got a minor amount of kidding, but nothing that seemed to amount to anything."

Shortly after the first newspaper story appeared in November, the head of the state penal system demanded his resignation. When it didn't come, superintendent Oliver sent Williams a formal letter of termination.

Williams believes that his witchcraft practice has never interfered with his work and may actually have helped it.

"The only way that anyone basically uses the craft is to make themselves a more sensitive and aware person," he said. "Evil has absolutely no role at all."

What witchcraft does involve —although Williams hestiated to discuss secret rituals—is daily meditation, special festivals at certain times in the year and some spell-casting.

"You would light a small candle or burn some incense but beyond that there's nothing mysterious about it. In private you might do it without your clothes on," he said, adding in the same breath that any suggestion that overt sex is involved "is a libel."

Neither the newspaper nor superintendent Oliver would comment on the suits while they are still pending. The state attorney general's office is defending the superintendent. Williams' attorney said if the suit against the Eagle-Beacon is won it will be the first time to his knowledge a Kansas newspaper has had to pay damages for breach of confidentiality.

FUNNY BUSINESS By Roger Bollen

Making good clock takes lots of time

By LAURENCE MOSKOWITZ

GRANTSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — A 16-note Westminster melody rang out as Olen Miller placed another block of Honduras mahogany into his wood lathe.

"Chairs and tables don't talk," said Miller, 81, whose retirement career as a clockmaker was launched by admiring friends. "Clocks do."

He was a metal pattern maker for Glenshaw Glass Co., Inc., before his retirement.

"A clock is something that is alive. It talks to you every minute. It keeps telling you that time is ticking along. And if you forget the ticking, then the bells remind you every 15 minutes."

As one of his finished grandfather clocks ticked closer to another chorus of chimes, Miller stopped his lathe and glanced at the several incomplete cabinets stationed throughout the small, coalheated garage to which he commutes 80 miles to work each week from his home in Pittsburgh.

"Making clocks takes choice wood, a solidly dependable movement and tools. Most of all, it takes time," he said.

It takes Miller about three weeks to make a grandfather clock. He machines all the wood himself on the six power tools he keeps in his workshop, behind a restaurant and curio shop where he displays his 83-inch tall timepieces after he has polished them with steel wool, applied three coats of lacquer and rubbed them down with lamb's wool.

The only parts of his clocks that he doesn't make are the movements themselves: eighiday clocks, powered by weights encased in gleaming, polished brass shells.

Miller imports the ornate, massive clock movements from Germany, but he assembles, installs and regulates the movements himself.

Miller said he made his first grandfather clock in 1951, several years after he became a grandfather. He's a greatgrandfather now.

"I had the ambition to build a grandfather clock for myself. At that time I was making cupboards and chairs and church furniture," he said.

After some friends saw his first clock, they began asking him to build clocks for them.

"I got the blueprint for the style of clock my friends said they liked, and before I knew it I was selling them to people in Wisconsin, Michigan, West Virginia and Ohio."

Miller said his national recognition as a clockmaker came after he exhibited his timepieces, fashioned from solid cherry, Philippine mahogany and Spanish cedar, as well as the popular Honduras wood, at the Mountain State Art and Craft Fair in Ripley, W. Va.

USAC drivers don't like fuel limit

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Last year the big experiment during the California 500 festivities at Ontario Motor Speedway was the new qualifying format.

This year, however, the drivers for the Cal 500 will have to wrestle with a new problem . . . a fuel shortage.

And Al Unser doesn't like the idea.

The two-time Indianapolis 500 winner has been breaking in a new car at Ontario Speedway the past couple of days, along with Viceroy teammate Mario Andretti and Jimmy Caruthers of the Cobre Team.

Unser will be driving a new Eagle-Offy this year in the Cal 500, but he's going to have to run the machine a little differently.

With the energy crisis as it is, the United States Auto Club has already announced that it is cutting back on the amount of fuel each car can use during the 500-mile race.

So in order for the cars to finish the 500 miles, they are going to have to be slowed down in order to conserve as much fuel as possible.

That's what upsets Unser.

"I want to get out there and race," said the younger of the racing Unser Brothers. "I was disgusted when they (USAC) cut down the capacity of the fuel tanks on the cars from 75 to 40 gallons last year. And now this."

USAC trimmed the fuel tanks on the cars and also trimmed the wings on the fleet machines last year in hopes of cutting down the danger of racing at speeds of over 200 miles per hour.

But USAC isn't to blame this time. The entire world is facing an energy crisis and auto racing is just doing its part in helping the world solve its problem.

"I understand why we have to cut down," added Unser, "but I still don't like it.

"With the fuel situation as it is," he added, "you really have to rely on your pit crew and your mileage. And that cuts into the racing aspect of the sport. It used to be when you could go out and chase somebody for 20 laps and wear him down. But now you run 15 laps and then you relax in the pits while your crew fills up your tank again."

Now the drivers will have to experiment to see how much horsepower they can get out of their cars and still be able to finish the 500 miles.

They must average 1.8 miles per gallon of methanol fuel or their allotment of 280 gallons for the race won't last the full distance. That means improving their 1973 fuel mileage by nearly a half-mile per gallon.

In order to do so, the drivers are going to have to find out how much pressure they can use in the turbochargers, which ram the air-fuel mixture into the engines. The higher the number — inches of mercury — the higher the horsepower and the speed.

The figures have been in the 90-inches range, but now are sinking below 70 inches.

"I don't know," he said with a smile. "It's just a matter of trial and error. That's what we've been experimenting with at Ontario the past few days."

Andretti, who will be driving a new Parnelli-Offenhauser when the California 500 practices begin Feb. 26, doesn't really know how to go about it either.

"It's going to be tough," said the little Italian immigrant. "It's a matter of working it to a fine, fine line. We're just going to have to play it by ear come race day. We'll have to find out what kind of average it's going to take to be up front. Horsepower is miles per gallon. The faster you go the more fuel you're going to use. It's really going to be tricky."

Mario, who was slightly injured Jan. 29 when his Parnelli-Offy crashed into the wall at turn two on the OMS track during tire testing, blew an engine Tuesday afternoon at the track, but was ready enough to return today for a final day of driving the new car before practice officially opens.

Unser, Andretti and Carruthers have been testing Firestone tires at the OMS facility for two weeks.

Stay in second place

Lakers blow chance

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Houston guard Mike Newlin led the scoring attack with 30 points as the Rockets shattered the Los Angeles Lakers' chance to take over first place with a 129-119 victory Tuesday night.

It was the Lakers' fourth straight defeat and the Rockets' fifth straight win. The loss deprived the Lakers of a chance to take advantage of Golden State's loss to Boston. The Warriors are one half game in front of the Lakers in the NBA's Pacific Division.

Rocket Coach John Egan said Dave Wohl and Kevin Kunnert, both acquired two weeks ago in a trade with Buffalo, have proved their value to the team.

"Since that trade, we've gone 5-0," Egan said. "A lot of people have second-guessed us. It will take time but we've got the best of the deal. Kunnert is as strong as a mule. Wohl complements our play.

"We don't always need scorers. We need a few playmakers like him."

Egan also singled out Newlin, saying, "He's playing much better defense. A game like tonight shows that the breaks are finally going our way. We've been winning the close ones lately."

Jim Price paced the Lakers with 28 points and Happy Hairston had 25 points and 22 rebounds.

The Lakers led 63-53 at the half but Houston sank 14 of 21 shots in the third quarter to trail 96-95. Los Angeles fell behind 116-107 with five minutes to go but Price rallied the Lakers to within four points with two minutes left. The Lakers had one final chance but a bad pass from Gail Goodrich to Price went out of bounds and Houston scored 10 of the final 14 points in the game.

In other NBA action, New York beat Buffalo 100-93, Chicago topped Milwaukee 93-81, Detroit defeated Kansas City-Omaha 113-106, Portland whipped Phoenix 113-104 and Capital rapped Cleveland 107-99.

Celtics 107, Warriors 102

John Havlicek scored 15 of his 34 points in the final period to rally Boston from a 13-point deficit. His jump shot with 5:54 remaining gave the Celts the lead for good at 93-92. Rick Barry scored 37 points for Golden State.

Bulls 93, Bucks 81

Chicago moved to within two games of first place Milwaukee in the Midwest division as Bob Love led the Bulls with 34 points, including a 6-for-7 second quarter field goal bombardment. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 30 points couldn't stop the hot Bulls, who have won 12 of their last 13 games.

Knicks 100, Braves 93

Buffalo, the league's leading offensive team, couldn't make believers out of the Knicks as New York avenged Saturday's three-point overtime loss to the Braves. Phil Jackson scored 24 points but it was a pair of baskets and an assist by Earl Monroe in the last two minutes that dealt Buffalo the loss. Bob McAdoo led the Braves with 23 points.

Pistons 113, Kings 106

Detroit equaled its victory high of last season with its 40th triumph as Dave Bing powered the Pistons past KC-Omaha. Bob Lanier scored 24 points in the Pistons' eighth consecutive home win—a club record.

Blazers 113, Suns 104

Rick Roberson hit a career high 37 points as Portland broke a five-game losing string. The Blazers, winning only their second game in the last 16, received help from Sidney Wicks' 24 points. Phoenix was tagged with six technicals, including two against Coach John McLeod, which meant automatic rejection.

Bullets 107, Cavaliers 99

Kevin Porter scored 27 points and Mike Riordan added 23 for Capital as the Bullets beat Cleveland for the 13th straight time. Elvin Hayes and Archie Clark missed the game for the Bullets because of ailments.

Open house at OMS for Cal 500 week

ONTARIO — Jim Cook and Company at Ontario Motor Speedway have come up with a little something extra before the first week of practice for the California 500, which will be run this year on March 10.

Cook announced Tuesday that OMS will be open to the public one day before the track officially opens for practice.

And he's calling it "Open House" day.

The day will be Monday, Feb. 25, and the public is invited. Gates will open at the five-year old OMS facility at 5 p.m. and will remain open for three hours.

"This gives the people who haven't had an opportunity to get down into the garage area a chance to see the cars and the drivers close up," said Cook, the general manager at OMS.

Cook also pointed out that a few other things OMS will be offering this year. There will be overnight parking on the OMS infield on night of March 2 and again on March 9 and 10.

Of course the first date is the eve of the Twin 100 qualifying races, which were big hits in their debuts last year. Then March 9 is on the eve of the Cal 500 itself, and the third date gives the spectators a chance to sleep through a "gasless Sunday" and return home Monday morning.

There will also be another golf tournament this year, which will be held Friday, March 8 at Ontario National Golf Course.

Cool Papa Bell joins baseball's Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Cool Papa" Bell, a speedster who played a shallow centerfield in the tradition of Tris Speaker and Willie Mays, Wednesday was named to baseball's Hall of Fame by the Special Committee on the Negro Leagues.

Bell, who started his career in the old Negro Leagues at $90 a month and never made more than $450 a month before retiring in 1950, is the fifth former Negro League star to be named by the committee.

The other four are Satchel Paige, Josh Gibson, Buck Leonard and Monte Irvin. Bell, who now lives in St. Louis, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame on Aug. 12th at Cooperstown along with Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, who were voted into the Hall by the Baseball Writers Association of America, and with the three members—Jim Bottomley, Sam Thompson and umpire Jocko Conlon—named by the Veterans' committee.

Bell's speed on the basepaths and in the outfield was legendary.

"Why he was so fast he could turn out the light and jump into bed before the room got dark," quipped Paige, whose career in the Negro Leagues spanned the same decades that Bell's did.

Bell claims to have stolen two bases on one pitch—a pitchout. "The catcher, why he was so surprised the way I was runnin' that he just held the ball," Bell remembers.

Bell was born in Starkville, Miss. in 1903 and spent long hours as a kid in the cotton fields.

The 70-year-old Bell, acting as if he was in his mid-50s, showed that he's as "cool" off the field as he used to be on it.

"It's a high honor and I'm grateful for it, but I never did get excited about a lot of things. I didn't jump up and down and holler and call all my friends. They'll find out about it," he said.

A legendary story teller, Bell talked almost non-stop for 75 minutes about the old days.

Bell said he has no bitterness about the fact he was barred from the majors because of his color.

Alston thinks '74 Dodgers have grown up

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — "I'm disappointed in last year because we blew it. We had a lead and it got away from us and we're not going to make any excuses."

Armed with his 21st one-year contract from the Los Angeles Dodgers, Walter Alston candidly assessed his team's 1973 National League season and said he was "optimistic" about '74.

Appearing at a Dodger Stadium news conference Tuesday, the 62-year-old dean of major league baseball managers was flanked by ex-Dodger catching great Roy Campanella and Hall of Fame umpire Jocko Conlan.

"I do feel this club is a little better than it was last year," Alston said. "We had a very young club last season and the year's experience is going to help our players. They're no longer rookies. They should have grown up last year and I believe they have.

"We're in a tough division (the NL West) with the Cincinnati Reds and the San Francisco Giants but I think we have as good a chance as any of them."

A year ago, the Reds overhauled the Dodgers in September and won the division by 3 ½ games. The Dodgers did have the third best record in the big leagues.

"These fellas did win 95 games and there's not many youngsters who could come through and win that many games for you," Alston said. "I think that's something I'm rather proud of."

The Dodgers' main off-season acquisition was reliever Mike Marshall from Montreal for outfielder Willie Davis and Alston noted: "I can't think there's anyone I'd rather have go in right now and hold a one run lead."

Alston, who will earn an esimated $85,000 for his 21st season, lauded the San Diego Padres for their deals for Willie McCovey, Bobby Tolan and Glenn Beckert.

"I don't know how they did it but they came up with some pretty good ball players," he said. "They have some age but a lot of times it's a little stimulant to be traded and I think they all want to stay in San Diego. There's no question in my mind the Padres play better against us than they do against everybody else."

Women's equality could doom college athletics

COLORADO SPRINGS (UPI) — "Impending doom is around the corner" if a plan is adopted forcing all college and university athletic departments to spend as much on women's athletics as on the men's programs, according to the executive secretary of the NCAA.

"We have no quarrels with people that want student fees and school funds split between men and women," Walter Byers said Tuesday during the 1974 NCAA Media Seminar. "What we are against is saying that dollars generated in men's sports must be taken to finance women's sports or that a donor gives scholarship money earmarked for a certain sport and it can't go for that sport.

"Impending doom is around the corner if that plan is implemented. We are not against building women's programs but people must realize that intercollegeiate athletics has taken more than 50 years to build the financial foundation it is on today and this regulation would totally alter the present program."

The regulation Byers referred to is a proposal by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare that could become part of the Civil Rights Act. Failure to comply could cost a school all its federal funds.

"Under the proposal, if an institution has an intercollegiate football, basketball or other type of sports program, it must provide members of the opposite sex with a comparable opportunity to participate in sports," said Robert C. James, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference and chairman of the NCAA's Legislative Committee.

James said "comparable opportunity" did not allow a school to merely open competition in all sports to women, but required that if a sport was mainly geared for one sex—like football is for men—the school must pro vide similar funds and facilities for the opposite sex in another sport.

More Dodgers sign contracts

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have 30 of their 39 roster players under contract for the 1974 season, it was announced Tuesday.

Dodger vice president Al Campanis announced the signing of 22 players including first basemen-outfielders Steve Garvey and Bill Buckner, third basemen Ron Cey and Ken McMullen, pitchers Charlie Hough and Jim Brewer and, outfielders Manny Mota and Tom Paciorek.

Washington, Kovach earn Player of Week honors

POMONA — La Verne College's Dwight Washington and Chaffey College's Bob Kovach were selected the Pomona Valley Players of the Week at Tuesday's weekly basketball luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

Washington, a 6-2 junior forward from Nogales High and Mt. San Antonio College, scored 40 points last week to lead La Verne to two wins. He made 16 of 26 field goals and grabbed 20 rebounds.

Kovach was selected the JC player of the Week for the fourth time this season. The sophomore from Fontana led Chaffey to two wins with 59 points and 36 rebounds including a school record 39 points against Saddleback.

Quarry-Ali bout looks on again

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Jerry Quarry-Muhammad Ali fight, knocked out on Monday, apparently has come off the floor and is on again.

Madison Square Garden has called a news conference for noon Thursday to announce "a major fight," and Garden officials said "the same cast" for the cancelled announcement would be on hand and the "same everything" would take place.

Ali has two previous victories over Quarry, the first in three rounds and the second in seven.

CSLB cagers OK for season

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — U.S. District Court Judge Manuel Real Tuesday ordered Cal State Long Beach to allow two basketball stars to continue playing until a hearing is held by the university on their eligibility or their civil suit goes to trial.

The ruling in effect allows Roscoe Pondexter, a junior forward, and Glenn McDonald, a senior guard, to finish the season on the team.

Pondexter and McDonald were ruled ineligible to play when the National Collegiate Athletic Association placed CSLB on indefinite probation for recruiting violations.

The players filed a suit against the university and the NCAA last month after they were declared ineligible to play.

Loyola topples Pepperdine

United Press International

Loyola and Pepperdine finished Tuesday night's West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game with the score remarkably close, considering the extremes the contest produced.

Pepperdine outrebounded Loyola 44-19 but committed 26 turnovers to just nine for Loyola.

Then there was that 20-4 Pepperdine streak during 10 minutes of the second half. Or, yes, Loyola wound up with its fourth straight win by taking its old rival 62-59.

Other games Tuesday saw Westmont run its record to 15-7 with an easy 80-60 win over Biola. Stan Washington hit 24 as San Diego U. tumbled UC San Diego 83-63.

Oakland stars talk money with Finley

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In a hotel room decorated in the Oakland A's' team colors of gold and green, Ken Holtzman and Charles O. Finley talked salary Tuesday.

They not only failed to come to terms for Holtzman's 1974 salary but they talked so long that reliever Rollie Fingers never got a chance to start his scheduled talks.

In conference besides Holtzman, who won 21 games in 1973, were his wife, player representative Reggie Jackson, Executive Director Marvin Miller of the Major League Players' Association, owner counsel John Gaherin, arbitrator Harold S. Block, three attorneys, Finley and his wife.

Mounties try Cerritos in SCC action

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

NORWALK — With absolutely nothing to lose, and only a little pride to gain, Mt. San Antonio College embarks on the stretch run of the South Coast Conference basketball campaign in two games this week and a single game next Wednesday.

The Mounties (2-5 and 8-17 overall) would like to win two of their last three games to make it 10 victories for the season.

They get their first chance tonight in a 7:30 p.m. game at Cerritos, where the Falcons are hoping to keep their slim title hopes alive. With three games left on the schedule, Cerritos is 4-3, two games off the pace being set by 6-1 Santa Ana and Orange Coast. In other games tonight, Orange Coast hosts Fullerton (3-4) and Santa Ana visits San Diego Mesa (0-7).

Cerritos shared the South Coast title with Santa Ana a year ago, and most observers picked the Falcons and the Dons to be in the same kind of battle in 1974. But Orange Coast has emerged as the team most likely to succeed. Coast dumped the Dons by 15 points in the first round, and kept their share of the lead last weekend with a hard-fought victory over MSAC, 68-63.

The Mounties have been close in every game they've played except for first round meetings with Santa Ana and Cerritos. MSAC lost to the Falcons, 59-45, the first time around.

In that game, the Mounties shot a rigid 24 per cent from the floor in the first half and 33 per cent in the second.

MSAC's 6-foot-10 center Gary Nash controlled the boards at both ends of the court, pulling down 18 rebounds. He and guard Steve Arthur scored 16 point apiece.

Nash was more than a match for Falcon center Al Fruwirth, who had to settle for 12 points and eight rebounds.

Nash is coming off a fine two-game performance last week, scoring 37 points and grabbing 36 rebounds—25 points and 23 rebounds against Orange Coast.

Nash currently leads the conference in rebounding with an average of more than 14 per game. Fruwirth is No. 2 with a 9.8 average. Fruwirth is also No. 2 in scoring with a 23.7 average. Coast's Bob Manker leads with a 23.8 average. Nash is No. 6 on the list, averaging 17.7. Mountie forward Gary Melugin is tied for eight with three other players with a 14.0 average.

Dodgers, Trojans clash on Sunday

LOS ANGELES — It will be "Open House" at Dodger Stadium on Sunday.

The activities for the day include th Dodgers' only public workout prior to departing for spring training and a five-inning game with the defending NCAA champion USC Trojans.

Parking and admission to the workout and game will be free of charge. Auto gates will open at 11:30 a.m. with the workout at 12:15 p.m. and the game between the Dodgers and Trojans at 2 p.m.

The Dodgers currently are taking part in weekly drills but the Feb. 17 workout will be the only one open to the public.

Maury Wills will be in charge of the workout and he will be assisted by Dodger coaches Jim Gilliam and Tommy Lasorda, minor league pitching instructor Ron Perranoski and scout Gail Henley.

Many of the key members of the 1974 Dodgers will take part in the workouts.

And the USC Trojans are sure to have some future major leaguers on their roster.

Current major leaguers who attended USC include Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, Dave Kingman and Jim Barr of the San Francisco Giants, Steve Busby of the Kansas City Royals, Ron Fairly of the Montreal Expos, Bill Lee of the Boston Red Sox, Ray Lamab and Brent Strom of the Cleveland Indians, Tom House and Oscar Brown of the Atlanta Braves.

Leos crush Kingsmen

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — What Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference team currently holds the longest winning streak?

League leading Whittier? Wrong.

The Poets have won two in a row but the vastly improved La Verne Leopards notched their third consecutive victory Tuesday night with an 80-71 triumph over Cal Lutheran at Bonita High School.

The Leos actually share the string mark with Redlands but the fact just points out that La Verne is a team to be reckoned with. In fact, coach Art Bias said after Tuesday's win, "Our goal is second place in the conference and I think we can do it."

Bias was especially pleased with Tuesday's effort, although few whistles enabled the frustrated Kingsmen to make things a little rough during the contest.

"Sure it was a tough game physically," commented Bias, "but Cal Lutheran has had a losing season and they're frustrated when they fall behind quickly like they did tonight."

La Verne certainly didn't waste any time in asserting itself as excellent shooting enabled the Leos to open up a 22-13 cushion in the first 10 minutes. The margin was 42-31 at the half, although the Leos led at one stage by as much as 17.

Shooting was the main difference in the opening 20 minutes — La Verne shot well, cal Lutheran didn't. Very simple. Each squad had 39 attempts from the floor with Cal Luthran canning 38 per cent (15) while the Leos made good on over half with 20 buckets.

Bill Rockwood was a perfect 7-for-7 in the first half and was high point man for La Verne as he ended with 20. In fact, Rockwood only missed one shot all evening.

Dwight Washington added 17 while Don Carter hit 11 and Tim Perry threw in 10 coming off the bench. For the entire game, La Verne shot just under 50 per cent, 33 of 68.

Although he was quick to point out that Tuesday's win was truly a team effort, Bias did cite Carter and Dave Castaneda for their play.

"This was the best we ran all year," said Bias, "and Carter filled the lanes excellently all night long while Castaneda kept the ball moving and applying pressure to the CL defense."

The win upped La Verne's record to 8-13 and the Leos will next host Cal State Dominquez, Friday night. The Leopards are hoping to make Cal State (thier first conquest of the year) their fourth in succession as La Verne prepares for its chase towards an SCIAC runner-up finish which no other team seemingly wants.

Azusa looks ready for big showdown

RIVERSIDE — Azusa Pacific College got ready for its big showdown with U.S. International University Tuesday night by defeating a hosting Cal Baptist club here, 90-80.

The Cougars, 22-3 for the season and 7-0 in NAIA District II Southern Section play, will visit unbeaten USIU (7-0) Thursday night in San Diego.

Azusa Pacific jumped out to a quick lead against Cal Baptist, grabbed a 49-35 lead at halftime and built it up to an 18-point lead early in the second half. But then the hosts charged back and go to within six points, 84-78, with 1:21 left in the game.

APC immediately took advantage of numerous Cal Baptist fouls and finally ended up with its 10-point victory.

Forward Rick Reed again paced the Cougar offense by pumping in 36 points, while teammate Dennis Vanzant added 28 to the winning effort. Guard Mike Leatherby (12 points) and reserve Mike Vanta (14) were the only other Cougars to score in double figures.

APC center Roger Cahoon, who went into the game with an unbelievable field goal percentage (hitting 36 of his last 41 shot attempts), cooled off a little by connecting on only two of his six shots from the floor to finish the night with eight points.

Center Dan Martinez (18 points) and guards Doug Howard (17) and Steve Deering (15) finished the night in the double-figure column for Cal Baptist.

NABF approves fight

INGLEWOOD — The North American Boxing Federation has approved the March 4 Ruben Olivares-Art Hafey bout at The Forum for Olivares' NABF featherweight title.

Robert Turley, executive officer of the California Athletic Commission, made the announcement and also said the match would be scheduled for 12 rounds.

Hafey, the No. 2 ranking 126-pounder by the World Boxing Association, upset Olivares by a knockout last September 15 in Monterrey, Mexico. Ruben's title was not at stake.

Cal Poly attracts more JC transfers

POMONA — The parade of top notch junior college gridders continues to flow in the direction of Cal Poly.

Latest to sign letters of intent to play their future football for the Broncos of coach Andy Vinci are a linebacker and strong safety from the San Diego area and another safety from the San Fernando Valley region.

Assistant Coach Erick Widmark was personally delighted to have linebacker Ron Goss and defensive back Don Mitzelfelt of Southwestern College added to the roster of incoming players to Cal Poly.

Both Goss and Mitzelfelt won all-league honors and the latter was all-CIF at Sweetwater High. Goss was also all-Metro League at Bonita Vista High.

Ron Stewart was all-league at Hart High School in Newhall before playing defensive back fast fall for College of the Canyons.

Chaffey eyes a 20-victory cage season

Chaffey College needs to win only two games to hit the magic No. 20 mark for the season, and the Panthers have three games remaining to do it.

With little at stake in the Mission Conference except to hang onto second place, Chaffey begins its quest for its 20th victory of a successful season tonight at Palomar.

Following tonight's game the 18-6 Panthers won't play again until next Wednesday when they host San Bernardino. They close the season, Saturday, Feb. 23 by entertaining third place Grossmont.

In other games tonight, conference leading Riverside hosts San Diego, San Bernardino visits Grossmont and Southwestern entertains Saddleback. Citrus (3-10, and 8-20 overall) is idle until Saturday night when it meets Riverside in the Owl gymnasium.

In games last weekend, veteran forward Bob Kovach set a school record with 39 points in a victory over Saddleback. He had 59 points and 36 rebounds in two weekend games.

Pepperdine Waves belt Poly, 8-1

MALIBU — Pepperdine College dealt Cal Poly its second setback of the young baseball season Tuesday, as the Waves beat the Broncos 8-1.

Cal Poly started ace hurler Vic Bernal, but Bernal was swamped by the Waves and John Riddle finished up for Cal Poly. Bernal absorbed his second loss of the year, and it was also the Broncos' second defeat against one win so far in 1974.

Pepperdine jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the first, but Cal Poly came back to tie things up at 1-1 in the top of the second. Pete Alexander singled, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Herter's sacrifice fly.

From that point it was all Pepperdine. Bob Picciolo did most of the damage on offense for the Waves, with two doubles and five RBIs. Skip Willis also had a triple for Pepperdine.

Alexander wound up the afternoon with a two-for-four performance, while Dave Chapman also had two singles. Righthander Jim Scott went the distance for the win.

Claremont entertains Oxy; Pomona travels to Caltech

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Six of the seven Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) teams are scheduled to see action tonight.

Claremont-Mudd (2-5) hosts Occidental (4-4) at 8:15 p.m. while Pomona-Pitzer (2-5) travels to Caltech (0-7). In the biggest game of the night, first place Whittier (7-0) takes on second place Redlands (5-2) at Whittier.

"We've played pretty well coming off the semester break," coach Ted Ducey commented "We were in the Southern Utah game much of the way. Against Pomona-Pitzer, our guards (Norm Richards and Dan Dominguez) improved their shooting greatly over the first time we played them."

In that first game with the Sagehens (Jan. 9), the two guards hit on only one of 24 field goal attempts. In the return match Monday, the pair combined for 13 points. Reserve guard match Monday, the pair combined for 13 points. Reserve guard Lane Burdick came off the bench to add 11 more.

Occidental will be trying to snap a five-game losing streak. The Tigers lost their top scorer, forward John Zorotovich, in the Azusa Pacific game (lost 58-53) with a badly sprained ankle.

Since Zorotovich went out, the Tigers dropped a 59-52 decision to Redlands and were surprised by La Verne, 60-50.

"As far as we know, Zorotovich will be ready," said Ducey.

A win by the Stags would move them to within a half game of fourth place.

Pomona-Pitzer figures to get well at Caltech. The Sagehens now have a six-game losing streak. Their last win was a 79-45 victory over hapless Caltech January 11.

Coach Les Nagler is not so sure of a win in Pasadena. "You never know the way things are going," he remarked. "We just have to get things together. The effect of the semester break is still bothering some of the guys. Bill Harris (a promising 6-4 sophomore forward) hasn't been able to practice for a month. He's just out of step with everyone and I haven't been able to use him in a game.

"One thing we have to remember," he concluded, "is that we have so many young players (two freshmen and two sophomores starting). Most of our early games were played at home and we were able to pick up some wins. Now we're playing more on the road. We have young players going against seasoned players. And we've had the long interruptions (semester and Christmas break) that it's only logical to believe these things take more of a toll on inexperienced players."

Dodgers switch to KABC radio

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers announced Tuesday their 1974 baseball games will be broadcast on radio station KABC, instead of KFI as in the past. Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett will continue to do the play-by-play.

Top field for racquetball

Some 75 of the nation's top amateur and professional racquetball players, including several top-ranked international champions, will compete in the 1974 Los Angeles Playboy Club Racquetball Invitational on the courts of the new Century West Club in Century City Friday through Sunday. This is the first racquetball tournament to be hosted by the Playboy Club.

Held under the auspices of the Los Angeles Racquetball Association, this Invitational is a reflection of the rapidly growing popularity of racquetball, according to Phil Ivaldy, LARA president.

Matches are scheduled from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Play will be in the Century West spa across the mall from the Playboy Club in the ABA Entertainment Center, 2020 Avenue of the Stars in Los Angeles' Century City.

The top Los Angeles players competing include Jay Jones, a film and television stuntman; Art Perkins, a former Los Angeles Rams player; and Dr. Jack Berman, a fine left-hander.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Jean Mateo, 161, Stockton, scored a split decision Wednesday night over Carlos Salinas, 164, San Jose.

MSAC trackmen open in tri-meet

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College will open its 1974 track and field season Saturday against last year's state champion—Bakersfield College. As if that isn't a big enough start for the Mounties, perennial Northern California power American River College (Sacramento) has also been invited to the noon meet at Bakersfield Stadium.

MSAC will be going into Saturday's season opener with one of the most impressive records of any community college in the state—five and a half years without a defeat in dual meet competition. (Its last defeat was a 72-73 loss at the hands of Santa Ana College back in 1968.)

In South Coast Conference action, the Mounties have not had a loss since the conference was initially formed.

As impressive as the record is, the Mountie coaching staff of head coach Don Ruh and assistants John Norton and Ron Copeland feel this year's rugged opener could be just too much to handle at this time of year.

"We know Saturday's triangular will be a tough one," Ruh said, "but we're not worrying about this one. Our main concern now is just trying to get ready for the rest of the season.

"There isn't a weak spot in our schedule and if we're going to do a job we're going to have to have some amazing improvement. We hope the work and effort many of the men have already demonstrated will pay off in some dividends for them later on."

Some of Saturday's most heated competition appears to be in the middle distance and distance races, the shot put and discus, and the high jump and triple jump. All three colleges are boasting early season bright spots in each of these areas.

Lancers win 7th in a row

Western Christian High of Glendora toppled San Fernando Valley Christian, 75-51, Tuesday to claim its seventh straight Academy League victory without a loss.

Bruce Sider and Norm Moline paced the victory with 27 and 21 points, respectively. Sam Schmaker added 13 points and pulled down 14 rebounds. The Lancers are 18-2 overall going into Friday's game with visiting Ambassador, the second place team in the Academy League.

In other games Tuesday, Bell-Jeff edged Ontario Christian, 57-54, in an Olympic League contest, and Webb School fell to Aquinas, 58-52, in an Arrowhead League confrontation.

GOODYEAR NATIONWIDE AUTO RETREAD TIRE GUARANTEE
Every newly retreaded Goodyear auto tire bearing identification "Goodyear Retread Akron Ohio" is guaranteed during its tread life against defects in workmanship and material and against normal road hazard damage to the tire.
A tire may be presented for adjustment under this guarantee to any authorized Goodyear tire dealer or Goodyear Service Store. An allowance will be given on a comparable newly retreaded tire based on tread design depth remaining and Goodyear's printed "Predetermined Price for Retread Adjustment" current at time of adjustment, which price will fairly represent the actual retail selling price of the comparable tire at time of adjustment. However, retreads with defects other than Road Hazards are replaced no charge within the first 20% of tread life. Local sales taxes and dealer service charges, if any, will be paid by customer.

Motocross series unfolds in March

BUENA PARK — A unique $40,000 Yamaha International Invitational Motorcross Championship Series will unfold in March at two of America's prime sports amphitheaters.

Daytona International Speedway, at Daytona Beach, Fla., and the indoor Astrodome in Houston, Tex., provide the dual backdrop as the popular motocrss campaigners from Europe and the United States introduce their spectacular form of motorcycling sport to a new realm of sophistication.

First of these Yamaha presentations will come March 9, as part of the 33rd annual Daytona Motorcycle Classics, culminating the following day with America's most famous road race.

The motocross experts then moved immediately to the Houston Astrodome, March 16. It will mark the first time ever that the rugged sport will be presented in the famed Astrodome.

"What we are attempting to do is to bring major motocross competition to the outstanding stadiums under ideal spectator conditions," explained Terry Tiernan, vice president of the Motorcycle Division at Yamaha International Corporation.

"Spectator comforts are at the root of this plan," Tiernan explained. "Instead of crowding against snow fencing to see only a portion of the competition, we want the specator to be able to sit in the usual pleasant atmosphere of the stadium and have all of the excitement of this sport presented right before him.

"In this respect, we hope to add a new dimension to the popularity of motocross. And we expect, in the future, to add other famous sports stadiums to this schedule."

A $15,000 purse plus a $5,000 overall point fund is pledged for each of the sites.

In addtion to AMA National Motocross champion Pierre Karsmakers, his Yamaha teammates—Tim Hart and Mike Hartwig—and the usual American contingent of riders, these events are expected to bring out the best of the regular European racers. Many factories have expressed interest in sending their top riders to these prestigious events.

Each of the programs will include two 40-minute motocross events for Open class and 250cc riders. There also is a possibility that the new 125cc class will be added to the schedule in the futre.

Ascot Park attracting top drivers

GARDENA — An "off-road winter carnival" brings talented Rick Mears of Bakersfield and the 1973 leaders of the Southern California Independent Drivers' Association to Ascot Park this Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

In Ascot's most ambitious winter undertaking, Mears, who won the Oly Grand Prix at Ascot last summer and led the Ascot team to victory in a four-region team race in November, and his rivals will be shooting for a $3,000 purse in super sprint buggies and Baja sprint sedans.

The program will include two match races this Sunday that start a special SCIDA "king-of-the-hill" series.

Tim Lightfoot of Long Beach will be challenged by Tim Orchard of Downey, leading driver at Corona Raceway, in a two-lap sprint buggy duel.

Then Gary Potter of Monrovia will meet Gordon Jones of La Habra in a sedan match of the same length. In the following winter meeting at Ascot March 17, Don Karraker of Norwalk in a buggy and Gary Fulton of Santa Ana in a sedan will be waiting to challenge this week's winners.

Southland racing

IRWINDALE — Southland stock car racing fans will receive a preview of the upcoming 1974 racing season at San Gabriel Valley Speedway in Irwindale this Sunday and the following Sunday afternoons.

Practice session for United States Racing club claimer stock cars and NASCAR sportsman and hobby cars will begin each Sunday at 12 noon, continuing until 4:30 p.m.

IRWINDALE — The crisis plaguing many businesses today, that of reduced volumn, apparently has by-passed Irwindale Raceway's weekly Friday night CMC-Sanctioned Motocross program. In the span of five weeks since the 1974 racing season began the entry list has grown by a whopping 165-percent! Last Friday night's field of 248 riders is second only to the 259 that rode opening night in 1973.

CORONA — A cancellation of a stock car race at Corona Raceway Sunday has turned into a happy end for supporters and officials of the track.

Local residents, drivers and their families, and other supporters of Corona Raceway have spontaneously decided to have a "plant-in" picnic at the track on Sunday in lieu of a race.

Those who have asked to participate in the community gesture will bring plants, shrubbery and trees of all types to enhance the grounds. A family type affair, the green-thumbers are brinsing food and beverages for an old-fashioned open air picnic. The public, of course, is invited to the all day function.

Meanwhile, the track features its popular Super Cycle Combo on Thursday night with flat track, TT and motocross on the bill. Gates open at 5:30, practice begins at 6:30 and the first race is scheduled for 7:30.

Gates open at 9:00 a.m. for Corona Raceway's regular Saturday morning motocross.

VALENCIA — A near-capacity field of motorcyclists is expected to go to the starting grid for a grand prix racing program on the long, all-terrain course Sunday at Indian Dunes Park near Saugus.

Running under sanction of National Racing Assn. of Riverside, a group which has attracted more than 600 riders to each of its two most recent grand prix events at the Dunes, the first race in a daylong series of 45-minute encounters will roar into action at 9 a.m. with a large grouping of beginner and novice contestants in the open displacement classification.

Other starting times include: Beginner and novice, 250 cc, 10 a.m.; minicycles, all divisions, 11 a.m.; intermediates and experts, all divisions, 1 p.m.; beginner and novice, 125 cc, 2 p.m., and powder puffs and novices, 100 cc, 3 p.m.

Wolfpack golfers 2nd in tourney

CORONA — Claremont High placed second in both the A and B divisions Tuesday afternoon at the Corona National Course in the fifth annual Nogales High Open Golf Tournament.

Paced by Mike Bicker's third place and Frank Sowin's fifth place finishes, Claremont placed second behind champion Mission Viejo in the A division. The Wolfpack finished five strokes behind the champion, 226-231.

Bickers shot a 76, three shots behind winner Tom Martin of Mission Viejo. Sowin shot a 77 and captured a three-way playoff for fifth place.

Rowland placed seventh in the A division with 243 points, and was paced by Mike Hancock's seventh place finish with a 77.

Chino league sets signups

CHINO — The Chino American Little League singups will be held Thursday in the multi-purpose of the El Rancho Elementary School from 7 to 9 p.m.

Boys reaching the age of eight before Aug. 1, or 13 until after Aug. 1, are eligible.

Certified birth certificates are required at the time of sign-up, from everyone, as proof of age.

The school is located on the corner of Oaks and C Streets.

PLAYOFF ACTION — Scott Biewener (13) of Claremont goes after the soccer ball in 7-0 win over Diamond Bar in AYSO Division II playoffs. Claremont hosts Manhattan Beach in the state quarterfinals at 2 p.m. Sunday at Sumner Park. Diamond Bar players are John Caligiuri and William Martinez.

MSAC, Chaffey win in JC baseball

Mt. San Antonio and Chaffey colleges hit the win column in baseball action Tuesday; the Mounties nipped Rio Hondo, 8-7, while the Panthers got by Pasadena City College 8-5.

MSAC built up a 7-0 lead after only two innings in its contest with Rio Hondo, but the Roadrunners came back to knot the contest at 7-7 before the Mounties pushed across an eighth-inning run for the win.

A three-run tripled by Mark Bumstead in the first and a two-run three-bagger by Pat Corcoran in the second did most of the early damage for MSAC. Corcoran stole home after his triple, making the score 7-0 in favor of the Mounties in the early going.

But Rio Hondo came back to rout MSAC starter Darrell Weatherbee with a five-run fourth inning, and tied the contest with two more in the seventh. A triple by Randy Evins and a double by Steve Alonzo were the big blows for Rio Hondo.

MSAC won the game in the last of the eighth, as Jeff Corkill's sacrifice fly got home the game-winner. Ralph Beltram picked up the win in relief for the Mounties.

MSAC now sports a 4-1 season record as it hosts L.A. Harbor today with Charlie Fallon slated to pitch for the Mounties.

Chaffey put together an eighth-inning rally of their own to upend Pasadena. The Panthers led 5-2 but Pasadena tied things up at 5-all with three runs in the seventh. Bob Self's two-run single and a steal of home by Dennis Hawkins got in the winning tallies for Chaffey.

The Panthers play again Thursday in the Casey Stengel Tournament at Cerritos College, Norwalk.

Claremont Stars enjoy 12-0 party

CLAREMONT — The Division Five Claremont Stars defeated the Tustin Rangers 12-0 in the first game of the Pacific Soccer League Cup Play.

The Stars are slated to play their second round of Cup Play Saturday, Feb. 23, in the single elimination competition.

This Saturday, the Stars will play the Tustin Scorpions at Fullerton as they begin competition in playoff games to determine the Fifth Division PSL championship.

In Division Four action, the Claremont Knights played Pico Rivera to a 2-2 tie, placing the Knights in third place in the Central Division.

The Claremont Kings of Division Three lost to San Pedro 4-1 in their first action in the PSL Cup Play. The loss eliminates the Kings from further action in Cup Play.

The Kings and the Claremont Stars will now enter competition in the Third Division PSL championship play, the Kings to face Culver City while the Stars square off against Fullerton in the first of a five-game championship series.

Soccer play ends in Diamond Bar

DIAMOND BAR — Last week's Diamond Bar-Walnut AYSO soccer results have set the stage for the final week of regular season play.

In Division III action the Pintos and Mustangs fought to a 1-1 tie, the standoff putting the Mustangs out of second half contention.

The Division III Bombers had to settle for a tie with the Rangers, the two squards drawing at 1-1.

The two ties knotted the Bombers and the Pintos in the standings at 11 points each. The two teams will meet Saturday, with the winner to play the Mustangs, the first half leader, to determine the Division III championship.

In Division II games the Pioneers continued their winning ways, outpointing the Rangers 5-0 to hold a one-point lead over the Mavericks. The Pioneers can become second-half winners next week when they face the Explores. A loss or two might force the Pioneers into a playoff with the Mavericks.

The second half winner will play the Toros for the Division II championship.

Jets outlast Sharks, 4-2

LOS ANGELES (UPI — Larry Hornung and Chris Bordeleau scored second period goals Tuesday night as the Winnipeg Jets held off the Los Angeles Sharks to post a 4-2 World Hockey Association victory.

After a scoreless first period, Hornung scored his third goal of the season on a 40-foot blast at 1:18 of the middle period. Bordeleau got his 19th with 5:07 left in the second period.

Los Angeles started its move in the final period when Jim Niekamp slapped in a 45-footer for his first goal of the season at 1:15. Winnipeg countered Norm Beaudin notched a rebound from five feet.

The Sharks made another move toward tying the game when Don Gordon scored at 12:27 but the Jets put it away on Ron Snell's goal with 4:20 left.

Golden Girls slate meeting

MONTCLAIR — The Montclair Golden Girls Softball League will hold a general meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Montclair City Council Chambers at Bonito and Fremont Avenues in Montclair.

The meeting, open to anyone interested, is being held to discuss changes in the league's constitution.

Tryouts for the teams will be held Feb. 23 and March 2, with signups still being accepted at that time for new girls and girls who will be changing divisions.

Soccer league holds tryouts

The Pomona Valley Soccer League, entering its fourth year, will conduct semi-tryouts Sunday, at 10 a.m. at Sumner Field.

The league will start Feb. 24, with games being played at Sumner Field at 10 and 12 a.m. and at 2 p.m. The loop will last 14 weeks.

The league fee is $10 and is based on a first come, first serve basis.

For further information call Pete Liptai at 982-2549.

The humble sandwich comes long way in 200 years

Some 200 years have passed since the Earl of Sandwich gave his name to what has become the all-American snack. Sandwiches have been growing in popularity ever since, today appearing on the menu almost any time of day.

The variety of breads available for sandwich making is far wider now than in the earl's era. Some quality bakers offer more than one white bread, each well suited to a different kind of sandwich. White bread is a good selection for hearty Monte Cristo sandwiches. These are made with a filling of deviled ham and slices of cooked bacon and American cheese. The sandwiches are then dipped in an egg batter, then sauteed until brown. They're especially delicious at Sunday brunches or late suppers.

Very thin white sandwich bread is a perfect choice for small canapes and finger sandwiches, which can be cut in various shapes and designs with cookie cutters or a knife. Here are three simple-to-prepare canapes—rounds spread with mustard-butter and topped with cubes of ham; triangular sandwiches filled with horseradish-butter and chopped watercress; and narrow strips of bread topped with cottage cheese, Mandarin orange sections and raspberry preserves. Don't forget to save the leftover bread when making canapes. The crusts and trimmings can appear in another dish as bread crumbs, croutons or a meat extender.

Thick cut slices of white bread are good for dipping into Tomato Rarebit. This time-saving version calls for cans of convenient condensed Cheddar cheese soup which is ladeled over broiled tomato halves. To serve, garnish with bacon slices and accompany with traingles of toasted white bread. It is a filling meal-in-itself to serve after an active day of work or play.

HAM MUSTARD CANAPES

8 slices very thin white bread
1-3rd cup soft butter or margarine
1 tablespoon yellow mustard
½ cup small cooked ham cubes

Cut slices of bread into 3-inch rounds, using a cookie cutter. Mix soft butter and mustard until creamy. Spread over bread rounds and sprinkle with ham cubes. Chill, until ready to serve. Makes 8.

WATERCRESS HORSERADISH CANAPES

8 slices very thin white bread
1-3rd cup soft butter or margarine
1 tablespoon well drained white horseradish
¼ cup finely chopped watercress

Trim crusts thinly from slices of bread. Mix soft butter and horseradish until creamy. Stir in watercress. Spread mixture on 4 slices of the bread. Top with remaining slices. Cut sandwiches into 4 traingles. Chill until ready to serve Makes 16.

PEACH MELBA CANAPES

8 slices very thin white bread
½ cup creamed cottage cheese
48 Mandarin orange sections
1-3rd cup raspberry preserves

Trim crust from slices of bread and cut each slice into 2 strips. Spread each strip with cottage cheese. Top each strip with 3 orange sections and spoon over preserves. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 16.

MONTE CRISTO SANDWICHES

8 slices white bread
1 can (4-½ ounces) deviled ham
8 slices crisp bacon
4 slices American cheese
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
cup butter or margarine

Spread 4 of the bread slices with deviled ham. Top with bacon slices and cheese slices. Add second slices of bread. In a soup plate or pie pan beat eggs, milk and stir until well blended. Dip sandwiches on both sides into egg mixture. Heat butter in a large skillet. Fry sandwiches until brown on one side, turn and brown on other side. Serve hot. Makes 4 sandwiches.

TOMATO RAREBIT

2 ripe tomatoes
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (11 ounces) condensed Cheddar cheese soup
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
8 slices crisp bacon
4 slices white braad

Cut tomatoes into halves and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Dot tomatoes with pieces of butter. Broil tomatoes until tender but still firm. In a saucepan mix soup and mustard. Heat until bubbly. Place tomatoes on a serving platter. Top with hot soup mixture. Surround with bacon slices. Toast bread and cut each slice into two traingles. Place toast around rarebit. Serves 4.

1-bowl cookie easily made by children

Homebaked treats are always extra special and this one-bowl recipe is an easy to make project for young cooks who want to surprise their friends or favorite teacher.

Crunchy peanut butter adds the important peanutty flavor and texture while applesauce makes them moist.

Nutrition-conscious mothers will quickly give their stamp of approval and willingly supervise the preparation of these naturally good bars. Peanut butter plus the eggs provide protein, minerals and energy. The applesauce also adds important vitamins and minerals.

Additional recipes for young cooks are in a new cook-booklet "You and Peter Pan In the Kitchen." Free copies are available from the Kitchens of Peter Pan, P.O. Box 1171, Chicago, Illinois 60690.

PEANUTTY APPLESAUCE BARS

½ cup peanut butter, smooth or crunchy
½ cup applesauce
½ cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup flour

Glaze:

¼ cup peanut butter, smooth or crunchy
¼ cup apple cider or juice

In mixing bowl, blend together peanut butter, applesauce and brown sugar. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Combine cinnamon, baking powder, salt and flour. Gradually add to peanut butter mixture, mixing completely. Spread in buttered 9-by-9-by-2-inch pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 20 to 25 minutes. Combine peanut butter and cider for glaze. Spread over baked bars and cut into squares.

Hearts say it all on Valentine Day

Valentine Day is a joyous occasion and what better way to observe it than by exchanging sweetheart shaped cookies. Surprise your favorite Valentine by creating and decorating the heart-shaped cookies with fun and unusual sayings.

Or, if it is really something very special, you can take the very same recipe, pressing the unchilled dough into a baking pan. Bake for 15 minutes and then decorate with a delicious and easy to make strawberry frosting.

CHOCOLATE VALENTINE HEARTS

- 2¾ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- ½ cup butter, softened
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1-3rd cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

STRAWBERRY BUTTER FROSTING

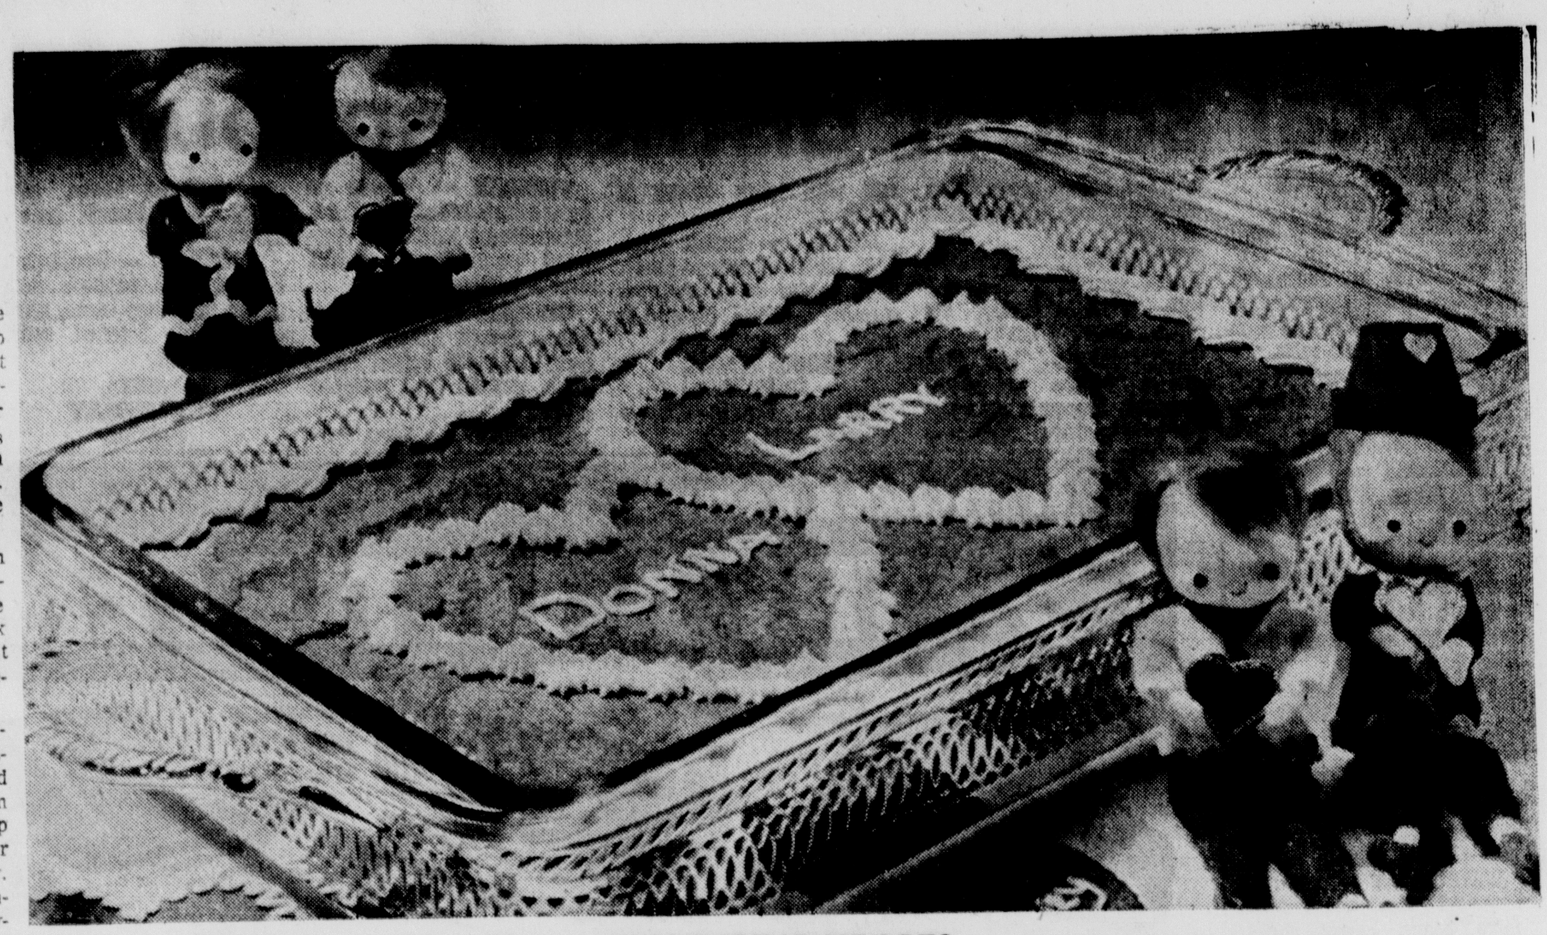
- 2 tablespoons strawberry flavored drink powder
- 3 tablespoons milk
- 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
- 1-3rd cup butter, softened
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

In small bowl, combine flour, baking powder and salt; set aside. Melt over hot (not boiling) water, chocolate morsels; set aside. In large bowl, combine butter, sugar, brown sugar; beat until creamy.

Blend melted chocolate into butter mixtre. Beat iin egg, milk and vanilla extract. Gradually add flour mixture to chocolate mixture. Wrap dough in foil and chill at least 1 hour. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. On a floured board or pastry cloth, roll dough to ⅛ inch thickness. Cut with heart-shaped cookie cutters. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8 to 10 minutes.

Cool and decorate with Strawberry Frosting. If desired, unchilled dough may be pressed into a greased 13" x 9" x 2-inch baking pan. It would then bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes.

STRAWBERRY FROSTING: In measuring cup, dissolve strawberry flavored drink powder in milk. In small bowl, combine 1 cup confectioners' sugar, butter and salt; beat until creamy. Gradually add 2 cups confectioners' sugar and strawberry mixture. Beat until creamy.



VALENTINE HEARTS

Vegetables help with meat crisis

A vegetable treat is ready, willing and waiting in the markets, vegetables which somehow seem to have deeper flavor and more character than their summer counterparts.

Whether you choose wineypurple eggplant or jade-green Brussels sprouts, such heartier vegetables are substantial and can stand alone as delicious main courses. The trick is, of course, to point up their flavor with zesty seasoning.

Two new recipes highlight the versatility and value of vegetables. Hearty Stuffed Eggplant is an appetite teaser, spicily accented with an envelope of spaghetti sauce mix. Bacon, chopped green pepper and Parmesan cheese enrich this flavorful dish. Prepared yellow mustard, mayonnaise and American cheese make Sunny Sprouts, the other recipe, into another appealing main dish.

With meat prices so high, it just makes good sense to use vegetables as a main course. A typical menu could begin with tomato juice, then feature stuffed eggplant with buttered noodles, and milk as beverage. Carrot sticks and celery are nice for munching and for dessert apple crisp.

HEARTY STUFFED EGGPLANT

- 2 eggplants
- 6 slices bacon
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1 envelope (1½ oz.) spaghetti sauce mix
- 1 egg , slightly beaten
- 1 to 2 teaspoons butter
- Grated Paresan cheese

Cook whole eggplants in boiling salted water in large covered pan for 5 minutes; drain. Cut in half lengthwise, then cut out pulp leaving a shell about ½-inch thick. Dice cut out eggplant. Cook bacon until crisp, saving about 2 tablespoons drippings; crumble bacon. Cook pepper in drippings until tender. Stir in diced eggplant, bread crumbs, contents of sauce mix envelope, and egg. Spoon into eggplant shells. Dot with butter and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes, until tender.

SUNNY SPROUTS

- 1 pound Brussels sprouts
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup finely diced cooked ham, if desired if desired
- ½ cup prepared yellow mustard
- 4 slices process American cheese, finely diced
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise

Cook Brussels sprouts, covered, in boiling salted water for 10 to 15 minutes, until tender; drain. Add milk, ham, mustard, cheese, and mayonnaise. Cook and stir over low heat until cheese melts and sauce is hot and well blended. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Prunes add nutrition, tang to sandwiches

This year's lunchppackers are searching for new ways to sandwich nutrition and economy between slices of enriched bread for school lunches. When meat slices are scarce, you can add substance to high-protein cheese and bean spreads with prunes. You may choose to do this because prunes are plentiful in vitamins, principally A, B1 and B2, and in iron and copper, but the lunch eaters will simply enjoy the naturally good, tangy yet sweet flavor.

If you find stops at the meat counter disheartening, and the deli out of sight, make it a point to stop at the new, enlarged dried fruit section in your supermarket—a new shopping trend worth watching. When you get them home, you'll especially enjoy the convenience and ease of preparation of new prunes, pitless and softly plump, ready to snip into tender morsels for unusual sandwich fillings that will make a hearty and satisfying meal on a meatless day. There's no waste in these cartons or handy tins.

Of course, it's not the fact that prunes are good for them that will intrigue the kids, but the what-is-it flavor that makes their sandwiches taste so good. Another day, unravel the mystery by tucking in a few succulent prunes as a sweet, chewy snack—they'll love the revelation.

BOSTON PRUNE SPREAD

- 1 cup baked beans
- ¼ cup finely snipped pitted prunes
- 1 teasooon minced onion
- 2 tablespoons chili sauce
- 4 slices Cheddar or Swiss cheese (optional)
- 8 slices buttered bread

Drain beans well, mash. Add prunes, onion, and chili sauce. Spread on 4 slices of bread, top with cheese slice, if desired, and cover. Makes 4 sandwiches.

COTTAGE PRUNEBURGERS

- ¾ cup cottage cheese
- ½ cup snipped pitted prunes
- 2 tablespoons chopped nutmeats
- 2 hamburger buns

Combine cheese, prunes and nutmeats, shape into patties. Serve on buns. Makes 2 pruneburgers.

CREAM CHEESE AND PRUNE SPREAD

- 2 oz. cream cheese
- ¼ cup peanut butter
- 1 tablespoon milk
- ¼ cup finely snipped pitted prunes
- 4 slices whole grain bread

Mash cream cheese, work in peanut butter and milk to make a smooth paste. Add prunes, spread between slices of bread. Makes 2 sandwiches.

New system is proposed for enforcing net weights

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has proposed a new system for assuring accuracy of net weights on packages of meat and poultry products.

According to Dr. Francis J. Mulhern, Administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), the proposal would provide uniform labeling requirements as to net weights on meat and poultry products, and would prescribe uniform procedures for checking the net weights from processor to retailer levels.

At the same time, Nancy Harvey Steorts, Special Assistant to the Secretary for Consumer Affairs, announced that an ad hoc group of consumer representatives will be brought together to review the proposal in detail and evaluate its potential benefits for consumers. Details of the ad hoc committee plan will be announced at a later date, Mrs. Steorts said.

Dr. Mulhern explained that the Wholesome Meat Act of 1967, and the Wholesome Poultry Products Act of 1968 expanded USDA's authority over federally inspected meat and poultry products after they leave the processing plant. Included, also, were provisions which prevent state officials from imposing requirements in addition to or different from federal requirements as to the labeling and packaging of meat and poultry. These provisions were upheld recently by the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California in a case involving the net weights. It would:

The court, however, held that the section in federal meat inspection regulations concerning net weight labeling was void because it was too vague, Dr. Mulhern stated. The result of this decision has been uncertainty among involved government agencies, and makes the proposal particularly important.

Revisions

The proposal makes extensive revisions in existing meat and poultry inspection regulations regarding net wieghts. It would:

— Provide uniform sampling and acceptance procedures for determining net weights at the processing plant, and for checking compliance after the product leaves the plant, including that in retail stores.

— Eliminate the present provision that allows for an "acceptable" loss in net weight from that marked on the package at the processing plant, caused by shrinkage in marketing channels.

— Require processing plants to maintain quality control programs approved by USDA, for checking consumer-sized packages — which would be monitored by USDA inspectors in addition to their continuing inspection activities at the plants.

— Establish procedures whereby each lot of a product would have to be sampled and the average weight would have to conform to the net weight stamped on the label.

— Provide an optional method for labeling bulk-packed meat and poultry products which will be repackaged and weighed before retail sale.

— Define categories of products which will be tested for net weight compliance using a dry tare or a wet tare, and establish specific procedures for determining tare weights.

Copies of the proposal, which was published in the Dec. 3 Federal Register, are available from APHIS, Room 1658-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Comments on the proposal should be sent in duplicate to the USDA Hearing Clerk, Washington, D.C. 20250. Anyone wishing to comment orally should contact the Systems Development and Sanitation Staff, APHIS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250, to arrange for presentation of his comments before the deadline, April 5, 1974. Written comments and transcripts of oral comments will be available for public review in the Hearing Clerk's office.

"NET WEIGHT" BACKGROUND

The proposed changes in net weight regulations stem from two sources. One is the recent court case in California where a federal judge stated that in the opinion of the court the present federal statute is too vague to be enforced properly. The other source is the USDA's two-year-old drive for a uniform nationwide net weight standard for all foodstuffs sold in commerce.

In this light, one very important thing to remember is that the regulation proposed is not a final one. Rather, USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) are concurrently working in uniform net weight standards, procedures and policies for all food products sold in commerce in the United States.

Agencies within USDA first began working on this project more than two years ago—the presently proposed APHIS regulation is an interim policy based on that work. It is designed to fill the need revealed by the U.S. District Court in California for more specific regulations at the federal level and for procedures that can be used by the states to exert the concurrent jurisdiction over federally inspected meat and poultry products they are charged with by federal law. Not only would the proposed regulation fulfill that need, it would go further than any previous regulation in defining procedures that can be used to better assure consumers of accurate net weight labeling on meat and poultry products.

Authority was granted the Secretary of Agriculture by the 1967 Wholesome Meat Act and the 1968 Wholesome Poultry Products Act to take action against misbranded or adulterated products after they left the federally inspected plant. At the same time, states were given joint authority over federally inspected products so long as they made no attempt to enforce laws that were different from (or more stringent than) federal ones.

Proposed changes

Changes need to be made because the present net weight verification procedures were designed for use only at the plant and not for extension to the retail level—as present federal law calls for. Therefore the proposal makes extensive revisions in existing procedures:

—It provides for a mandatory in-plant quality control system—monitored by federal inspectors—to check for net weight compliance of consumer-sized packages.

—It provides uniform acceptance procedures for net weight inspection both at the processing level and at all levels of distribution.

—It eliminates "shrink" — moisture loss while in commercial channels that is allowed in reasonable amounts under present regulations.

—It provides for a lot inspection procedure that accepts products if a predetermined number of samples average out to the stated net weight and there are no indications of unreasonable shortages in any individual packages. This will place the packer in a position where he will have to pack overweight to the degree that he cannot control net weight variability during processing. This provision, while it accepts individual packages that might occasionally be slightly underweight, gives assurance that if a consumer makes continued purchases of a given product, that individual will in the long run buy packages that average slightly more than the stated net weight.

—It provides for optional labeling by count and unit weight range of bulk packed poultry and meat products. These products are individually weighed and labeled at retail.

—It excludes bulk packaging from the madatory quality control program, but makes the packer responsible for making sure his product will meet net weight standards when checked at any point on commerce.

—It defines categories of products which will be tested for compliance using a dry or wet tare—giving procedures for determining respective tare weights — and those products which will be checked using a drained weight procedure.

Many of the retail compliance checks of federally inspected meat and poultry products will be carried out by state and local agencies, since the federal meat and poultry inspection laws give them concurrent jurisdiction providing they use the same standards and methods in judging acceptability. Because of this, any inspection at the retail level actually amounts to a reinspection—double protection for the consumer! The Meat and Poultry Inspection Program is the only regulatory agency with mandatory continuous in-plant inspection program.

With this program the only product that would normally turn up short-weight at the retail store is one that loses moisture in transit. Since the proposal does not contain an allowance for shrink, this could create a minor revolution in the packaging industry. Bacon, for example, would have to be vacuum-packed to prevent shrink—as would any other nonvacuum-packed product capable of in-transit shrinkage. The only alternative is overpacking enough to compensate.

Remember: this is an interim policy for meat and poulty products. But it heralds sweeping changes in net weight regulations and procedures for food products sold in this country.

Dermatologist uses wart hex

NEW YORK (UPI) — A dermatologist says in removing warts afflicting children, "the remarkable thing is . . you can actually hex them off."

Dr. Walter B. Shelley, chairman of dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, reported in "Family Health," a magazine, that he has "a dermatologist friend whose biggest therapeutic aid in the case of warts is a very ordinary shiny bracelet. She tells a youngster to wear it until the wart is gone. Believe it or not, it works. The wart disappears in a few weeks."

Tuna dish served on noodle bed

You're a smart homemaker and you're a good money-manager—but the budget is low, low, low. How about serving a new kind of hot dish, a hearty tuna main dish? Tuna Marinara is one that's easy on the bank account, easy to make, and easy to like.

Tuna Marinara is a quick, convenient combination of canned tomatoes, tomato sauce and canned tuna in vegetable oil, lightly seasoned with onion, oregano, basil and, of course, Parmesan cheese. Everyone goes for these familiar Italian flavors. What makes this dish a little different is that it's served with green noodles. Have you ever tried green noodles? They're made with spinach and are a delicious and colorful change from the usual pasta.

In a period of rising food costs, not only is canned tuna still economical, it is also an excellent source of body building protein. Do you know tuna is comparable to lean beef in complete protein? So, two good reasons for making Tuna Marinara your next dinner are economy and good nutrition. A third good reason is—your family will enjoy this satisfying main dish!

And you know what else? It actually is so easy to put together, your junior assistant can probably fix it for you, if you're busy!

TUNA MARINARA

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
- 2 medium onions, thinly sliced
- 1 can (1 pound) tomatoes
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- ½ teaspoon EACH dried leaf oregano and basil
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 6 ounces green noodles, cooked
- Grated Parmesan cheese

Drain vegetable oil from tuna into skillet. Add onions and cook until tender but not brown. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, herbs, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 15 to 20 minutes, or until slightly thickened. Add tuna; heat to serving temperature. Serve with hot cooked noodles. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

New finger sandwiches make a hit

A variation on a ham sandwich or finger food for a meeting of the bridge club is Cranberry Pockets. Pockets are made simply using slices of bread, boiled ham and jellied cranberry sauce. Bake in oven until crusty.

CRANBERRY POCKETS

- 1 loaf white bread, crusts trimmed (1 pound loaf)
- 1 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 12 to 14 boiled ham slices
- 1 can (8 ounce) jellied cranberry sauce
- Toothpicks

With a rolling pin flatten the slices of trimmed bread until thin and flexible. Brush one side with butter. Trim ham slices so they are the same size as the slices of bread. Put ham slices on top of buttered side of bread. Cut cranberry sauce into ½-inch thick slices and cut each slice into halves. Place one half on top of each slice of ham. Fold over to make a triangular shaped pocket. Fasten 2 corners together with a toothpick. Brush both sides of pockets with remaining melted butter. Bake in 400-degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes or until pockets are brown and crusty.

Cook's dilemma

Housewives in Puno, Peru, cook three-minute eggs for six minutes because of the city's altitude of 12,506 feet. The oxygen-thin air in the city beside Lake Titicaca robs automobile engines of 30 per cent of their rated horsepower.

Jelly and preserves sandwiches take to outdoors

The true lover of nature enjoys the out-of-doors in any season. He is the one who finds cold winter winds that lightly sting the face refreshing and invigorating. To him good health brings vitality. His taste in food, generally pure, basic and simple, reflects his concern for a well nourished body. When calorie-demanding activities such as skiing, ice skating or tobogganing find his energy reserves slumping, he'll be glad to have a powerhouse of energy tucked away in his backpack to revive exhausted spirits.

Preserves and jellies which are made from pure natural ingredients provide quick energy in all of these make-ahead sandwiches. High-quality nutrients from the protein-rich fillings and vitamin enriched breads help to balance the daily diet. The great beauty of these sandwiches is that they can survive a number of severe temperature changes and still remain perfectly safe to eat because the ingredients do not spoil easily.

The Dare Devils Delight is a hearty sandwich which deliciously blends two favorites, ham and pineapple. Preparation time is quick because the bread is simply spread with canned deviled ham and pineapple preserves. Sliced green pepper rings and lettuce add a final colorful touch.

Although it may look like a sandwich, the Toboggan Treat is really a between meal high-protein snack that calls for thinly sliced pound cake instead of bread. Apricot preserves are blended with chopped pecans and grated orange rind for half of the filling. Creamy peanut butter adds a rich nutty flavor to the other half.

To save precious backpack space, these compact Jelly Logs are a taste delight any sportsperson will love. Crumbled coconut macaroons add a new flavor to softened cream cheese which is spread on very fresh bread. Blackberry preserves go on top, then it's rolled up and wrapped in plastic wrap or aluminum foil to keep its shape.

For those who like peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, sliced fruit can add a new dimension of texture and flavor. Apple is the accent featured in the Shish Bomber Special which combines apple jelly and thin apple slices.

Hot spiced wine, a long-time favorite, helps sparkle the spirits of the weary sportsman. This Cross Country Warmer is a traditional-tasting hot spiced wine. Instead of using sugar to sweeten the tart burgundy wine, currant jelly has been substituted and it's a perfect compliment to this fruit-flavored beverage.

These recipes which feature jams and jellies can be the beginning of new sandwich combinations, which will please all ages. Let your own imagination take over to create variations, which are fun to prepare and fun to eat.

DARE DEVILS DELIGHT

- 12 slices white, pumpernickel or protein bread
- 1 4½-ounce can deviled ham
- 6 lettuce leaves
- ½ green pepper, thinly sliced
- ¾ cup pineapple preserves

Spread half of the bread with deviled ham, top with lettuce and green pepper. Spread the other half of bread with margarine and pineapple preserves. Press 2 halves together.

TOBOGGAN TREATS

- ½ cup apricot preserves
- ¼ cup chopped pecans
- Grated rind of 1 orange
- 2-3rds cup peanut butter
- 10 thin slices pound cake

Blend apricot preserves, spread on half of the slices of pecans and orange rind; pound cake. Spread peanut butter on remaining pound cake and press together.

JELLY LOGS

- 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
- 1½ tablespoons milk
- ½ cup crumbled macaroons
- ½ cup blackberry preserves
- 6 or 8 slices white or whole wheat bread

Blend cream cheese with the milk; stir in crumbled macaroons. Cut the crusts off the bread and roll out with rolling pin. Spread with cream cheese mixture then preserves.

Roll up jelly roll style, secure with toothpicks and wrap in plastic wrap.

SHISH BOMBER SPECIAL

- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 apple, thinly sliced
- ¾ cup peanut butter
- ¾ cup apple jelly
- 12 thin slices white bread

Mix lemon juice with water. Dip apple slices in lemon-water to prevent darkening. Spread half of the bread with peanut butter and jelly. Top with apple slices and remaining halves of bread.

CROSS COUNTRY WARMER

- ½ cup currant jelly
- ½ cup water
- 1 quart burdungy wine
- 3 or 4 cinnamon sticks
- 1 orange sliced
- 1 lemon sliced

Heat and stir jelly until smooth; blend in water and wine. Add remaining ingredients, cover and heat to simmering. Do not boil.

Main dish not too tart or too sweet

A hearty winter main course dish that's neither too tart nor too sweet combines spareribs, yams, pineapple, onion and green pepper in a honey-base sauce.

POLYNESIAN YAM AND SPARERIB DINNER

- 6 pounds pork spareribs, cut in serving size pieces
- 1 can (20 ounces) pineapple rings in juice
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 1 can (6 ounces) unsweetened pineapple juice
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1½ tablespoons cornstarch
- ¼ cup wine vinegar
- ¼ cup honey
- 1 green pepper, cut in strips
- 6 medium yams, cooked, peeled and halved or 3 cans (16 ounces each) yams drained

Place pork spareribs in a single layer in shallow roasting pan. Bake uncovered in 450-degree oven 50 to 60 minutes or until ribs are browned. Turn ribs once. Pour off fat. Reduce heat to 350 degrees.

Drain pineapple rings, reserving juice. Melt butter in 6-ounce can pineapple juice and saute until golden. Add reserved pineapple juice, and soy sauce. Combine cor- large saucepan. Add onions nstarch with vinegar and stir into juice mixture. Stir constantly until mixture comes to a boil. Simmer 1 minute, stirring occasionally. Blend in honey; add pineapple rings, green pepper and yams. Stir gently. Place half of spareribs in large shallow baking pan. Cover with half of yam and sauce mixture. Repeat layers. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Research targets in on cancer cells

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — A research team at the Washington University Medical Center said today it is making "promising progress" in the search for new methods of selecting and destroying cancer cells.

The basic approach, combining immunology and chemotherapy, "allows a more specific target for tumor cell killing," said Dr. Gordon Philpott, a member of the group. "Although this approach was suggested over 50 years ago, the demonstration of its potential depended upon exciting new information in tumor immunology.

"Recent evidence from many sources has shown that tumors contain antigens which are not found in normal tissues," Philpott said. "Antigens help the body produce antibodies, which destroy or neutralize bacteria and infectious disease. Antibodies, in turn, will selectively 'bind' to tumor cells and not to normal cells.

"This research group has found that when antibodies are chemically fortified with potent toxins or enzymes, they can selectively 'kill' tumor cells and not normal cells," he said.

The research team, headed by Dr. Charles W. Parker, includes Dr. Richard Aach and Dr. William T. Shearer, all of the Washington University School of Medicine. Their work in experimental models so far "strongly indicates" that cancer cells can be destroyed through the use of a number of chemically fortified antibodies.

Philpott emphasized that this line of attack is only one of many promising approaches for improving cancer therapy.

"Radium therapy and surgery have a great deal to offer, particularly in conjunction with each other, but we are enthused about new information in immunological therapy," Philpott said.

Rod spared more often for girls than boys in California schools

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California children were on the receiving end of 46,022 classroom spankings during the past school year, according to a special state study released today.

Boys suffered spankings 18 times more often than girls, who were paddled on only 2,146 occasions during the 1972-73 school year, the report said.

The study, prepared by the state Department of Education, was the first of its kind to assess the extent of corporal punishment in California.

It said that seven per cent of California's 1,054 school districts forbid spanking. Ten districts require the use of corporal punishment. Most of the remaining districts permit spanking, but urge that it be used sparingly.

Assemblyman Raymond Gonzales, D-Bakersfield, who requested the study, said he did not know how to interpret the fact that boys were paddled far more often than girls.

"Is it that boys get into trouble more than girls do, or are school officials more prone to punishing boys physically? he remarked in an interview.

"I personally don't think corporal punishment is the way to curb undesirable behavior," Gonzales added. "But if it is valid, it seems it would be just as valid to use with girls as boys."

Gonzales said he did not know if the study would prompt new legislation this year. Proposals to ban corporal punishment have been killed by the legislature in recent years.

The statewide survey showed that 37,594 spankings were administered to boys while only 2,146 girls were paddled. The remaining 6,282 reported cases of corporal punishment did not identity the sex of the student.

The report did not offer an explanation for the disperity, but noted that some districts specifically forbid spanking of girls.

Some 603 districts report that spanking was done with paddles while 336 districts said it was administered by hand. Other districts have authorized "belts, light straps and yardsticks," the study said.

"I appears that all districts which use corporal punishment do so only after other means of correction have failed," the report said. "In most instances, the building principal determines whether corporal punishment should be used."

However, the study said, "several administrators in agricultural areas reported that they received complaints from parents that they wanted their children paddled rather than suspended from school."

There were 605 parental complaints about spankings reported to either administrators, school boards or to the courts, the study added.

All but 89 districts require witnesses to be present when corporal punishment is administered.

Only 200 of the 974 school districts responding to the survey said they required permission of parents before corporal punishment is used.

"However, many districts indicate as a practice they do obtain prior parental permission," the report said. "If the parent does not agree, then corporal punishment is not administered."

Cuban refugee couple shot to death

By DONALD P. MYERS

DALLAS (UPI) — Gustavo and Maria Cuello, refugees from Fidel Castro's Communist regime in Cuba, saved for 10 years to buy their own grocery store. The last item Cuello sold in his store was a ham sandwich. The man who bought it killed the couple.

The killer escaped with $50.

"When Castro came into power he took our store away," Julio, the Cuellos' oldest son, said Wednesday. "Now it has been taken away again—for $50. It's so unbelievable, for $50."

Julio says Mondays are usually a slow day at the La Chica Grocery Store and his parents seldom kept much money in the store even on good business days.

The couple was alone in the store when the killer walked in around 3:45 p.m. He ordered a ham sandwich. Cuello, a gregarious outgoing man who spoke little English, sold the killer the sandwich for 52 cents. Instead of eating it, the customer pulled a pistol, told Maria and Gustavo to take eight steps to a walk-in cooler and ordered them to kneel. The killer fired a single shot in to the back of their heads, took the money from the cash register and fled.

"Right now we don't have any clues," Homicide Capt. Jack Davis said. "I can't say that we have made any progress."

The Cuellos owned a hardware store in Cuba that was seized by Castro's government. They were left with nothing.

"We always talked about going to America, but it wasn't that easy," Julio, 32, said. "They sent the children first. There were three of us—myself and my brothers, Jose and Gustavo."

The family lived in Miami for several months and then moved to Dallas. They spoke no English.

"But they learned quickly and didn't let anything get them down. My father found a job at a publishing company and my mother worked as a seamstress. Everything they made, they saved. My father believed you were only a free man if you were in business for yourself.

They bought the store two years ago.

"We didn't come here to make money," he said wiping his sleeve across his face but failing to hide his tears. "We came to America because it was the land of freedom. Freedom is everything. Without it you have nothing.

"My father loved this country. You can't penalize America for the person who did this. Whoever did this isn't human. I'm sure my father would feel the same way."

The day after Gustavo and Maria Cuello were murdered, their sixth grandchild was born to Jose and his wife. The parents named the infant girl Maria in memory of a grandmother she can never see.

Kennedy and Johnson used tapes--Saxbe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson used sophisticated taping equipment in the White House, according to Attorney General William B. Saxbe.

At a news conference Wednesday, he said "people in a position to know" had told him so.

Saxbe said the Kennedy and Johnson tapes were of better quality than the Nixon tapes sought by federal and Senate Watergate investigators. He said Nixon's taping system was "pretty sorry" and "not a very sophisticated outfit," which helped explain the difficulty reported in monitoring the Nixon tapes.

Reporters recalled that aides to both former presidents have denied that Johnson or Kennedy had secretly recorded their office or telephone conversations.

Shining glaze adds to all ham dishes

Smoked ham, no matter how you slice it, seems to call for a shining glaze. And nothing could be simpler to achieve. When a whole ham or a half ham is to be glazed, the easy way to do it, is to bake the ham according to the directions on the wrapper (or, if it's a ready-to-eat ham, heat as recommended). Then, about ½ hour before the ham is done, remove it from the oven, score the fat and stud it with cloves. For a delicious "lazy" glaze, simply pour a thick layer of dark corn syrup over the ham and continue baking. Pour on more corn syrup from time to time during this half hour.

Many other meats such as spareribs, pork roast or canned luncheon meat can also be glazed by pouring the syrup on directly from the bottle during the last of the baking period.

It's easy to make a fruit flavored brush-on glaze with corn syrup, too. Such a glaze is used on the broiled ham steak with sweet potatoes and peaches.

The recipe for the Glazed Ham Steak with Sweet Potatoes as well as a recipe for Glazed Ham Loaf and for Easy Glazed Onions are included today. All of these recipes were developed in the Karo kitchens at Best Foods.

Glazed Ham and Sweet Potatoes

¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon orange rind
¼ cup orange juice
1 fully cooked ham steak, cut 1 inch thick (about 1½ pounds)
Whole cloves (optional)
4 parboiled, medium-size sweet potatoes, peeled
4 canned peach halves thoroughly drained

Mix together corn syrup, sugar, orange rind and juice in 1-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved and mixture comes to boil. Trim fat from ham, if necessary. Make diagonal cuts into remaining fat. Stud with cloves, if desired. Place ham and potatoes on rack in broiler pan. Brush with syrup mixture. Broil 6 to 8 inches from source of heat, basting occasionally, about 15 minutes. Turn ham and potatoes; add peaches. Brush with syrup. Broil, basting occasionally, 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Glazed Ham Loaf

3½ cups ground cooked ham (about 1 pound)
½ pound ground veal
½ pound ground beef
2 cups cubes of day old bread
1 egg, slightly beaten
¾ cup milk
¼ cup catchup
2-3rds cup chopped celery
2-3rds cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
8 drained pineapple spears

Lightly combine ham, veal, beef, bread cubes, egg, milk, catchup, celery, onion, parsley salt, poultry seasoning, and pepper. Pour corn syrup into 1 (9 x 5 x 3-inch) loaf pan. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Arrange pineapple spears in mixture, forming 2 diamond shapes. Spoon meat mixture into loaf pan on top of pineapple. Bake in 350 degree oven about 1 hour or until well browned. Pour off drippings, then unmold to serve. Makes 8 servings.

Quick Glazed Onion

2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons dark corn syrup
2 tablespoons water
1 pound small white onions, peeled

Mix together margarine, corn syrup and water in saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat. Add onions; cover and boil gently 25 minutes or until onions are tender and liquid is reduced to about ¼ cup. Uncover and cook, stirring constantly, about 5 minutes or until onions are glazed. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

This would have pleased Washington

A frugal man, the Father of our Country watched his pennies rather closely. But Washington was also a well-traveled man and is known to have appreciated fine cuisine. This new recipe for Colonial Mini-Meat loaves, one likes to imagine, would have pleased our first President immensely.

Mini-meatloaves are made from moderately priced ground beef and take only 25 minutes of baking time, less than half the time usually required to make meat loaf. In this energy-short era, that makes it even patriotic. Use muffin cups to make the innovatively shaped little loaves.

The combination of tart prepared yellow mustard and hearty molasses, a stable in colonial times, gives the recipe an unusual and delicious flavor. A patriotic touch is added through a star-shaped cheese garnish, easily formed with a little cookie cutter and placed on each mini loaf.

Molded Cherry Salad, using both cherry-flavored gelatin and canned sweet cherries, is an appropriate and refreshing accompaniment. A tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce adds a zesty touch.

Complete your Washington's Birthday meal with scalloped potatoes, mixed vegetables, vanilla pudding and cookies, and glasses of milk or coffee. The menu provides servings from each of the four food groups needed daily to maintain top fitness. That would have certainly pleased the General who survived that terrible winter at Valley Forge.

COLONIAL MINI-MEATLOVES

1 egg
¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
2 tablespoons molasses
1 pound ground beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
Sliced American cheese

Combine egg, mustard and molasses in mixing bowl. Add ground beef and bread crumbs; mix lightly. Spoon into 6 or 8 well-greased muffin cups or custard cups. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cut star shapes from cheese using small cookie cutter; top each mini-meatloaf with a star and, if desired, a small American flag. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

MOLDED CHERRY SALAD

1 can (1 pound) pitted dark sweet cherries
1 package (3 ounces) cherry flavored gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup chopped celery
1 green pepper, chopped

Drain cherries; measure ¾ cup syrup. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cherry syrup and Worcestershire sauce. Chill until partially thickened. Stir in drained cherries, celery, and green pepper. Pour into lightly oiled 1½-quart mold. Chill until set. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Collection of diamonds will tour

NEW YORK (UPI) — The De Beers Diamond Engagement Ring Collection will be taken on tour in the United States this spring.

De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd., headquartered in London, is the world's leading marketer of diamonds.

Its collection is comprised of 50 engagement rings which have won prizes in design competitions held during the last 10 years.

Broil frozen steaks longer

Hard-frozen steaks need one-fourth to two times as much broiling time as the corresponding fresh cuts. Because frozen steaks need slower cooking, they should be placed at least four inches from heat so the outside isn't overdone before the interior is done.

2 sparkly treats that use raisins

In tune with the "back to basics" food trend, and just in time to bring a little sunshine into winter days, here are some delicious ideas for an informal, yet elegant brunch.

Whether it's just family, friends or out-of-town guests, you'll be sure to please everyone when you serve homemade oatmeal pancakes and bread, two delightfully different brunch ideas, studded for extra wholesomeness with juicy, plump raisins.

Children will have fun digging into the pancakes, especially if you make them dollar-size and cover them with syrup or tangy raisin sauce. The pancake recipe is easy to prepare, and it makes 60 delicious dollar-size pancakes — enough for any brunch crowd.

Sunshine Bread is made with essentially the same ingredients as the pancakes, plus the delicious zip of buttermilk. It could be the feature of a scrambled egg menu; or a special coffee time treat.

Now's the time to take raisins off the stand-by shelf and add new sparkle to lighter meals. Tomorrow, try adding a handful of raisins to the oatmeal as it cooks.

Or, to make an old favorite fruit compote faster and more festive, simmer raisins with other dried fruits like apricots, peaches, and a cinnamon stick. Add freshly chopped apples, pineapple chunks or just about any other fruit coming into season; cool and keep your compote in the refrigerator for breakfast fruit, a brunch highlight or dinner dessert in the days ahead.

And above all, don't forget raisins as a naturally sweet, quick energy snack. Call on them whenever you need a pick-me-up or a fuss-free wholesome dessert for the youngsters.

RAISIN SUNSHINE PANCAKES

½ cup boiling water
¾ cup (4 ounces) chopped, pitted dates
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅔ tablespoon grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
2 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup buttermilk
⅛ cup unsifted flour
½ cup rolled oats (regular or quick)
1-3rd cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup golden raisins

Pour boiling water over dates and butter. Stir until butter is melted; set aside. When mixture has cooled to room temperature, stir in rind, juice, eggs and buttermilk. In a bowl, combine the remaining seven ingredients. Add to the date mixture and stir just until blended. Heat griddle (an electric one is recommended). Spoon batter onto hot griddle, using 1 scant tablespoon per pancake. Serve at once, with butter and syrup.

RAISIN SUNSHINE BREAD

1 cup boiling water
1 package (about 8 ounces) pitted dates, chopped
¼ cup butter or margarine
1½ tablespoons grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups unsifted flour
2 cups rolled oats (regular or quick)
2-3rds cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup raisins

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 2(9" x 5" x 3") loaf pans. Pour boiling water over dates and butter in small mixing bowl. Stir until butter melts; set aside. When mixture has cooled to room temperature, blend in grated orange rind, juice and eggs.

In a large bowl, combine the flour, oats, sugar, soda, baking powder, salt and raisins. Add the date mixture to the dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Pour batter into prepared pans. Bake in preheated oven about 1 hour, or until a wooden pick, inserted in center, comes out clean. Cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove from pan, place loaves on wire rack until cool. Makes 2 loaves.

Pan is important in baking recipes

Are you sometimes frustrated by following baked goods recipes that produce too brown or unevenly browned pies, cookies, and cakes? If improper browning has been a problem for you, check the baking pans you're now using.

Tests show that proper use of good quality baking pans in the size recommended in the recipe provides for best baking results.

The pans you use may be too dark. Dark pans absorb more heat . . . like a dark car on a hot day. For cakes and cookies, aluminum is recommended since it allows heat to spread uniformly. The shiny surface reflects heat and prevents overbrowning.

You can easily check your pan material with a household magnet. The magnet will not cling to aluminum.

Cookies are sometimes too brown even when baked on aluminum. In this case, the cookie sheet used may have been too large. Heat can be trapped under the sheet and prevented from circulating in the oven. Be sure there is two inches of clearance on all sides of the sheet.

When using glass baking dishes for cakes, bread, rolls and biscuits, lower the oven temperature 25 degrees from that called for in the recipe. Glass absorbs the heat and bakes faster. Lowering the oven temperature is not necessary for pies, casseroles and meats baked in glass dishes.

It is sometimes necessary to use a pan that does absorb heat. For golden browning of freshly prepared pies, use a heat absorbing pie pan made of dark tin, anodized aluminum, glass, or stainless steel.

Frozen pie will have a soggy, underdone bottom crust if package directions are not followed. Frozen pie manufacturers usually recommend baking the pie on an aluminum cookie sheet in order to conduct heat to the bottom crust. Use of the sheet is necessary since the shiny aluminum pans used for frozen pies refelect the heat and prevent browning.

If pie crust edges brown too quickly, slow the browning process by forming a 1½-inch collar of aluminum foil around the pie. Remember to remove the collar during the last 10 to 15 minutes of baking.

TODAY'S Women

Girl Scouts to decorate at hospital

Members of Brownie Troop 388 are making floral sweetheart centerpieces for the tables at the San Dimas Hospital as a service project on Valentine's Day.

The troop is a part of Las Cabalieras Neighborhood, District IV, Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council.

Participating in the project are Ingrid Barauskas, Mia Chikamori, Kelley Feldsott, Dale Ganley, Debbie Harper, Rhonda Jaridly, Judy Marin, Virginia Melton, Linda Moon, Leslie Morlock, Jenny Owings, Margie Pederson, Staci Sedita, Katheryn Spence, Denise Tiller, Michelle Webb, Marlene Weber and Stacey Yamamoto.

Mrs. James Harper is leader and Mrs. Paul Ganley, Mrs. Stanley Barauskas and Mrs. Bruce Spence are assistant leaders.

PLAN DAY — Mrs. Bernard Higgins, Mrs. Robert Duncan and Mrs. Robert Andreasen get acquainted with Grand Artist, a thoroughbred horse, as they discuss plans for Saturday Day at the Races.

Swanson and Goens vows are exchanged

The First Baptist Church of Chino was the setting for the marriage of Miss Christine A. Goens and Albert L. Swanson. The Rev. A. Thomas Gibbony officiated at the evening rites.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa J. Goens of Chino was given in marriage by James Lyons. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Swanson Sr. of Chino.

The bride wore a gown of white lace fashioned with a scoop neckline and long puffed sleeves with lace cuffs. A small lace cap held the bride's veil draped into a train. She carried a bouquet of carnations and a chain of daisies.

Mrs. Dianne Lyons was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Janet Keen, a sister of the bride, and Mrs. Sandra Delgado. The flower girl was Tracy Lynn Lyons and Timmy Glen Lyons was ring bearer.

Danny Goens was best man while Victor Swanson Jr., the groom's brother, and Walter Keene ushered.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the rites. The newlyweds are making their home in Ontario and plan a spring honeymoon in Washington.

Snow and rain

Don't wear your best light-colored pants when it snows or rains — you may drag cuffs through slush or kick water up the back while walking.

Don't bare all

A slinky bare look can be ruined with a show of underwear — make sure your bra doesn't show under arms, at shoulders or behind your back.

Pomonan is runner-up

Mrs. Delia Perez of Pomona, a student at Mr. Papac's Beauty College, was first runner-up in the senior student hairstyling contest held at Griswold's Pavilion in Claremont on Sunday.

The Hairstyling Festival was sponsored by the Mt. San Antonio Affiliate 17.

Her model was Mrs. Fran Dow of La Verne, who is also a student at the beauty college.

Day at races scheduled Saturday

The Benedictine Guild of St. Lucy's Priory in Glendora has scheduled its fourth day at the races as a benefit for the priory.

The party will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday at Santa Anita Racetrack clubhouse patio. A buffet luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m., and the first race is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Journalism to be topic for meeting

"Women in Journlism" is the topic for discussion at an open meeting of the National League of American Pen Women, Claremont Branch, on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at Pomona First Federaal Savings and Loan, Indian Hill and Foothill Boulevards, Claremont.

Mrs. Evelyn Moore, branch member and former newspaper woman in Panama, will introduce the speakers, Mrs. Phyllis Cannon of the Progress-Bulletin and Mrs. Barbara Rauch of the Claremont Courier.

All interested women are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Alice Riddington, president, and Mrs. Harriet White, membership chairman.

It's time to get back into things!

SANDRA REHM

Wedding plans set by couple

A July 6 wedding is being planned by Miss Sandra Lea Rehm and Russell Graham Copple.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Rehm of Chino are parents of the bride-elect. She is a student at Chino High School and is employed part time at Kalin Cactus Nursery of Norco.

Mr. Copple is the son of Leon H. Copple of Chino. He attended Chino High School and is in the Navy, serving aboard the USS Truxton, based in Bremerton, Wash.

Self defense course opens in Claremont

A course in self defense, for women only, will begin Thursday at 7 p.m. in the wrestling room at Memorial Gym at the Claremont Colleges.

Open to all interested women in the community, the five-week course will be taught by Mrs. Vera Altman, a physical education instructor in Claremont and coordinator of the Women in Sports unit of Pomona Valley of National Organization for Women.

A fee of $12 will be charged. This includes an instructional manual. For more information, interested women may call 623-4638.

Ask The Cook

By Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN:

Please, could you tell me why my cakes fall and shrink when I take them from the oven? I have all my ingredients at room temperature, preheat the oven to correct temperature, use correct mixer speed and even had my oven tested. This happens whether I make my own cakes or use a mix. They raise beautifully, then they fall. I've been baking for 30 years but have had this trouble for the past six months. E. J. T. West Mifflin, Pa.

There just has to be something wrong with your oven if you have this trouble consistently with all kinds of cakes. Oven settings do get off kilter every now and then, so I use a portable oven thermometer as a double check against my automatic setting. My range is the kind where I can remove the control knob, correct the problem by twisting a little interior pointer up or down as indicated. The spindle under the knob can swing too easily — that's what causes trouble. Until I learned this I was paying fat service calls.

Otherwise, the reasons for cakes sink-and-shrink is due to too much leavening (baking powder or soda) or not enough baking time at proper temperature for the air cells to set. Don't move a cake to give it a center test if it still looks wobbly in the center, because the minute you poke it with tester or straw it collapses. Undermixing can be another cause. It is as important to use the beater for specified time as it is to use correct speed but I'm still betting your oven is faulty one way or another.

DEAR NAN:

I don't know what kind of vinegar to use for various things, the white or dark. Only once have I seen instructions and that was to use white vinegar when rinsing clothes. What color should I use for shampoo rinses, window washing, dishes, etc? Mary Aldrich. Norway, Maine.

White vinegar is used in canning when you don't want vegetables to darken, as with cauliflower in mixed pickles. Otherwise I use cider vinegar for just about everything; salad dressing, marinades, cleaning, and so on. A hairdresser once told me he could always tell if a woman used a vinegar rinse because it gave her hair a red cast. So when mine started to turn silvery. I quit for fear I'd wind up with pink hair!

Let your children experiment in the kitchen. With the help found in the booklet, "Kids in the Kitchen — Tots or Teens," it can be a successful venture. Send 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nan Wiley, 715 Locust St., Des Moines, Iowa, 50304.

Auxilians plan tea in Chino

The Chino General Hospital Auxiliary has planned a Valentine's Day tea Thursday honoring the chief of staff, Dr. George Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, and Dr. Jack Little, newest member of the hospitaal staff, and Mrs. Little.

The tea will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Thursday in the Patient's Lounge at the hospital.

Bethel 47 sets dinner this evening

Bethel 47, International Order of Job's Daughters, has scheduled a dime-a-dip dinner at 5:30 tonight at the Masonic Temple.

At 7 p.m., the mother and fathers of members and guardians will be honored.

A lasagna dinner is scheduled Feb. 27 at the Masonic Temple from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Committee chairmen are Tammy Jordan, Debbie Cook, Tammy and Tracy Siebert and Mel Saxe and their mothers.

Valentine luncheon scheduled

The Walnut Valley Women's Club has scheduled a membership valentine luncheon Thursday for women in the community interested in joining the group.

The 11 a.m. luncheon will be at the home of Mrs. Wilson Hume, 20420 Shadow Mountain Road, Walnut. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Hume, (213) 934-7043 or Mrs. George Piccioni, 595-3324

Walnut Valley Women's Club is a member of the California and National Federation of Women's Clubs. The organization promotes many local, state and national efforts.

The purpose of detergent

The purpose of a washing detergent is to force dirt off fabric and hold it in suspension in the washwater until drained.

Baptist convention takes no stand

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — The Baptist General Convention has passed a resolution which neither supports nor condemns abortion.

The convention asked its Human Welfare Commission and Christian Life Committee to make a "continuing study" of the question and report to the full commission.

NOW sets awards dinner

Pomona Valley Chapter of the National Organization for Women will hold its second annual Susan B. Anthony awards dinner Friday in the Unitarian Church Hall, 9185 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair. The dinner will honor the 154th anniversary of the birth of the women's rights leader.

Five area women will be given recognition for their efforts to promote equal rights for women. They are Barbara Rauch, Claremont Courier news writer; Jessie Haver Butler, NOW Child Care Task Force coordinator and early suffragette; Cathy Foster and Phyllis Mack, project coordinators for the Pomona Open Door program, Sisters in Service to End Rape; and Dr. Gloria Lothrop, assistant professor of history and president of the Women's Advisory Council at Cal Poly, Pomona.

Open to all NOW members and the general public, the lasagna dinner will be served at 8 p.m. Mrs. Laura Vazetti is coordinator for the evening activities.

Information about future NOW events will be announced during the dinner, which replaces the February general meeting. For more information interested persons may call 624-8737.

Red Cross seeking volunteers

Volunteer workers for both the chapter office and the blood bank are urgently needed at the Pomona Red Cross chapter house.

At the present time the greatest need is in the chapter office typing, filing and general office work for a few hours each week at the volunteer's convenience.

The blood bank needs typists, clerical workers and donor aides. Pomona chapter has two blood banks each week, Tuesdays from 3 to 6:30 p.m. and Wednesdays from 1:30 to 5 p.m. at 420 N. Reservoir St.

A brief orientation is provided and there are no costs to the volunteers. Women over the age of 18 who are interested in becoming a Red Cross volunteer are asked to call the chapter, 629-7455.

June 8 wedding planned

A June 8 wedding is being planned by Miss Elvie Gil and Frank Paul Rico.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Alfred Gil and Mrs. Alice Gil Gomez of Cucamonga. She is a 1969 graduate of Pomona Catholic Girls High School and attended Chaffey College.

EVLIE GIL

Miss Gil is employed at Occidental Life Insurance Company as a supervisor for the Medicare correspondence department.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rico of Diamond Bar. He is a 1970 graduate of Ganesha High School and attended Mt. San Antonio College.

Mr. Rico is employed at the Los Angeles Water and Power Building in the library department.

Foot find

A sporty look to a classic — moccasins on a small platform paired with argyle socks — perfect accompaniment to slacks.

LINDI SOPER

May 18 wedding charted

Miss Lindi Soper and Fred Abacherli will be married on May 18.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Soper Jr. of Chino. She graduated from Chino High School in 1973 and is employed at First Western Bank, Pomona.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Abacherli of Ontario are parents of the groom-to-be. He graduated from Damien High School in 1968 and served four years in the Navy.

Mr. Abacherli is employed on his father's dairy.

Luncheon planned by NABA unit

The North American Benefit Association will meet for a potluck luncheon at noon Friday in the home of Mrs. Edith Corder, 8389 Baker Ave., Space 58, Cucamonga.

Plans will be made for attendance at the quadrennial state convention to be held March 14-16 in Palo Alto at the Cabana Hyatt House.

Mrs. Dorothy Sandford will be the delegate from the local club and Mrs. Mary Watkins will be the alternate.

The Supreme convention of the organization will be held at the Fairmont-Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans, La., July 15-18.

High boots

Ankle and calf-high boots are best kept under slacks and not worn with light-colored stockings and knee-length skirts. Best height is right below the knee worn with dark stockings.

GOP pros poised for aggressive campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican party professionals are organizing early for an aggressive 1974 election campaign, and showing no sign of Watergate shellshock.

The GOP National Committee obtained nuts and bolts files from the Committee to Re-elect the President after it folded quietly near the end of last year, and expects to make some use of the contributor and ethnic lists. However, the pros say some of the other work was amateurish —sloppy versions of campaign documents prepared by the committee itself.

Committee lawyers have hung a no-trespass sign on money still held in the name of the Nixon campaign committee, warning that if the National Committee touched any of it, it might open itself to be named as co-defendant in any lawsuits seeking damages.

The professionals do not think lack of money will prevent the GOP from waging effective campaigns this year. That is not to say that a shortage of money is not a problem now. It is.

Lack of funds have curtailed activity at the national headquarters. The committee so far has been able to arrange only for seven field directors to deal with candidates in the field. They hope to have 10.

The National Committee will be dealing with candidates mostly through the regional directors to avoid a Washington emphasis. They hope to make use of Vice President Gerald Ford and House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona as trouble-shooters to talk to candidates when campaigns go wrong.

The National Committee has set up improved working relationships with Republican House and Senate campaign committees. Candidates will find that the campaign committees are geared to offer considerably more than money this year.

Expanded research and technical staffs are planned to provide campaign services to Republican candidates running for the House, Senate and governor. All 435 House seats, one third of the Senate, and 35 governorships are up for election in November.

The Republican professionals are not discounting Watergate, but there's not much they can do about it and they are determined to avoid a defeatist attitude until it blows over.

In some districts, there has been a GOP search for "Mr. Clean" to carry the banners. However, the professionals mave a mistrust for candidates who have not proved themselves in previous campaigns. They have found that more often than not, the novice plunging into the big-time makes a fool of himself in a major campaign.

The Republican professionals don't go along with the theory that incumbents are in trouble because Watergate may have generated a voter rebellion against all politicians. They are not inclined to make sweeping national predictions because they plan for each race as a separate campaign unto itself, with little consideration for the national picture. However one top Republican sees a chance for the party to come out this way in November:

A stalemate in the Senate; a slight gain for the GOP in governorships (the Republicans hold only 18 now); a Republican pickup of perhaps eight to 12 seats in the House.

If that prediction —or hope — comes to pass, it would mean that the Republican party had survived the worst scandal in its history better than most people expect.

Scholarships in photography set

NEW YORK (UPI) — Junior or senior high school students in the United States and Canada are invited to enter the 1974 Scholastic-Kodak Photography Awards.

Awards totaling $6,000 will be given to 220 winners. Prizes will include two college scholarship grants and a scholarship for a six-week summer study travel program in Europe for four seniors submitting the best portfolios.

For more information, interested students should write to: Scholastic Photography Awards, 50 W. 44th St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

Getting chilled will not cause a cold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Studies have shown that getting chilled definitely will not cause the common cold. And that's good.

The reason there are more colds in winter—when it is cold—than in summer is that people are indoors far more in winter than summer, clustering together and spreading

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenance are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guaranteed mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities. Wheel alignment and balance service available, at regular charge.

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable dut o (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out.

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge.
